Mesdames Leneve Entertain Mrs. John W. Leneve and Mrs. Lans Leneve entertained Monday evening at "500" at the former's home. There were forty ladies present and at the close of the game Mrs. H. C. Getz and Mrs. W. V. Glaisyer were awarded very pretty baskets for making first and second high score, while Mrs. Thos. White was consoled. The spacious living rooms were made more pleasant by cherry blossoms and spring flowers. A delicious two course luncheon ended the evening.

C. C. BANQUET A GREAT SUCCESS

L. H. Hazard declared that one of the "Prospects for 1922" was Jack Lamb's possible sale of a Studebaker car to Ben Currie, agent for the Chevrolet and Buick makes. In making his remarks Mr. Hazard used notes, which Mr. Smith gravely announced might be expected of a banker.

Jas. E. Montgomery was another speaker, who spoke in a happy vein, declaring himself unwilling to avail himself of the excuse of no preparation after Mr. Smith had made such a glittering success with no previous notice.

J. A. Lamb urged the prompt preparation of "Auto Camps" for tourist accommodation, but made the biggest hit of the evening, during John Ross' talk. The latter was picking his members for the band he wanted to organize—Lou Hazard for bass drum, Frank Leslie for piccolo, E. D. Webb for peck horn and Jack Lamb for syringe trombone, at the same time making the motions of a slide trombone artist. Mr. Lamb promptly interrupted him with the grave remark, "I want to say to Mr. Ross that I never used one of those things in my life." The retort seemed to snap Mr. Ross' thread of thought and he sat down.

Others who were called on, and some of whom were whistled down for time, were C. C. Farr, Dr. G. E. Low, J. P. Beyers, J. J. Stanley, R. H. Mast, J. E. Quick, A. J. Sherwood, Dr. V. L. Hamilton, C. W. Perkins, Dr. W. V. Glaisyer and J. Russell Morgan. All responded addressing Mr. Smith as Matador, Scrub Bull Exterminator, Jokesmith, etc., but with a never ending flow of stories, jokes and personal quips that were keenly appreciated by those at the table.

At 10:20 the rest of the speeches were called off and adjournment taken to the lodge room, where Mrs. Rose M. Newman gave a reading, "That Something," which held the intense interest of the crowd throughout and brought many warm encomiums to the reader, who appeared in male costume. The monologue is dedicated to Rotary Clubs everywhere and is the life story of a man who made a success of his life, rising from a gutter bum to a position of power and influence through the discovery of "that something," which lies dormant in every human being until brought to life by the owner's will power.

Mrs. Newman's rendition of this sketch was praiseworthy, entertaining and thought-provoking and proved her an entertainer of great ability.

The evening closed with a novelty boxing match between C. L. Willey Jr. and J. L. Holycross. A squaring ring was roped off and the contestants, blindfolded were led into it, each with a pillow tied to his right hand and a bell on his left leg. Their efforts to land a blow on one another were amusing and the bout was declared a draw, although Charley landed more frequently on his bulky antagonist.

Much of the credit for the success of this Commercial Club banquet is due to L. C. Newman, who acted as chairman of the committee in charge of its preparation.

To the 1200 Coos County Policy holders of the OREGON FIRE RELIEF ASSOCIATION of McMinnville, Oregon. There is a state law against over insurance and this company will appreciate it if any of our policy holders will report to us any case of over insurance in this company or in any company. Be sure you are not carrying more insurance than you could collect if your home burned.

This is the time of year to clean the moss off your roofs. We cannot afford to insure houses with mossy roofs. Write us and we will tell you how to keep the moss off your roofs.

This company now insures more property in Oregon than any other company, and it is by the co-operation of our policy holder that we are able to write insurance cheaper than other companies. We ask, therefore, that you do not hesitate to report to us any case of over insurance, mossy roofs, or neglect in the care of property insured in this, your own company.

GEO. C. HUGGINS, AGENT, Box 808, Marshfield, Oregon.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere appreciation for the sympathy extended to us and for the many acts of kindness performed by our friends during our recent bereavement at the time of the death of our husband and father.

Mrs. O. P. Ellingsen and family.

Send the Sentinel to eastern friends.

Kistner for Commissioner

W. L. Kistner began his campaign for the nomination for county commissioner last week when he went over to the Bay. He is receiving assurances on all sides which indicate that his candidacy is being most favorably received.

Expanding somewhat on his announcement elsewhere published, Mr. Kistner told a Sentinel representative a little of his ideas as to a road program in Coos county for the next few years. He wants to see roads to all points of the county as soon as they can be built and funds are available, but for the next year or two would confine activities on roads to a completion of those already started, and the careful maintenance of what we have. By this he means the constant attention to dirt roads which, if scraped and drained, can be made to serve as winter roads as well as summer. The great trouble with the dirt roads in Coos county is that they have never been properly drained, and if the water was forced to run off into side ditches as it fell, the scraping and dragging every week or so would keep them in very good condition until such time as they could be rocked. Drainage is the secret of good roads, whether they be dirt or pavement, and Mr. Kistner is enthusiastically in favor of good roads.

The people of Coos county will make no mistake if they vote to place Mr. Kistner on the board of commissioners.

About sixty people attended the card party given last night by the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion in the W. O. W. hall. Mrs. J. S. Barton and Geo. Leach were given handsome prizes for making high score. Mrs. W. G. Wright and Keith Leslie drew the booby prizes. Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening. A cake was raffled off, which was won by Lynn A. Parr, who kindly turned it back to the Auxiliary and allowed it to be auctioned off. F. F. Schram was the lucky man to carry home the cake.

The home talent comedy drama, "Uncle Josh," which made such a hit when staged a month or so ago, is to be repeated Friday, May 12, at the Liberty Theatre, for the benefit of the Rebecca lodge. There was considerable sickness in town at the time of the other performance and many people were unable to see it, then. The roads are in better shape now and many living outside of town want a chance to witness it.

R. H. Mast, candidate for the democratic nomination for county judge, is receiving a great deal of encouragement in the campaign he is making for that office. He was up at Myrtle Point last Saturday and this week was calling on democrats at the Bay. He is making no claims himself, but his friends are convinced that he will be returned a winner when the votes are counted May 19.

Mention is made elsewhere in the obituary of Mrs. Emily Schroeder of her daughter Mrs. Mary Cribbs, of southern California. Her husband, Harry Cribbs, was formerly proprietor of the hardware store now run by the Coquille Hardware company. His old friends here will learn with regret that he has recently suffered a paralytic stroke and is in extremely poor health.

What About Irritated Nerves?

Nerves are irritated long before the body may appear to be sick. Sleeplessness, loss of appetite, lack of vitality, and many other conditions are indications of this. And they are danger signals. Remember that the purpose of Osteopathic manipulation is to free the channels that carry the energy and food upon which life is dependent.
