EAST FORK NOTES

W. C. Rose was taken sick Sunday afternoon. He had a run of chills from three o'clock till six. Mrs. Rose was up all night keeping hot water bottles tucked around him. In the morning he was much more comfortable and continued to improve through the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Benham moved into the Ingram house at the Chaney & Lawhorn camp.

Beautiful days are sandwiched in between the storms.

Anyone who is interested in missionaries and their work would become more interested after reading, "How missionaries help foreign trade," by Frederick Simpich, in Saturday Evening Post for Sept. 8.

If Barbara Trebel did not sell the booze which killed Jim Moore, who did? Why is not something done about it?

Why does anyone want to kick for the reason that it cost $1.05 for each vote cast in Coos county at the special election for an income tax; didn't it all go back into the pockets of Coos county? My wife got seven dollars of it, the most real money she has seen for some time. She has not seen this for she let some one else cash the check.

Why kick about taxes when on the rebound you catch 'em coming back. Think about taxes as a circulating medium, and then like your inoculated guns, the tooth pulling is a painless affair, but your tongue always tries to take the ache out of the hole.

If there was a battle in which as many were killed as are killed by automobile drivers in a year, it would be an awful fight and the pacifists would be frothing at the mouth to abolish war.

President Coolidge's message is worth reading from beginning to end. He does not travel a mile to go a rod. He lays the emphasis on individual responsibility.

League of Nations is not a "closed incident so far as we are concerned," even if President Coolidge does think so. Herod thought Jesus Christ was a closed incident when he caused "In Rama was there a voice heard, lamantation, and weeping, and great mourning. Rachel weeping for her children and would not be comforted, because they were not." The League of Nations is not a closed incident as far as the United States of America is concerned, unless Jesus Christ is also a closed incident. He is not dead even if the Herod politicians in the United States senate did crucify Him afresh. The angels' song is the ascending note, not the faith that it can't be done, but the faith that it can be done, is the faith that removes mountains, stops the mouths of lions and casts out devils.

Autos Kill Many More

Wednesday's Oregonian says that in six months not one person has met violent death by murder in Portland but in that time 21 people have been killed in automobiles. It would not be amiss to say that automobiles are the principal cause of violent deaths in this country today. How to make our highways safer is one of the great problems before the American people.
