Much Sickness at Bandon

Editor L. D. Felsheim, of the Bandon World, is one of the flu victims down there and had to lay off for the week. The World came out on time, however. Regarding conditions in Bandon the World has the following:

Bandon has been under self-imposed quarantine restrictions since Monday, due to the "flu" epidemic that seemed to have suddenly swept over the community. The school attendances had been cut down to such proportions with more and more missing each day that it was thought advisable to close down. The ban was then placed on all forms of public amusement and a regulation was issued prohibiting more than five persons from congregating at any one place. Nearly every business place in town has been affected by the illness of proprietors or employees and it is believed that the sick in the community outnumber those during the original "flu" epidemic. It is a significant fact, however, that very few if any serious cases have developed, the illness being in a less virulent form than in previous years. It is believed the situation is clearing up now and the quarantine restrictions will probably be removed shortly.

Dr. A. B. Peacock, of Marshfield, came to Bandon Monday to assist in caring for the sick. He was sent for after Dr. H. L. Houston had to give up on account of illness. The latter was on the verge of pneumonia when he finally took to his bed. The absence of Dr. Leep during the present epidemic has made conditions strenuous for Drs. Houston and Gale. With Dr. Houston out it would have been impossible for Dr. Gale to cover the territory alone as some long trips had to be made down the coast and to the lower river section.

Two Deaths at Myrtle Point

David Moore, the 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moore, passed away Sunday night, as a result of pneumonia, which developed after a mild attack of flu. He had been ill but a short time and up to the time pneumonia set in his condition was regarded as serious, but the dread disease worked rapidly once it set in.

The family had all been ill of flu at the same time—ten of them being down at once. All the rest are better at this writing, but David developed pneumonia and as noted above has gone to his rest. The family have the deep sympathy of the entire community in their wholesale affliction.

David was buried from the Chapel yesterday, Evangelist Duffy, of the Christian church, officiating. Interment was made at the Myrtle Point cemetery.

Mrs. Besse Corliss, who had been ill of a severe cold for a short time developed pneumonia last week and passed away Sunday despite all that medical skill and careful nursing could do for her relief. A tendency to apoplexy was a contributory cause of her demise.

The funeral was held on Tuesday from the Chapel, Rev. Woodfin, of the M. E. church, officiating. Interment was made at the Norway cemetery.—American.

Florence Banker Passes

Word was received yesterday morning of the death of John Bergman, which occurred at three o'clock. The deceased was one of the leading citizens of Florence, cashier of the Lane State & Savings bank, which institution had gotten behind in its affairs during Mr. Bergman's illness and now needs assistance. John Gerves, cashier of the First National bank of North Bend, went up to Florence to assist the bank.

Mr. Bergman was ill only from last Friday, when he returned home from attending a meeting of the United States forestry representatives. His death was caused by influenza-pneumonia.—News.

Largest Flower a Parasite

The world's biggest flower is a parasite found in the island of Sumatra and is known to botanists as Rafflesia Arnoldii. It was first discovered by Dr. Arnold, in whose honor it was named. Other species also occur in Java and the Philippines. A party of travelers found one of these flowers about four feet in diameter, and not having any scales made a balance, using certain packed boxes to offset the flower. These were marked, and when weighed at their destination found to be 22½ pounds. This flower emits such a powerful stench that its presence is known before it can be seen.

World's Stormiest Place

The North sea is famous for its storms. Cape Hatteras is a home of the Storm King—though perhaps surpassed, where confusion of the elements is concerned, by Cape Horn. But the stormiest place in all the world is Cape Prince of Wales, which is the westernmost point of Alaska. It is marked by a considerable mountain 2,210 feet high, and fierce winds blow there perpetually. Storms from the Arctic assail it all the year round.

Bowling Notes

In the bowling contest last Monday night Elmer Briner and J. L. Holycross were defeated by Hugh Harlocker and H. H. Oarding by 51 pins.

J. L. Holycross	226	180	183	589
Elmer Briner	169	168	149	486
H. H. Oarding	176	252	216	644
Hugh Harlocker	177	170	135	482

Dot Madlock and Peggy Schroeder now have won a game apiece. Next week they are going to roll the deciding game. The championship of the Grotto Cafe is at stake.

Thursday evening "Peggy" Norton and Bill Ferbrache were defeated by Allen Young and Ray Long in a bowling contest by 6 pins.

Peggy Norton	150	188	141	479
Bill Ferbrache	148	145	133	426
Ray Long	134	157	158	449
Allen Young	198	143	148	489

Earl Graham has just finished 25 consecutive games for an average of 176.24.

Loggers Quit at Gaylor

Changes are the order of the day at the Gaylor logging camp of the Oregon Exports Lumber company. Hal Baxter, who had been foreman of the camp for the past 18 months, or thereabouts, quit his job last week and his place has been filled by Joe Blackey, from the Columbia river. The company considered a line of reductions in pay this week, and a number of men did not wait to see what the cuts amounted to. From 12 to 15 men left the camp in the past three days, among them most of the fallers.—News.

Entertains Senior "500" Club

Mrs. L. H. Hazard entertained the Senior "500" club last Friday evening. A delightful time was enjoyed by the guests, who numbered nearly twenty. Mrs. J. E. Paulson as club member and Mrs. A. N. Gould as guest were awarded unique prizes for making high score. A two course luncheon was served by the hostess, who was assisted by her daughter, Miss Adrienne. Some fine selections on their Brunswick added to the enjoyment of the guests.

A Double Entertainment

Mrs. J. S. Barton entertained at "500" twice last week. Wednesday evening the Junior "500" club and a few others met at her home, there being six tables in all. Saturday evening she entertained again with about twenty present. The hostess served delicious refreshments both times. The living rooms were made festive with pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Gould Entertains

Mrs. A. N. Gould entertained six tables at cards Tuesday evening. At the conclusion of the games Mrs. M. J. Hartson was rewarded for making high score, while Mrs. R. E. Jeub was consoled. A delicious lunch was served after which the guests departed thanking their hostess for a very pleasant evening.

The Good Listener

A young woman has risen to fame on the American stage by a peculiar route. The story of how opportunity came knocking at her door and found her in has just come out in a newspaper interview. It is simply this: She "listened her way" into stardom. In the background of many a man of genius you will find a good listener—usually a woman—to whom they could pour out their minds. Four such may be named: Balzac, the novelist; the composers, Wagner and Tchaikowsky, and the artist, Michelangelo. There is no question but that the good listening of four remarkable women fertilized the minds of the gifted men. The records are in their letters. Good listening is a lay confessional. It is one of the fine arts.

"As Poor as Job's Turkey"

"As poor as Job's turkey," a simile often used to indicate extreme poverty, has reference to the deplorable state to which Job was reduced, when delivered by God into the hands of Satan. "Job's turkey," according to the popular notion, had but one feather in its tail, and was obliged to lean against the fence to gobble. The originator of the saying apparently did not realize it would have been impossible for Job to possess a turkey, since that bird is a native of America. Thomas Chandler Haliburton of Nova Scotia, who used the pseudonym of "Sam Slick" and wrote about the doings of "Samuel Slick of Slickville," refers to "Job's turkey" in some of his writings.
