Lassen Still Raided

Martin Lassen, a dairyman living near Norway, was fined $500 by Justice Dodge on the charge of operating a still on his place, says a Myrtle Point letter to the Times. A ninety-day jail sentence was also imposed but upon the plea of Claude H. Giles that Lassen had no one to look after 47 head of dairy cows on the ranch if he was sent to jail, Justice Dodge suspended the jail term.

Lassen is a bachelor and comfortably well to do. He was raided by Marshal Radell, of Myrtle Point, who found several gallons of moonshine, two barrels of mash and a copper boiler still and copper coils. It was located in his house. Lassen rents the place but owns the stock. He is middle-aged. He was alleged to be the principal source of supply for Myrtle Point and Marshal Radell figured out that it wasn't straight cow's milk that was the cause of Lassen's popularity.

STOCK RUNNING AT LARGE UPON COUNTY ROADS

In the County Court of the State of Oregon, In and For the County of Coos

In the matter of Live Stock running upon the County Road.

It appears that there are many precincts and road districts in Coos County where it is unlawful for live stock to run at large, and particularly upon the county road, and it appears that live stock are running at large and doing great damage to the county road, therefore,

It is the Order of the Court Hereby Made, That the District Attorney, County Roadmaster, and several patrolmen of the County, be and they are hereby directed to enforce the law when and wherever it is found to be applicable, over the county at large, pertaining to live stock being at large and upon the county road, and particularly where complaint is made to them by any citizen of the county.

Further ordered that due notice of this order of the Court be given by said officers and that they be and are hereby directed to use their best endeavors in this behalf.

Dated at Coquille, Coos County, Oregon, this first day of February, 1923.

C. R. Wade,
County Judge
John Yeakam,
County Commissioner
H. G. Kern,
County Commissioner.

All patrolmen are hereby ordered to lay complaints before the nearest Justice of the Peace against all violators of this order, whom it may affect.

C. S. McCulloch,
Roadmaster.

Remarkable Deer Story
Here's an interesting deer story in a press dispatch from Easton, Washington:

A freight train, emerged from Elbow tunnel, rushed out onto a trestle over a deep canyon in the moonlight just as five deer were hurrying to cross by running on the railroad ties.

Three of the animals leaped in terror from the bridge into the tree-covered depths of the ravine and were killed in the fall. The engine pilot picked up the other two, standing petrified in fear, carried them across onto the other side, when they both leaped off uninjured and scampered away into the wilderness. The train was brought to a stop to ascertain if damage had been caused by the impact. Some of the crew clambered down into the ravine and picked up the three deer carcasses. Permission was obtained by telephone from the state game warden to keep them.

Engineer Ernest Neilson, a freight train driver for years in the Cascades, declares he sees more wild game in the mountains either by moonlight or in the rays of his headlight than he does when out on his annual hunting trips.

Woman's Bore Story
Officials of the forest service at times receive some weird and peculiar epistles. Here is a letter recently received by a Western forest ranger:

"Kind and Respected Sir: I see in the paper that a man named J—S— was attacked and et up by a bare whose cubs he was trying to get when the she bare came up and stopp him by eatin him up in the mountains near your town. What I want to know is did it kill him or was he only partly et up and he from this place and all about the bare. I don't know but what he is a distant husband of mine. My first husband wan of that name and I supposed he was killed in the war but the name of the man the bare et being the same I thought it might be him after all and I thought to know if he wasn't killed either in the war or by the bare for I have been married twice since and their ought to be divorce papers got out by him or me if the bare did not eat him all up. If it is him, you will know if by him having six toes on the left foot. He also sings base and has a spread eagle tattooed on his front chest and a ankor on his right arm which you will know if the bare did not eat up these parts of him. If alive don't tell him I am married to J— W— for he never liked J—. Mebbe you had better let on as if I am ded but find out all you can about him without him knowing anything what it is for. That is if the bare did not eat him all up. If it did I don't see you can do anything and you needn't take any trouble. My respects to your family and please anser back.

P. S.—Was the bare killed? Also was he married, again and did he leave any property worth me laying claim to?

Anderson on Trial

With a view of annulling the ordination of Rev. Jesse T. Anderson, former pastor of the Baptist church of Marshfield, a meeting of Umpqua Baptist Association was called to be held in Marshfield Thursday afternoon. The session began at 2:30 p. m. at the church. Ministers representing different cities within the jurisdiction of the association are in attendance.

Rev. Mr. Anderson created quite a sensation all over the state when he disappeared from Portland after going there from this city and deserting his family here, and because of his connections with a woman in the east.
