Hauser Co. Gets Jetty Contract

Marshfield contractors are assured the sublease of the jetty rock contract, following receipt of a wire yesterday stating that the government had awarded the contract to Hauser Construction company of Portland. The deal with the local men was made subject to granting of the contract to Hauser b y the government. The men here involved in the deal are Earl Downing, Ira Padrick, M. W. Payne, Pat Hennessey, Fred Hollister, H. G. Kern and Pat Tully.

Delivery of the rock will not be necessary for approximately three months, according to recent reports on the jetty work. The contract calls for 886,000 tons of rock and was awarded to Hauser for 97 cents per ton. Price for the local men is not known although it is sufficiently less than 97 cents to allow a good return to Hauser.—News.

Passing of Isaiah Hacker

Isaiah Hacker, one of the oldest Coos county pioneers, and probably the oldest citizen of Coquille, died at his home on Third street here at 1:10 o'clock Monday afternoon. His death was due to the infirmities of old age, but the direct cause was bladder trouble.

He was taken with dizzy spells Saturday evening and Dr. G. E. Low was called, and although Mr. Hacker was sitting up in his chair all day Sunday, he was gradually getting weaker. Monday morning he entered a state of coma, and shortly after one o'clock passed peacefully away.

The funeral services were held at the Episcopal church Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., Rev. A. W. Bell reading the Episcopal burial service. At the grave in the Masonic cemetery Coquille Lodge, No. 53, I. O. O. F., conducted the service of laying away a departed brother.

Isaiah Hacker was born April 6, 1836, in Weld, Maine, and at his death lacked less than three weeks of being 88 years of age. He was of English descent, his forefather, Jeremiah Hacker having come to America in 1633.

When a child he received an injury that left him crippled through life. At the age of 12 he was apprenticed to a cobbler, and followed that trade for some years after coming to Coos Bay.

He received a thorough education in the best New England schools and taught school there for four years.

In 1862 he came to Oregon by way of the Isthmus of Panama, but in 1865 he returned to Maine, where he was married the following August to Miss Addie G. Stoddard, who survives him.

In 1867 they came to Empire and have lived in Coos county ever since, except for a few years in later life when they made their home at Pasadena, Calif.

Mr. Hacker taught school for some years after coming to Coos Bay, and Z. C. Strang says the deceased was his first teacher.

He served as sheriff on two different occasions, was county superintendent of schools, was recorder, justice of the peace and principal of schools at Marshfield, filled positions on the council and school board and was for four years collector of customs of the Port of Coos Bay.

In 1878, with G. Webster and Andrew J. Lockhart, he established The Coast Mail at Marshfield, of which the Coos Bay Times is the lineal descendant.

In 1888 he established an abstract office in Empire, which was transferred to Coquille when the county seat was moved here in 1897. He later sold the business to Henry Sengstacken.

Mr. Hacker was the father of two children, Mrs. L. H. Hazard being his daughter. A son died in infancy in the early seventies. Mrs. J. S. Barton is a grand-niece of the deceased.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge at Marshfield, and also of the Encampment and the Rebekahs.

Mr. Hacker was a man of the strictest fidelity and probity, a gentleman of the old school and his personality was indelibly stamped on the earlier history of Coos county. To those of us who only knew him in his later years, he was a kindly gentleman, living a more or less retired life, but his earlier years were full of activity and he always took his stand for what he thought to be right.

Mrs. Hazard was summoned home from Eugene Monday and arrived Tuesday morning.

Card of Thanks

For the many thoughtful deeds of kindness and the beautiful flowers contributed after the death of our husband and father, and also to the members of the local lodge of the I. O. O. F. for their services, we take this means of extending our heartfelt thanks.

Mrs. Addie G. Hacker,
L. H. Hazard and family.

Fine Record as Clerk

Miss Ines Bunch, who has proved so capable and accommodating a county clerk during her four years' incumbency of the office, has decided that she will not be a candidate for re-election. For what reason she came to this decision, she has not explained to the Sentinel, said our query was a leading question.

And when this scribe commended her conduct of the office, declaring it to have been as efficiently handled as at any time in our experience, she loyally gave her office force the credit for whatever success may have been achievd. But good help cannot overcome the lack of ability on the part of the head of an organization, and we want to reiterate that Coos county has had a good clerk during her term of office.

Americans believe in the value of opinions. That's why we adopted the jury system and established the United States Supreme Court. About the best help in forming a right opinion is to hear the opinion of somebody who is informed on the subject.

That was the argument Eve used when she asked Adam to go to church.

"Our faith is not in dead saints' bones,
In altars of vain sacrifice;
Nor is it in the stately stones
That rise in beauty toward the skies.
Our faith is in the Christ who walks
With men today in street and mart;
The constant Friend who thinks and talks
With those who seek Him with the heart."
—Thomas Curtis Clark.

Released on $6,000 Bail

Ed. Franklin, local pool room proprietor, will return Sunday from Alabama, where he was taken to answer charges of murdering Will Eaton at [illegible] 15 years ago, according to a wire received by J. H. Cunningham, who has been conducting his pool room since his arrest. Franklin was released under $6,000 bail, according to the wire, but no details of other action was given, nor when the trial was set for hearing, says a Reedsport dispatch.

Interest was aroused throughout this section when Franklin was arrested under the grave charge after residing in Reedsport for many years. It is claimed that his real name is George Meadows and that he killed Eaton in a general fight in 1904.

Franklin refused to discuss the case before leaving for Alabama and waived extradition papers. A relative of Franklin is reported to have started the police on his trail.

About Road to Myrtle Point

In a letter to the Marshfield News, B. L. Buckingham, a well known engineer at Coos Bay, has the following to say about the improved road between Coquille and Myrtle Point:

I would like to ask the promoters of the super-road district from Marshfield to Sumner, "What is your idea of an all-year road?" Outside of the paving I know of one piece in Coos county. It leads from Coquille towards Myrtle Point only a distance of eight miles. On this eight miles the highway commission spends at least $400 per mile per year keeping one crew with team and blader or tractor and blader constantly employed together with some extra help of a truck and crew. It do not see how the Myrtle Point-Roseburg highway, nor does anyone else to whom I have talked who has traveled it the last month.
