Two Fords Meet and Part

Two Fords met at the Busy Corner intersection at seven o'clock Wednesday morning. One of them drove off unharmed, the other lost a wheel, suffered a bent axle, fender and radius rod. Otto Pollary was driving his bakery truck up from the city dock and glanced down to pull the choke. When he looked up again he was within a few feet of Robt. A. Rodell's car from Myrtle Point. He jammed on his brakes but the cars met head on about three feet from the "Keep to the Right" sign, which is not set out in the intersection because of the turn in Front street.

Pollary could back his truck away and proceeded up town but Bob's car was pretty badly wrecked.

Roads Being Damaged

The rains this fall are playing havoc with Coos county roads. The Bandon grade has caved in for several feet in some places, leaving just room enough for cars to travel. Around Sugarloaf the same thing happened. And where they have not dropped out of sight, they are bottomless in some places.

Yesterday Sam Malhorn had to have a team drag his car out of the mud on the Dora-Gravel Ford road. He went down to his hips while trying to pry his auto out.

Receipts plentiful with undergrades hard to move.

Won by a Neck

Of all the nerve-racking, exciting and uncertain football games ever staged in Coos county that one played here last Saturday between Coquille and Myrtle Point was the most intense. The spectators seemed to feel the suspense more than did the players. Not for a moment did any of the fans feel safe or at ease and there were nearly as many people along the Myrtle Point side lines as there were on Coquille's.

In the first quarter the invaders had the best of it and outplayed the home boys but after that period Coquille showed superiority in all departments except passing and the Coquille defense was so air tight that very few of them were completed. Brice Noeler, whom all fans must agree is the best quarter in the county this year, was the X which kept the game at high tension. He handled his team work unusually well and being so fleet and deft at pulling forward passes out of the air, he had to be watched every second. In the last half, however, when the visitors gave up all hope of making yardage except by the aerial route, Clare Lehmanowsky, for Coquille, gave a striking exhibition of blocking passes and saved the local goal line from invasion time after time.

Both lines were holding well and the blocking of punts was nil. Neither could much yardage be made by either team through the line. End runs were responsible for most of the Myrtle Point gains, but when the ball had been boosted to Coquille's one yard line they didn't have strategy enough or punch enough to put it over.

Myrtle Point did just as well in resisting attack when their line was threatened and while Coquille lost two or three excellent chances for a touchdown, they were very fortunate that Lester Wilson's educated toe was successful in one of the two punts for field goals attempted.

Coquille kicked off and on the exchange of punts the ball finally rested on their five yard line. But Wilson kicked out of danger and the quarter ended with the ball near the center of the field, but having been in Coquille territory most of the time.

In the second spasm Call was signalled to carry the ball on the fourth down with a yard and a half to go. Time after time this year, he has been successful when similarly called, but this time he met Bill Mast head on, over a wall of humanity. Mast was laid out for ten minutes and then resumed play but Call was forced to retire after a few plays.

It looked like the break on the game in this quarter when Lester punted to the visitors' twenty-yard line and Brice was tackled so hard that he dropped the ball, Coquille falling on it. Ten yards was then made on line bucking, and with only ten yards to go hope ran high on the Coquille side. Five yards of the ten though was all that the locals made, a switch from bucking to passing spoiling the prospect of a score.

Myrtle Point kicked and Lester tried for a field goal but the ball went to one side. The half ended with the ball on Myrtle Point's 30-yard line.

After the visitors' kicked off for the second half Coquille quickly worked the ball down to the ten yard line and when held there decided to try for a field goal. The kick was true and well over the bar. Three points for Coquille. And that finished the scoring.

But Myrtle Point fought savagely for a touchdown, and in the fourth quarter devoted all their attention to forward passing in hopes that their swift quarter could make a getaway.

Once he did run 75 yards to the Coquille line after a forward pass, which he caught on the bounce but the local players made little attempt to stop him after the referee's whistle as the ball touched the earth. Myrtle Point's claim was that the ball had not gone forward on the pass, but parallel to the line of scrimmage and that Brice could run with it. But such was not the case. It had passed forward, at least to and a little past the scrimmage line, and was dead the instant it touched the ground.

The Myrtle Point fans went wild as Brice crossed the line but they quickly subsided when Referee White called the ball back to the point from which the pass was started. Some of them tried to argue with him but he had the rule book and quickly convinced them that his decision was according to it.

With only a moment or two remaining for play further passes were attempted but none were successful.

It was one of the season's hardest fought games. Myrtle Point's lightning like offensive was stopped by Coquille's superior defense, which stands out head and shoulders above that of any other team in the conference. Evenly matched, Coquille won because Lester Wilson has this year developed into a stellar high school punter.

The boys in the line were there at all times and deserve just as much credit as those mentioned for winning the game. And Royce Richmond as safety never knew when to stop. Tackled by three men in succession he whirled and kept moving forward even as he fell.

The same day Marshfield took the Bandon team to a cleaning by a 32 to 0 score, making the fifth game Bandon has lost.

Marshfield plays Myrtle Point this afternoon and it should occasion no surprise if the latter repeat their previous performance and defeat the Bay boys.

People Want Lower Taxes

The American people expect and demand a further cut in their Federal taxes—this, many journalistic observers agree, is one unmistakable meaning of the four-years extension of authority given to President Coolidge on November 4. "In his election at the hands of 16,000,000 of his fellow citizens Mr. Coolidge naturally finds an endorsement of his policies as well as his personality," says the democratic Boston Globe, which reminds us that he has made the lessening of the strain on the taxpayer's pocket-book by tax-reform and government economy the paramount issue of his Administration. "By their ballots, then, avers the Republican New York Herald Tribune, the people have given the President "a mandate for common-sense taxation."

"Unquestionably there will be another drive for tax-revision and economy in government expenditure," says David Lawrence, of the Consolidated Press Association, in a Washington dispatch, and he adds: "It's the biggest issue of the moment, next to an agricultural program." "Washington could begin to talk of nothing that will interest taxpayers more than reduction of taxes," remarks the Baltimore Sun (Dem.); and the New Haven Register (Ind.) hails as "encouraging" the active discussion of this subject so soon after the election.

In the business world, many of the correspondents assure us, a genuine boom is under way; and this "prosperity wave," according to the Washington bureau of the Newark Evening News, will be taken into account by the Administration in its proposed tax-reduction legislation. "One of the main arguments advanced in favor of expeditious tax-reduction," we learn from the same source, "is the statement of business leaders that it would help maintain a period of prosperity lasting not less than two years." And a financial dispatch, commenting on a decline in United States Government bonds, explains that "liquidation in these issues is attributed to banks and large investors who are switching their investments into higher yielding bonds and sound stocks in anticipation of reduction in income taxes."—Literary Digest.

Hogs Followed Owner

Hogs usually are neither intelligent nor companionable, but like other animals they do not always run true to type. In moving from one farm to another, perhaps ten miles away, Mr. Turner, a farmer of the Kentucky hills, decided, writes a contributor to the Youth's Companion, to leave his herd of forty swine in an open field at his old home until the following morning when he would return for them. Next morning he was up early in his new house, making preparations for the arduous task of driving before him over rough mountain roads two score hogs, any or all of which might prove refractory. But when he emerged from the house into the front yard imagine his astonishment at seeing his hogs, all forty of them, standing before him at the gate!

Were the hogs so much attached to their owner that they followed him to his new home? Or did they follow the trail of the farmer's cattle? The owner and all the neighbors, too, were completely mystified.

"To Walk Spanish"

To make a person "walk Spanish" is to make him come up to time, or to make him act under compulsion. It refers to the old sport among boys in which one boy seizes another by the collar and the seat of the trousers and forces him along on tiptoe. Hence, by extension, it means to walk gingerly. Apparently the expression originally referred to the manner in which the Spanish pirates used to handle their prisoners while starting them out on the plank.—Exchange.

Marshfield's Budget $86,075

Next year's budget for the city of Marshfield amounts to $86,075, of which $47,610 is to be raised by taxes. The rest will be made up according to estimates from miscellaneous receipts, of which $4,000 is expected from fines and bail forfeitures, $1,000 from premiums and accrued interest on improvement bonds, $2,500 from sales of real estate, $2500 from junk sales and $3,000 from sale of Kinney lands.

1577 in North Bend

The Harbor says that a rechecking of the school census there raised the number to 1577, about 200 more than were at first reported. The work was done at the instance of the local superintendent, M. S. Taylor, and is expected to result in a considerable increase of the school fund receipts from the state.

Two Fined on Liquor Charges

Chas. Derberg and Norman Hardy, who have been in the county jail for 42 days, were sentenced by Judge Stanley to serve that number of days and to pay fines of $300 and $200. The former pleaded guilty Monday to possession of a still on the Hardy place on Cherry creek, and the latter to possession of liquor.

Valspar

This is the only Varnish on the market that positively will not turn white when exposed to rain or moisture. It is invaluable for use in bath rooms, kitchens, tables, etc., as it resists the action of alkalies, acids, oils, etc.

Valspar is unaffected by heat or cold or the influence of sun or rain and it wears bright, retaining its lustre to the end.
