

American Ships Now Fall Seven Seas

Two-Week Steamers, Private Boats and Tugboats for the Children Give Hint of America Provided on Sides of the New American Merchant Marine ANYWHERE in the world an American ship is no longer a stranger. That is, in the grandest sense, from the National Capital to the American people.

From every port in the country now sail stately and luxurious vessels, under the American flag, carrying passengers and cargo to every country in the globe.

The nation, through the United States Shipping Board, is flinging a new banner of independence to the world, independence of foreign vessels for American travelers and commerce.

With a great merchant fleet numbering 1,700 vessels of 15,335,000 deadweight tons (not including small ships), according to official figures compiled by the U. S. Navy, "up to" the people of the United States to keep that fleet on the ocean seas. Of this great total the United States Shipping Board owns and controls 1,700 vessels of 11,130,000 deadweight tons.

"We must make the huge corporation the largest in the world sea ever known, and make it an institution of which every American will be proud," declares Albert D. Lasker,

Facts About Diamonds

There has been so much misapprehension about diamonds published in the daily papers that the following correct statement of diamond conditions cannot help being of value.

The entire world production of diamonds comes from South Africa and Brazil, South Africa producing 90 per cent of the supply and also the better grades.

The Brazilian diamonds run to yellow colors and are intensely hard. The price of the small output of Brazil is, of course, regulated by the price of similar grades from South Africa.

The South Africa mines are owned and controlled by one of the strongest syndicates in the world. They set the price, there is no deviation. Diamonds cost as much from the syndicate today as they ever did, and the syndicate makes the positive statement—that they will not cost less.

There is but one source of supply and that is decreasing as no new mines are being found. With but one source of supply and that getting smaller, there is every reason why diamonds should cost more and they surely will when general business conditions improve.

The rough diamonds go to London, here they are shown to the various buyers; each cutter has his turn to inspect what is offered; he either buys or leaves them, and the next cutter gets a chance. If the cutter does not buy he loses his chance and must again wait his turn to see what is offered.

The result is that cutters always make the most of their chances and buy what they can, they cut and sell a lot for what they can get, in order to keep their factory running. This means they are doing business for nothing at the present time.

The result is that at the present time diamonds are selling for from 20 to 25 per cent below regular cost. It is just a case of all hands selling with practically no profit waiting for conditions to improve. Everybody knows this condition can't last very long and when the crops begin to move this fall things will begin to improve and diamonds are bound to cost more.

The above is briefly the real condition in the diamond market. The prices are controlled; they won't be less.

Big Dairymen's Picnic

A large gathering of dairymen of Coos and Curry counties met at the Bandon park today and enjoyed a rousing picnic. The affair was given by the Dairymen's Protective association, an organization of dairymen in this section who are not affiliated with the Oregon Dairymen's League.

A feature of the picnic was a ball game between the up-river dairymen and the employes of the Nestle's Food Co. When the dinner gong sounded the score stood 5 to 5. After the feed the bunch got too 'lazy to get back in the harness so the game was called a draw. Charley Fox acted as umpire.

Chas. Banch, introduced John D. Goss, of Marshfield, as the speaker of the day. Judge Goss discussed legal phases of the various issues before the local dairymen at the present time, including the recent decision of Judge Coke in the league suits.

All the dairymen present are reported to have signed up with the protective association. — Western World.

Brumfield Still at Large

Nothing new has developed the past week in the search for the missing Dr. E. M. Brumfield, of Roseburg, wanted in connection with the murder of Dennis Russell. The search has been extended into California, Nevada, Idaho and eastern Oregon, but nothing like a definite clue has been discovered.

Last week a chimney sweep, who drove in here from Roseburg, told Sheriff Ellingsen of finding some bones and human arms in a dump pile out this way from Roseburg. Sheriff Starmer was notified and he found the gruesome relics but they had nothing to do with the murder.

Sheriff Ellingsen and Deputy Sheriff Malhorn, went out to Roseburg last Saturday and on their way home made a short hunt in the mountains between here and there, but if Brumfield is hiding in this section the officials will have to wait for hunger to drive him out.

They learned one thing, however, while out there, which is that the missing doctor is a very clever female impersonator, having frequently taken that part in theatricals, and his ability to so completely change his appearance gives him a much greater chance of escape.

The sheriff's office at Roseburg has been so often misled by false rumors that they have given notice that if this systematic attempt to throw dust in their eyes and start them on blind trails is not stopped some one is going to suffer for it. From press dispatches and stories coming from Roseburg it would appear that anything which can be done to defeat the ends of justice is being done by some of Dr. Brumfield's friends.

CUT UP FAMOUS SAPPHIRE

Only Fragments Remain of Magnificent Stone That Was Worth Several Million Francs.

It is a strange story, that of the Brantick sapphire, which M. Lacombes, examining magistrate, is at present investigating. This precious stone, known as "The King of Sapphires," belonged to the Brantick family; it was bought at Frankfurt in 1840, weighed 291 carats, is said to have been worth several million francs and was taken from the hip pocket of Count Kasper Brantick at Warsaw in July, 1913, during the German occupation.

The count found himself in Paris recently, and knowing that there is an important market for precious stones in the city he thought he would ask the police to make inquiries about his sapphire. The police inspectors found in possession of a dealer in precious stones not the sapphire but portions of it. The dealer told how a few months ago he bought the sapphire for 180,000 francs from a Lithuanian dealer established near Kovno, whom he knew to be an honest man. He was aware that the stone had figured in the exhibition in Vienna in 1897 and in the Paris exhibition in 1897, and realizing that it would be difficult to get rid of it he had it cut into fragments, some of which were utilized in rings and necklaces. Of the 291 carats only 136 carats remain.

Ku Klux Klan at Eugene

Knights of the Ku Klux Klan are in Eugene.

As mysteriously as it is quiet, the organization is being formed, gathering recruits from among the best people of the city, it is understood. There is no definite information as to how this is being done, but The Guard has reason to believe that if the Klan has not already been formed, it is in the process of formation and will have several hundred members within a week.

The Ku Klux Klan boasts of being the only 100 per cent native born American secret society in existence. Its members owe no allegiance to any foreign government, political party, sect, creed or ruler, placing true, red-blooded Americanism above all else. Every member, it is said must have a legitimate occupation and his character must be above reproach.

According to information secured in Portland recently where the Klan was organized locally, its members believe in the tenets of the Christian religion, white supremacy, closer relations between capital and labor, protection of pure womanhood, preventing the causes of mob violence and lynchings, preventing unwarranted strikes by foreign labor agitators, prevention of fires and destruction of property by lawless elements, the limitation of foreign immigration, the upholding of the constitution of the United States and freedom of speech and of the press.

The organization is absolutely secret. No member talks about it, neither will there be any information given out to any person, unless he has been invited to become a member, and that invitation is only extended once.

The sub-chaser 295 which arrived in Bandon harbor Wednesday evening for the Pythian Jubilee is a peculiarly shaped vessel of the greyhound type, being over 100 feet long and not more than 25 or 30 feet wide. She carries a crew of 15 men and is fully equipped with wireless and telephone radio.
