Personal Taxes for Lane Co.

In Lane county the county court is furnishing a car for a tax collector from the sheriff's office to round up the delinquents, who have not paid their personal taxes, and he is making a thorough job of it and collecting thousands of dollars.

Heretofore many individuals and corporations have evaded payment on taxes on their personal property but Sheriff Stickle says that he is going to collect every cent of such taxes that it is possible to.

The sheriff says that a number of merchants who have bought stocks here have been compelled to pay taxes on the goods because the former owners had neglected it.

Yesterday the sheriff went to Cottage Grove to levy on Lammar Bros.' sawmill property and sell it for the delinquent taxes that amount to over $600 for the years 1919, 1920 and 1921. Other lumber companies are behind with their taxes, he says, and action will be taken against them.

Found Bad Roads

Traffic Officer C. C. Williams arrived home Wednesday from Port Orford, driving through in his car. He reports the roads below Port Orford in the worst shape and his car was plastered with mud.

The traffic officer settled several cases in Port Orford and Bandon.

L. Davidson, truck driver of Port Orford, was fined $5 and costs in Justice Wright's court, for having too heavy a load on his truck.

Irvine Shrader of Bandon was fined $15 and costs by Justice Radley for overloading his truck.

Mrs. Chas. Richard of Bandon was fined $7 and costs by Justice Radley for driving a new Dodge car without a license. She promised to secure a license immediately.

Mr. Williams said he would not attempt to navigate the Seven Devils road between Coos Bay and Bandon in an auto until summer comes—Times.

Big Lot of Hay

As will be seen from an advertisement elsewhere in this issue, P. E. Drane is now offering for sale the largest stock of hay ever brought into Coos county—500 tons of clover, chest and oats and vetch mixed, which is now stored in the war time barracks at the Sitka mill. This hay was all made in the Willamette valley before the fall rains began and Mr. Drane is selling it in quantities to suit purchasers—from one bale up.

Killed Ten Panthers

Two hunters, who had been out in the woods for some time reported at Powers Monday, coming in for supplies. They were Tom Decker and Mr. James. They had been in the Johnson creek district, near Basty butte and their success was phenomenal. They had to date killed ten panthers and one bear. Panther are common there and easy to find.

Four Days for Christmas

The logging camps at Powers will close only four days for Christmas this season. The camps will shut down on Saturday night, the 19th, and resume again Thursday morning, December 23. That the loggers are getting such a short time off is due to the constant demand for plenty of logs at the mills on Coos Bay.

Talking of New School

In Marshfield, where the school population has grown from 650 to 1026 in the past eleven years, but no new school buildings have been erected in that time, there is considerable talk of putting up some more. The district now has to provide several rented rooms to take care of the situation.

DOULTRY NOTES

As the chicks grow they need more room. It does not pay to let them crowd.

Beware of musty, mouldy, sour, or decayed food. It is sure to cause trouble.

Tough grass is of no value as a green food. Better sow some quick growing crop.

Feed hoppers greatly reduce the work. If they are kept filled, the chicks will never go hungry.

Two-year-old hens had better be sent to the market. They seldom pay for their feed if kept over the third season.

Get and cyster shell should be included in the ration for both young and old. To neglect this would be poor economy.

Tuberculosis

In the Public Health Bulletin the statistics of the U. S. Public Health Service says that up to the year 1917 there has been a gradual downward trend in the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States. During the years 1917, 1918 and 1919 the influenza epidemic greatly increased the death rate from tuberculosis; but in 1921 there were fewer deaths from that cause than would even normally have been expected. The cause for this great improvement in 1921 he does not attempt to explain; however, looking at the matter purely from the point of a statistician he believes that from this very low present death rate we may soon expect another rise in the death rate from tuberculosis.

What may this mean to Coos county? It means that whatever may happen elsewhere, we must be on guard to prevent the ravages of this dread enemy. It is the unforgotten fact that is to be feared. Preparedness against this disease will do more than treatment for it after it is possible to make diagnosis.

In 1917 it was influenza, a respiratory disease, which led to the great increase in tuberculosis. And so, it is in general that tuberculosis gains its hold when one is already weakened from lack of sufficient nourishment, for other illness or from some debilitating cause such as had ventilation or prolonged exposure to cold and particularly to dampness.

A chart showing seasonal variation of deaths from tuberculosis and extending over several years' time gives a fairly regular increase of deaths during the Spring months. This must mean that our manner of life during the winter is such as to increase our chances of acquiring tuberculosis. What may the faulty winter habits be?

During the winter, we are less in the open air; we congregate more in groups and talk into each other's faces, thus spreading infection; we fail to ventilate houses sufficiently. Again, in the matter of food, less fresh food in the form of vegetables is consumed. Many foods lose their healthful qualities when used from the cans. Fresh eggs are less generously used in the diet. In the matter of clothing, sufficient care is not exercised in its selection in relation to the temperature rather than to appearance. Indulgence in alcohol always has been a danger in cold weather because of its relaxation of nature's protective control over the blood vessels of the skin, causing them to dilate and disperse the heat of the body by exposing greater quantities of blood to the cold air.

Precautions: Prevent the cold, which may be an opening wedge for tuberculosis; avoid contact with others who have colds; dress according to the temperature; keep clothing and feet dry in rainy weather; insist on good ventilation; avoid crowds; eat properly; using eggs and vegetables freely; exercise out of doors.

Coos County Health Department.

While the statistician of the national public health service does not attempt to say why there were more than the usual number of deaths from tuberculosis from 1917 to 1919 and much fewer than usual in 1921, a layman, like the Sentinel scribe, will not hesitate to suggest the theory that the "flu" epidemics of 1919 and 1920 carried off a great many people who suffered from pulmonary weakness; which left so many less than usual affected that way that in 1921 tuberculosis found far fewer people easy victims to its ravages. We understand that life insurance statistics show that epidemics greatly increase the death rate; but carry off so many people in poor health that the average of deaths declines in succeeding years, because the average health is then higher. In passing we may wonder how one is expected to take plenty of outdoor exercise in the rainy season and always keep dry.

Sheriff Says He Was

The Sentinel is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. W. H. Huff, the mother of Joseph Huff, who was arrested last week for shooting Joseph West in the Bridge neighborhood and is now out on bail. She says the letter is not for publication but the gist of it is the denial that he is "a trouble maker," as Deputy Sheriff Malchorn said. She claims, as every mother always does—God bless them for it—that he was a good boy at home, and she "thinks he is a good boy yet if treated right." She quotes his "keeper" as saying that young Huff "gave him no trouble whatever." Unfortunately Sheriff Ellingsen and Deputy Sheriff Malchorn tell a very different story, the former averring that he gave him more trouble than any other prisoner he ever had to take care of. More than that he tells exactly what Huff did, and if we quote him, every reader would be bound to agree with him. We are unwilling to do so, however, because we don't want to be the means of letting any other prisoner know Huff's line of trouble making for fear he might try the same tactics.
