Mrs. Culver Stricken

Mrs. P. W. Culver, the mother of Mr. Wren, the new lighthouse tender, suffered a paralytic stroke here last Thursday and is now in a critical condition that she will never overcome on account of her advanced age.

Mrs. Culver, whose home is in Myrtle Point, came here last Thursday to visit a few days with her son at the lighthouse, at the mouth of the Umpqua river, and on arriving went first to her room at the Umpqua hotel to lay down to rest after the journey from the Coos county town to wait for the lighthouse boat to arrive here to take her down to the station.

When her son arrived here to meet his mother he was not able to arouse her from her slumbers and upon trying the door without any response a ladder was raised up to the window and upon entering the room Mrs. Culver was found lying in a helpless condition.

Saturday she was taken to the Myrtle Point hospital and placed under the care of a physician. She is 74 years old and is the mother of thirteen children, seven boys and six girls.—Port Umpqua Courier.

Getting Water at Myrtle Point

The city has been sinking a well on the side hill east of the depot this week, and reports an exceptional flow of water, which looks very promising. At present it is estimated that the water is coming into the well at the rate of 150 gallons per minute and it is with difficulty that it is kept clear to permit of further sinking, which will be pushed as rapidly as possible to bedrock and is believed will furnish sufficient flow to solve the city's water problem, satisfactorily. If so an electric pump will probably be installed at once and connected with the main on Maple Street.—American.
