The Poetic Bishop.
As Chelmsford's bishop reminded of "once upon a time," his lordship could not well resist a tendency to rhyme. His South End congregation heard with unconcealed amazement the following quatrain absurd on penny-pious ways: "He dropped a penny in the plate, and meekly raised his eyes; one week's rent was duly paid for mansions in the skies." His ministry at Bethnal Green, the bishop did explain, found such odd questions intervene as "Who was wife to Cain?" The man who made this ancient quest, the bishop said, had shown a vastly greater interest in Cain's wife than his own. If canons, vicars, curates, too, would only preach in rhythm, their congregations' nods would show they took their hearers with 'em.—London Chronicle.

Editorial Answer to Maas

When we published Mr. Geo. A. Maas' letter last week we felt certain he was mistaken in some way, but, of course, we could not tell exactly how. Under date of April 27, however, Mr. J. D. Mickle, our former state dairy and food commissioner, writes us as follows, clearing up the matter:

To the Editor: You have given much valuable space in the The Sentinel to a discussion of the affairs of the Oregon Dairymen's Co-operative League, and your editorial comments have always been candid and fair, which we fully appreciate. Also your columns have always been open to League members and non-members alike. Your comment on the letter of one Geo. A. Maas in your issue of April 22nd is directly to the point.

Mr. Maas is not a member of the League and just what his reasons are for criticizing it are not apparent. We do not object to honest, constructive criticism. We welcome the same if given in the proper spirit. We do object, however, to twisted statements of facts and to downright statements of falsehood, such as Mr. Maas has made. For instance, in his letter he says "up to the first of April the League did not pay the dairymen a penny for delivered milk for December, January, February and March, and if a dairyman was in need of money he would have to borrow this money from the League and pay 8 per cent interest, and it does not make a particle of difference how much the League owes him for delivered milk."

One would naturally suppose that before making such a statement as the above, to be put into print over his own signature, the author would have taken the pains to assure himself that the same was true. Otherwise, such a statement shown to be untrue would tend to discredit the whole article and the veracity of its author, and that is just the position in which Mr. Maas has placed himself.

Had he made inquiry at the League office in Portland, he would have found that for the month of December, on the regular payday, which is the 25th of the following month, $2.00 per hundred weight for 3.8 was paid as a partial payment to whole milk shippers; 40c per pound butterfat was paid to sour cream shippers and 50c per pound butterfat to sweet cream shippers. For the month of January, an advance of $2.00 per hundred was made upon whole milk; 40c per pound of fat on sour cream and 50c per pound of fat on sweet cream. For February an advance of $1.75 per hundred was made upon whole milk; 30c per pound of fat on sour cream and 40c per pound of fat on sweet cream, and for March an advance of $2.02 per hundred upon whole milk, with this advance issued by check at the rate of $1.01 per hundredweight and a trade acceptance at same rate; 30c per pound fat on sour cream and 40c per pound fat on sweet cream.

The above figures pertain to Zone 1, of Portland, inasmuch as Mr. Maas seems to be quoting conditions of this Zone.

The gentleman further shows that he is not properly informed when he says that 100 pounds of milk are equal to 50 quarts. Accepted authorities place the weight of a gallon of milk at 8.6 pounds, and practically there are 46 quarts in 100 pounds.

The League does not receive 9 cents per quart for milk sold to retailers. Under the ruling of the Portland Milk Commission, which was in effect up until April 6th of this year, the consumer paid 14c per quart in the city of Portland, of which the distributor or retailer received 6.8 cents and the producer 7.2. After April 6th the dealers established the price, making 13 cents to the consumer, taking 7 cents for themselves and giving the producer 6 cents, also requiring the League to carry its own surplus, which in effect further reduced our division to 5 cents per quart.

From the tone of Mr. Maas' letter, it is quite clear that he does not know anything of these matters, and his criticism was not intended to be constructive. Therefore, we feel that we should not let it pass unnoticed, but we call attention to it as a good specimen of the propaganda that has been spread against the League.

Very truly yours, J. D. Mickle, Assistant in Organization.

Smallest Salary $900

The passage of the two mill tax for elementary schools will mean that in the future in Coos county the smallest amount of money a one-room district will receive will be $900 plus $2 per pupil, says Superintendent Mulkey. For the average rural school this means a minimum of about $940 per year. This should result in a longer term of school and perhaps a slight increase in salary for the one room teacher.

Bandon Bonds Bought

The Lumberman's Trust Co., of Portland, has purchased the Bandon municipal hydro-electric power bonds. The offer was on a basis of 95 cents on the dollar for the $110,000 issue, which is five points below par. The bonds draw 6 per cent interest and according to the terms of the bid they are to be dated May 1, 1921, and are to be come due as follows: $7000 per year between May 1, 1926, and May 1, 1939, both inclusive, and $6,000 on May 1, 1940, and May 1, 1941. The bonds are to be delivered not later than June 21, 1921, and the bidder agrees to pay accrued interest on the bonds from the date of issue to the date of delivery. Another provision is that $40,000 of the money from the sale of the bonds is to be kept on deposit with the Lumberman's Trust Co. bank at Portland until needed. On this 2 per cent interest is to be paid to the City of Bandon on daily balance.—Bandon World.
