

Why
it's easy to keep Barreled Sunlight clean

Barreled Sunlight is a white paint which produces a surface so smooth that dust or dirt—smudges or fingermarks—cannot "sink in." It can be kept clean as easily as white tile. A damp cloth will always wash it spotless.

Ideal for bathroom and kitchen walls and for woodwork everywhere. Costs less than enamel, requires fewer coats and is guaranteed to remain white longer.

Barreled Sunlight is easy to apply. It flows freely without a brushmark. Is readily tinted. Sold in cans from half-pint to five gallon size.

Jiggs & Maggie Here

"Jiggs" and "Maggie," the Oregon Journal men, who have made a far-reaching reputation for themselves as true-to-life representatives of the comic strip in the Journal, were Coquille visitors last Saturday, and were followed by the ubiquitous small boy as they made their way around town.

"Maggie" carried her famous rolling-pin and although we didn't see "Jiggs" knocked out by it, we did hear her lay down the law to him in unmistakable terms. Even so, the little Irishman related a bit of scandal, how Maggie and a weenie vendor from North Bend had driven off and left him flat on his back as he was endeavoring to see what was the trouble with their car. Where they had spent the afternoon he couldn't tell.

This "corn beef and cabbage" couple were over here as a part of the Muscovite delegation and they took back several candidates that evening who were duly initiated into the playground of Odd Fellowship that evening in North Bend. Those from Coquille who became Muscovites were:

M. A. Pankey, Chester Krantz, Geo. Oerding, Walter Oerding, Frank G. Leslie, Guy M. Kelley, Lester Clinton, M. T. Clinton, Harry Perrott, Stanley T. Phillip, E. V. Leach, J. L. Stevens, J. P. Beyers and J. S. Lawrence.

The comic couple, when not pulling the comic stuff, are D. A. Mattox and Walter Rea, both of Portland. Their get-up was so good that no one could fail to recognize them and their stunts were clever.

Broke His Leg

Robert Starkey, aged 96, resident of Beaver Hill, injury broken femur, is the way the register at the Keizer Bros. hospital reads, and therein runs a human interest story that will thrill every resident of Coos county for all are friends of this venerable gentleman.

Mr. Starkey fell across a chair, causing the injury. He was brought to the hospital Tuesday and received surgical attendance, which was applied without an anesthetic and the patient seemed little the worse for the most painful and distressing injury.

Mr. Starkey is the oldest person received at the hospital, and is also the oldest man Dr. Phil has treated for a similar injury. Mr. Starkey is a wonderful patient, and is admired by all who come in contact with him.

Coming to California prior to the gold rush of '49 Mr. Starkey is a true westerner. He fought in the battle of Vera Cruz, his first vote was for Franklin Pierce for president and his last was for Walter M. Pierce for governor of Oregon. "The similarity of names is my only excuse," he said. He followed the sea and his stories and experiences would make an excellent volume.

Of late he has made his home at the Radleman home at Beaver Hill.—Coos Bay Harbor.

Garden of Eden

Evidence accumulates that the Garden of Eden supposed to be located somewhere in Oregon was on Coos Bay. It is the only section of Oregon possessing the climate and flora and fauna that fit into the idealistic conditions that surrounded Adam and Eve in the original home of the human race. Here we have palm trees and fir and pine, the cedars of Lebanon and fir and fern in a profusion found nowhere else on the Pacific coast.

Here, too, grows the fig tree that Adam and Eve found so convenient after they had eaten the Gravenstein apple.

These thoughts and ruminations were suggested by a small branch of a fig tree, containing twenty figs brought to the Coos Bay Times office by Leslie Hale, and cut from a tree in the yard at his home on North Broadway. This tree is about 40 years old and produces a good crop of ripe figs each year.

Coos Bay is not only the land of milk and honey, but also of figs and ferns. Here you may in fact and truth make your home under your own vine and fig tree.—Coos Bay Times.

For New Interstate Highway

A delegation of Northern California business men met Klamath Falls business men last Sunday in the Modoc lava beds and launched a preliminary plan for an interstate highway extending from Crater Lake to Lake Tahoe.

Oregon's share of the new scenic roadway is already completed to the California line. The name "Cralastah," formed from the first syllables of Crater, Mount Lassen and Lake Tahoe was tentatively adopted as the designation of the route. Another meeting will be held in September to press the campaign further.
