COAL—South Port Coal the best. Try a load. C. W. Hill. 441f

O. L. Haglie came in from Portland last Saturday for a week's visit before going down to Los Angeles, where he expects to locate. He had not been in Coquille for 18 months, which is the longest period he has been away from here in over 20 years. He has just sold his rooming house in Portland, and if he likes the southern California summers he will stay in the cafeteria town, but if he doesn't like it, will return to Coquille.

Valentine Dinner at Church

The "Live Order" class of the M. E. Sunday School gave a valentine dinner to the officers and teachers of the Sunday School last Monday evening. The church parlors were tastefully decorated and at six o'clock the guests were seated at the tables, which were daintily arranged. After doing ample justice to good things served by the class, some time was spent in visiting and then the guests adjourned to the business session of the S. S. board, after giving the class a hearty vote of thanks for their fine entertainment which will long be remembered with pleasure.

Makes Good Record

The statement of January 1st of The Hibernia Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco, shows another six months of prosperity with assets totaling over seventy-eight and one-half millions. The splendid management of this Bank is reflected in this continuous growth and prosperity. The Bank issues a booklet "Banking by Mail," which will be sent to any one upon request. This booklet shows how accounts may be opened and how deposits and withdrawals may be made through the mail.

Indian Girl to Chemawa

Yesterday morning Juvenile Officer A. T. Morrison sent out to the Chemawa Indian school Evelyn Green, a dependent child, who has been living at Marshfield, Powers and more recently Coquille, under the authority of the Juvenile court. She is a quarter breed Indian and about 12 years of age. At the request of friends she has been sent there where her sister, Dorothy, was placed by the court some months ago.

Annual Roll Call

Tuesday evening next the Annual Roll Call of Lyncurgus Lodge No. 72, Knight of Pythias, will be held at their hall here. The meeting will be an open one and all members and their families are cordially urged to be present. There will be a banquet and program. Members who cannot be present can help by writing a letter. A. H. Bender, K. R. S.

Lost His Only Arm

James Porter, of Bandon, has received a message from Petersburg, Alaska, that his brother, Frank, has lost his left arm while operating the winch on a vessel on which he was employed. It will be remembered by his friends here that Mr. Porter lost his right arm while employed at the Coquille mill in 1907. — Western World.

Rich Finds at the Baxter

The old Baxter hotel site has been a source of revenue to several people lately, since the ancient structure was torn down. One man is reported to have picked up $30 or $40 in gold pieces which had slipped through cracks in the floor and after the boards were taken up yesterday there was an eager search for more of it.

Health Association Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Public Health Association on Tuesday, Feb. 20th, at the court house. Dr. Mingus has kindly consented to address the meeting on the subject of Diet, which is of interest to all and applicable to everyday life. It is hoped that a large attendance will be there to greet Dr. Mingus.

Plants Have Heart and Pulse Beat

Plants have a heart and pulse and a "blood circulation" very similar to that of the animal world. This is the sensational discovery of Sir Jagardis Chandra Bose, the famous Indian botanist. According to Sir Jagardis, great quantities of water are absorbed daily by the average tree. This water is driven up to the very top of the tree and then breathed out again through the leaves. Experiments were carried out by Sir Jagardis at his botanical institute in Calcutta. He says there is no characteristic manifestation of animal life which could not be found in simple form in plants also. The plant has a heart beat and a "pulse" astonishingly similar to that of animals. Besides, it also reacts upon stimulation in almost the same way, and shows that it possesses a nervous system.

To Honor Congo Martyr

A tablet is to be placed in one of the wards of a London hospital in honor of the Congo chief, Mandobi, who volunteered, when sleeping sickness appeared among his tribe, to go to England and submit to all the experiments necessary to determine the cause of this malady and to discover a remedy. For several months he permitted himself to be bled daily in order to supply material for the microscopists. At length the germ of the sleeping sickness was discovered; but almost simultaneously the volunteer subject of these researches paid for that discovery with his life.—The Living Age.

Oh, Well—

A young woman, having decided that it was just at present the fashionable thing to know all about business and town industries, was being shown through a garter factory. "Goodness!" she exclaimed, "ninety thousand pairs in one week! I don't see where they all go!" "Neither do I," replied the young man who was guiding her, coloring slightly.—American Legion Weekly.

"Here's a lady gets a divorce on account of mental cruelty." "What is mental cruelty?" "I suppose her brute of a husband went around thinking mean things."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

IRISH CITY'S LONG HISTORY

Limerick Has for Many Centuries Been a Place of High Importance and Interest.

Limerick, Ireland, which occupies both sides of the river as well as King's Island, is about 150 miles from Dublin. Its bacon-curing industry, its creameries, its condensed milk factories, and its salmon fisheries keep busy its Rory O'Mores and its pretty little Irish colleens, the glances of whose beautiful eyes are like to prove as fatal as those of Kate Kearney. Limerick fish hooks are celebrated, and though the Limerick lace worked up on a fine quality of net derived its name from the city, it is mostly made in other portions of the island at the present time.

Limerick has had a past, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. It was the ancient Regia of Ptolemy; the Danes desired it for a long while before they finally occupied it in the Ninth century; and in 1210 King John visited it and built forts upon its coveted soil. The de-throned James II of England made it his last stronghold. On the island in the river the ancient Limerick had its beginnings, and today its maze of crooked streets, and its old cathedral, dating from 1170, are important points of interest.

CONSTANT FIGHT ON CRABS

Destructiveness of the Crustaceans in the West Indies is Something Almost Beyond Belief.

The fishermen of Japan has a supreme contempt for the gigantic crab of his coast, which has snippers ten feet in length, and when moving along the bottom of the sea with its claws spread out covers an area of 22 feet or so.

The destructiveness of certain species of crab in the West Indies is remarkable, observes an exchange. They are great burrowers and in localities where they are plentiful—and they multiply with the rapidity of the rodent—nothing is safe from them. They will eat the eggs on which a hen is sitting, and just as readily the leaves of seedling coconut trees. They effect in the West Indies practically the same degree of destruction on the young coconuts as the seep crab does in the East Indies. In each instance some 8 to 11 per cent of the seedlings have to be replaced if they are planted in the newly cleared ground from which the crabs have not been thoroughly cleared out.

Put Out Your Tongue.

The latest science, "called glosso-mancy," purports to read the person's character by the size and shape of the tongue. According to glosso-mancists, those who possess short and broad tongues are apt to be untruthful, while people whose tongues are short and narrow are shy and bad-tempered. When the tongue is long and broad, it is a sign that its owner is inclined to be a gossip. A tongue that is long and narrow denotes a frank, open disposition. Girls with small, round, plump tongues possess trustful and affectionate dispositions; but men with similar shaped tongues are apt to be inconsistent. What glosso-mancists term the rectangular type of tongue—one that is almost square in shape—is indicative of a strong, virile nature. Men with these shaped tongues are ambitious, active, and likely to get on in the world. Square-tongued women, however, are likely to be self-assertive.

Myths Are History.

Mythology, or the study of the beliefs of ancient peoples, is a fascinating study. Myths do not just happen to be. There were no story writers in olden times who said, "I must write a popular story," and forthwith a story appeared that lived and went from mouth to mouth for thousands of years. A myth, in its last analysis, is an historic account, every detail of which is based on fact.

The tales of Homer were thought to be poetic fiction until the burned ruins of Troy were uncovered. The story of Theseus slaying the Minotaur is no idle creation, for every detail of it—the Athenian children for the sacrifice, the labyrinth palace, the wild bull in the center, and a host of other details—has been abundantly verified as fact.

Got the Toll-keeper's Goat.

A Dutchman riding a little cart drawn by a goat was stopped at the bridge by the toll-keeper. "I got to pay toll," said Hans. "Yes; five cents to cross the bridge." After an argument he paid the toll and went back again, only this time he had the goat sitting in the cart and he was drawing it himself. Out came the toll-keeper. "Here, you know you've got to pay five cents." The Dutchman shook his head and pointing to the goat, said, "Don't talk to me—ask the driver."—Boston Transcript.

Mixed Religions.

Doctor Grenfell after amputating the limb of a Roman Catholic patient wrote an appeal for a wooden leg to enable the man to move about. This was published in the Congregationalist and read by a Baptist woman whose husband, a Methodist, who had worn a wooden leg, had just died. So the Methodist leg given by a Baptist woman in answer to a Congregational appeal is now being used as a perfectly good interdenominational understanding.—The Christian Advocate.

Mania for Hiding Wills.

Recent testators have a habit of hiding their wills in order to give their executors as much trouble as possible, while it often happens that a will has been put in a "safe place," afterwards forgotten, or hidden in a secret compartment. During a sale of furniture, two porters stumbled when moving a heavy oak bureau of old pattern. This smashed in one of the panels at the back, which revealed some papers, though the bureau was supposed to have been emptied. Examination led to the discovery of a false back containing a number of private papers, among which was a missing will. In one famous case an eccentric hid his will in the leg of an old-fashioned four-poster bedstead, where it was not discovered until three years after his death.

Feast on Locusts.

When a flight of locusts settles near a native village in Africa there is great excitement. Big clay pots, gourds, baskets, receptacles of all kinds are made ready; often the night is spent roasting flaming fires in the open woods near to where the locusts are heaviest, so that at the first streak of dawn the work of gathering may begin. Every one, old and young, is eager to get some share. The locusts do not usually settle on the ground in the woods, but on trees, and he so thick along the branches that they may be scooped up by the double handful. Tossed into a pot and kept closely covered, they are secure till the village is reached again.
