Passing of Amanda E. Carl

Mrs. Amanda E. Carl, a Coos county pioneer of 1881, who lived at Norway for twenty years, died at her home at 1218 Kesty Street, Portland, Oregon, Wednesday, Nov. 29. Her funeral took place Friday, Dec. 1, with her children present, except those living in southern California; and her remains were interred in Rose City cemetery. Her son, J. D. Carl, of Arago, went up to Portland a week ago Sunday and was with her at the last.

She was the mother of ten children, nine of whom survive her as follows:

Rev. George C. Carl, Portland, Oregon, temporarily residing in Southern California; M. M. Carl, Santa Ana, California; Mrs. W. A. Moomaw, Huntington Beach, California; Mrs. W. A. Lett, Bridge, Oregon; H. L. Carl, Hubbard, Oregon; C. E. Carl, Los Angeles, California; J. D. Carl, Arago, Oregon; W. N. Carl, Ashland, Oregon; and Ira W. Carl, Portland, Oregon.

She is also survived by twenty-seven grand children and nine great grand children. Of the grand children residing in Coos county are: Mrs. Floasia Wilson, of Brewster Valley; Miss Wilma Lett, of Myrtle Point, Oregon; and Orin Lett, Bridge, Oregon, children of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lett; and Kenneth, Melvin, Herbert and Wallace Carl, of Arago, Oregon, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Carl.

Mrs. Carl was born in Mt. Morris, Illinois, October 24th, 1844, and was 78 years and 1 month old at the time of her death.

In the year 1866, at Deep River, Iowa, she married August Carl, a Civil War veteran, who served in Company F, 9th Regiment, Kansas Volunteer Infantry.

Her husband secured a homestead of prairie land, about the time of their marriage, near Deep River, and she aided and assisted him in breaking the land. In 1881, they sold their farm in Iowa, and with their children boarded an emigrant train with Norway, Coos county, Oregon, as their destination. The three youngest children, J. D. Carl, W. M. Carl and Ira W. Carl, were born at Norway. Mr. and Mrs. August Carl and family were nine days in the emigrant train in reaching San Francisco from Iowa.

They waited two weeks in San Francisco, for the old steamer "Arcade," which transported them to Empire. From there they took a little steamer called the "Myrtle," and went up the bay as far as they could, and then boarded an old tram way car pulled by horses and pushed by men, running up to Coaledo, about 4 miles. After passing the night there, the mother and daughter and the then youngest children, were taken down Beaver Slough to the Coquille river on a flat boat pushed by poles, while the father and oldest sons walked along the foothills. Upon arriving at the mouth of the Beaver Slough, known as Lowe's Landing, they boarded the old steamer "Annie," getting off the same above Norway, where they arrived in the afternoon of the 26th day of May, 1881, at what was afterwards known as the Carl ranch, which they purchased shortly after arrival. This ranch was located on the left bank of the river a short distance above Norway and is now owned and occupied by A. Kellenberger.

Here they carved a ranch out of the brush and timber, and lived until 1901, first living in a house on the foothill of said ranch, and later moving down by the river. In 1901, they rented the ranch to their sons, H. L. and J. D. Carl, and moved to Newberg, Oregon, where the father died in May, 1903. From April, 1907, until the time of her death, the mother made her home in Portland, where she and her youngest son Ira, with the exception of about four years, made their home together.

Boy Scouts at the Bay

Members of Troop Two of the Boy Scouts held their meeting Monday night, about 35 boys being present. The evening was spent in games, an extended business meeting and speeches by many present.

Mr. Oerding, Mr. Gets and Mr. Kelley of Coquille, were visitors at the meeting last night. Mr. Kelley was one of the first men to start the Boy Scout movement in Coos county, establishing a troop of Scouts ten years ago at Coquille. Mr. Gets and Mr. Oerding are both commissioners of the scouts in Coquille, and are very much interested in the movement. Mr. Johnson, assistant scoutmaster, and Guy Warner, scoutmaster, were present and Mr. Johnson had charge of the opening exercises of the scouts. Rev. Mr. Couper was present and gave the boys a five minute talk on the scout law. Mr. Kelley, of Coquille, gave a very interesting talk on the scout movement. —Coos Bay Times.

About twenty high school students have turned out for basket ball practice and Coach McCormack will have a large squad from which to pick the first team, besides having plenty of material for practice games. Most of last year's five are still in school and with the experience they have had they will no doubt make a good showing this year. Practice is indulged in two and three evenings a week.
