A Birthday Cake

made with Olympic flour is sure to be a great big, glittering success. It is so easy to bake well with Olympic flour that those who once try it will use no other. Those who have not yet been wise enough to give it a trial should do so at once. Until they do they are behind in womanly efficiency and progressiveness.

MYRTLE POINT ITEMS

Miss Evelyn Barker, of Millington, was a Myrtle Point visitor Friday.

Charles Adams is up from Illahee, on the Rogue river, where he has been spending the summer. Mrs. Adams will return with him.

Mrs. E. C. Barker received word on Saturday that her brother, Clarence Gould, of Allegany, had been injured in his logging camp there and was in the Keizer Hospital at North Bend. Jesse Barker took her to Coquille. She went from there to North Bend with her sister and brother, Mrs. James Richmond and Bert Gould, of that city. Mr. Gould was in a critical condition so Mrs. Barker went over again Sunday. Mr. Barker and the children accompanied her.

J. M. Bledsoe left Sunday for the democratic national convention.

Miss Bertha Cotton, who has been ill for some time, was taken in the Coos Bay ambulance to the Smedberg hospital at Marshfield Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer F. Russell, of Myrtle Point, and daughter, Helen, Mildred and Elma, attended the Cadmean Chautauqua at Coquille Monday evening.

Wilbur Rockwell, of this city, is suffering with blood poisoning from a cut on his hand.

Dave Fox, of the Stout Lumber Co. of Coos Bay, was a business visitor in Myrtle Point Monday.

Norman and Hugh Hamilton, of this city, are visiting at the Joe Knight ranch on Catching Creek.

A son was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston, of this city. He is the second child of the couple and the first son.

Miss Aileen Barker is attending Chautauqua in Coquille this week. She is a guest at the Dr. James Richmond home there.

Charles Hall and family, of Marshfield, were in town Tuesday.

E. W. Gates, of Marshfield, was in this city looking after business interests Tuesday.

The Commercial Club held a regular meeting Tuesday. It was voted that they go on record as being in favor of the Union High School. They will stand behind the school board and assist them in getting things settled. An injunction has been filed against the project and the work will be delayed until this affair is arranged.

Mrs. Lovina Lee, of this city, returned Wednesday from Corvallis, where she was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Charles Willey. She was there to welcome the baby, which came May 28. Charles says that he is a million dollar baby. Mrs. Lee also visited Mrs. Clinton, formerly of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Kight, of Riverton, came up to Myrtle Point Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mr. T. Whitington.

The new meat market was opened in the Telephone building Tuesday by Stephen Dey.

Miss Emma Snyder, of Myrtle Point, was a Coquille visitor Wednesday evening.

Harold Adams was down from Powers Wednesday.

Lester Sumerlin, of McKinley, was in this city Wednesday.

Clarke Fensler, of this city, was a business visitor in Coquille Tuesday.

Bert Gould and children, Harriet and Harold, and Miss Genevieve Chase, of Coquille, were Myrtle Point visitors Sunday.

Jesse Barker, of this city, was in North Bend Tuesday.

EAST FORK NOTES

Harve Minard was bringing out a new car recently and through some mishap the car got the advantage of him and overturned. As far as known he was not hurt or the car damaged, but at the present time he is quite sick. His mother and he were intending the start for Salem on a visiting trip but the trip had to be postponed.

There is a bridge across the river at the Gold brick road, built on top of the water and floored with old road plank. I think the county made no investment in it. When high water comes and that raft goes down the river, George Chaney's dam may get hit again.

The hay is in the barn, about 25 tons of good hay from 13 acres—Alsike and other grasses mixed. Dan Hoy knows how to put a load on a wagon to unload it quick with a hay fork.

You hear about the same quantity of talk about Chittim these days as in a mining camp about ore.

Theodore handed me out a good one the other day. He said: "If you stick your hand into a hive of bees and get stung, don't blame the bees." President Coolidge is a man who is not a member of a secret society, unless his college fraternity is so called.

The Christian Endeavor World of June 5, page 615, says reports from all parts of the country indicate a famine or at least a marked falling off in a heretofore prolific crop of cadavers and that the medical schools are feeling the effects of the crop shortage. That man Volstead and the little eighteenth amendment has dried up the source of bums and down and outers, whose bodies were in the saloon days turned over to the medical schools. The morgues and hospitals are running out of that kind of material.

Hip-hurrah Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and other gentlemen (?) aiders and abettors of the bootlegger and booter, should make note of this crop shortage of human derelicts and increase their calamity howling over the fact—that prohibition does prohibit.

The same paper also states that a native of Europe, a resident of Texas, lately applied for citizenship in the United States. He declared his sympathy with national prohibition and its enforcement. It was shown up that he owned a saloon in Juarez, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, a saloon getting trade from El Paso as well as Juarez. The judge turned him down. That is a hip hurrah for prohibition, which breaks the bottle in the hip pocket.

President Coolidge had a rip-roaring good time at the circus, but when the clowns made fun of prohibition he did not laugh.

On May 14 federal officers locked up eight cabarets on Broadway, New York City, and one in Greenwich Village. By order of Federal Judge Luce, they will remain closed for a year. The sign reads "Closed for violation of the national prohibition act." Those booze joints don't draw down any rent these days, but they do draw up taxes. Hurrah for prohibition that breaks the bottle in the hip pocket.

Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, answered Butler. It is in the Endeavor World for June 5. You don't have to guess as to what kind of a man Dr. Eliot is. He is a man. R. A. Easton.

The Highway Doing It

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adolphsen are at the Multnomah from historic Port Orford. The demand for white cedar in the past couple of years has caused Port Orford to perk up and it has enjoyed an unusual amount of shipping, particularly export business. Since the construction of the Roosevelt coast highway, Port Orford has become better known to the outside world. Formerly getting into and out of the settlement, which straggles along the edge of the coast in Curry county was a difficult task. Now that the highway is improved, the people are looking forward to the day when they will have railroad transportation. They even have decided on a suitable site for a depot, if some one will build the railroad.—Portland Oregonian.
