FARR & ELWOOD, INC., FEED MERCHANTS AND TRANSFER

An institution, which has added to the city in a business way and has attracted much attention by its large and substantial building located on West Front Street is the Farr & Elwood store.

Messrs. Farr and Elwood have done much toward the development of Coquille's extensive trade territory. They buy and sell grain of all kinds, as well as seeds, hay, etc. They pay the highest prices for all commodities bought, and when marketing the goods for sale, make the prices lowest consistent with best service and good business. They deal in farload lots and can deliver promptly in almost any quantity, either hay, oats, bran, special feed for horses, cattle, pigs, poultry and other live stock.

Messrs. Farr and Elwood are probably the largest buyers of feed in this section and have a large building that is capable of taking care of an unlimited amount of these goods, and through their business connections they are always in position to offer best prices. Those in the market for feed will find it to their advantage to see either Mr. Farr or Mr. Elwood before buying elsewhere, as they can undoubtedly give you better goods than can be found elsewhere and at prices that are surprisingly low.

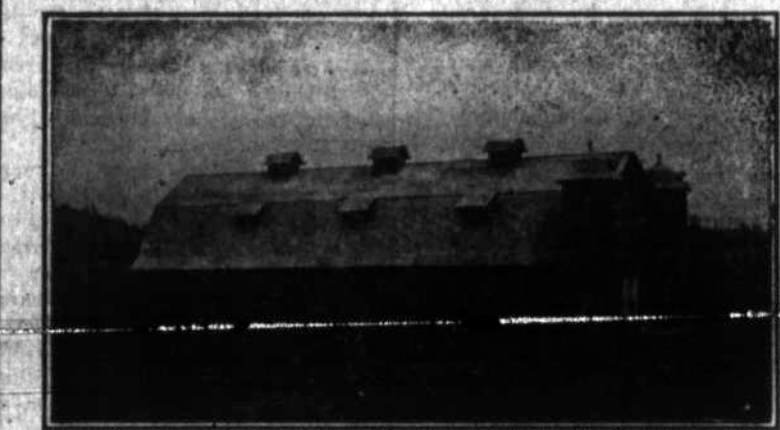

In connection with the feed business conducted, Messrs. Farr and Elwood also do a general transfer business and trucking. They are prepared to handle produce, fruit and mercantile hauling as well as household moving. One of the most important things in the transfer business is being on time when called upon to undertake a job. In this respect the service rendered by these gentlemen is not to be surpassed. Their office can be reached on phone 16. They have an excellent equipment for handling of all kinds of transfer work and there is no concern to be found that will give better service.

In addition to the splendid equipment already in use by this firm, they recently purchased a ton and a half truck with which they plan to do a general transfer business. This firm will maintain a regular schedule between this city and Bandon, making at least one trip daily.

Farr & Elwood also handle a full line of building material and we recommend anyone who is contemplating building to call on this firm and get their prices. They can make satisfactory deliveries and their supplies come up to the standard tests.

Messrs. Farr & Elwood take an active part in boosting Coquille and this section. In fact, there are probably no better boosters in the city than they are and they are reaping the benefits of their unusual efforts to please the public. The record of growth and expansion of their business is one that they can take a personal pride in, and for a business of this kind to grow to the proportions of this establishment in a community no larger than this one—calls for a high class of citizenship. The growth of the business is one that should not only be gratifying to its proprietors but should be pleasing to every citizen resident of this district as an index to the high character of our citizenship.

A COOS COUNTY DAIRY BARN

This immense structure, 66x200 feet in size, was built last year by H. E. Hess, on the Russ tract, across the river from Coquille. It is the finest type of barn in Coos county.

In the matter of transportation Coquille is most fortunately served by the Coast Auto Lines, which radiate out of Coquille in every direction connecting Coquille with all of the surrounding country and affording two major connections with the north and south coast highway service and direct connection with California via Crescent City.

Coquille is the headquarters of the company which is under the direct personal supervision of that genial Coquille citizen and booster, George W. Bryant, the general manager of the company.

The transportation service roughly covers the following scheduled lines: Marshfield, Myrtle Point and Roseburg, Bandon, Gold Beach, Brookings, Crescent City, California, to Grants Pass, Oregon, hourly service being maintained between Coquille and Marshfield, and three round trips daily being made to Roseburg with daily trips to Crescent City and from Crescent City to Grants Pass. Close connection is made at Roseburg with both trains and stages going north to Portland and southbound. Connections is also made at Crescent City, with through stages to San Francisco and Southern California points.

The equipment used on the various lines operated by this company are to the last word modern and are such as cater to the comfort and absolute safety of the company's passengers. Facilities are also furnished for handling traveler's baggage in conjunction with the passenger service, and, notwithstanding the dangerous condition which often prevails during the winter months on the roads traversed by the company's stages, the company feels great satisfaction and pride that they have not had a single accident, in which any passengers have been seriously injured, even though their drivers have had at various times strenuous work in bringing through their stages. In the main the stages of this company are held to a very close schedule which is maintained on time. The remarkable absence of accident is due not only to the fact of the excellent equipment maintained by the company and its exacting inspection and maintenance effort, but is also largely due to the personnel of the company's employees, the drivers of the stages. The drivers are in every instance chosen as men experienced and mentally qualified to look after the safety of the passengers and their property.

The contact between manager Bryant and the employees is such as to stimulate in each employee a feeling of responsibility and a knowledge that carefulness and conscientious service will always be recognized and commensurately rewarded. The feeling between the employees and George Bryant is not that of the employee and employer, but is rather that of business associates and personal friends.

The headquarters of the company are located in the Coquille Hotel building where courteous office attendants are always pleased to advise patrons and the general public in relation to anything connected with the company's service, and are always pleased to give information as to connections that can be made that will contribute to the convenience and comfort of the passengers and will help them to make pleasant and safe stage journeys to any and all parts of the country.

The company has purchased ground upon which it is planned to erect a modern stage terminal in the near future that will afford the company to give more convenient service to its patrons. The item of expense in the operating of this company's stage lines is never considered where the safety and passengers' convenience is in question, and the transportation service afforded by this organization is one of the large contributing factors to the growth and prosperity not only of Coquille but of the entire surrounding district. George Bryant and his associates can be truthfully referred to as assets to this district and there is no more staunch or consistent community worker and booster than is George Bryant.

Coquille's auto park is in the midst of a grove of big myrtle trees.

F. C. HUDSON'S DRUG STORE RIVALS THOSE OF LARGE CITIES

One of the establishments which, from its general appearance and its large and varied stock, would indicate to the observant stranger the progressiveness of this city, is the Hudson drug store located at 466 South Taylor Street.

This establishment is one that is in every way modern. Its equipment, its efficient management and general conduct is such that it would be considered a down to the minute drug store in any city, and the volume of business handled by this store would compare most favorably with the leading drug establishments of the large cities of the state.

A branch of the business of the store, which is exceedingly popular with physicians of this district is the prescription department. This department is presided over by a registered pharmacist, who realizes that the directions of the doctor for each individual prescription are of the utmost importance. This is realized by the physicians of the district, and in sending prescriptions to this department they get the exact medicine desired for the particular case they are prescribing for. In compiling prescriptions this store makes it a practice never to substitute any ingredient for that called for by the physician, and to be very certain that each ingredient in the prescription is of the desired strength and purity called for by the physician.

Another popular department is the one carrying cigars, cigarettes and tobacco. Here will be found everything to please the individual taste of the smoker.

This store handles all of the usual accessories to be had in a drug business, such as perfumes, toilet articles, stationery, leather goods, thermos goods, fountain pens, alarm clocks, rubber goods, candies, etc. Mr. Hudson is the representative for this district for the well known Eastman kodaks and films.

This store always maintains a service that is eminently satisfactory. The customer will always get at this store the goods that he calls for. This establishment carries no goods known as long-shots to put off on the public. The goods carried at this drug store are all such goods as have demonstrated through test their value for their purpose.

Taking it as a whole, there is no more up to date store in the city, and Mr. Hudson is one of the city's very best citizens, who has always been doing something for Coquille in his own way and at all times having a good word for its progress. We recommend that you go and see this place of business and try the service.

C. W. ASHTON'S NEW $7,000 RESIDENCE

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS ARE THE RULE AT THE CITY MEAT MARKET

There is not a more up to date meat market anywhere than that operated under the name of the City Meat Market.

This meat market is a source of much pleasure to the citizens of Coquille, because here they can get any kind of meat that is obtainable in the larger cities, and at the most reasonable prices. This market carries a full line of both fresh and smoked meats of the finest quality.

This market is under the personal supervision of O. T. Nelson, who has established a reputation of making good every assertion made by him, and can be depended upon to do exactly what he says. He believes in being absolutely fair with the patrons and will not sell them goods that are inferior in quality.

This market is well arranged and is completely stocked with the above lines, and customers will not be disappointed in looking over the goods offered here. If a place is attractively arranged so as to properly display the goods handled, the first expression of a customer, which is usually a lasting one, will be such as to result in their becoming regular buyers. This is the case with the City Meat Market. Mr. Nelson has built up this business by his careful manner of handling the customers and treating them all right, new as well as old.

Mr. Nelson is popular among a large host of the best citizens of the city. He has always been ready and willing to do his duty and when called upon has contributed freely toward the boosting and upbuilding of the city. This market conducted by him has a long line of regular customers who testify as to the fair and honest dealings they have received at this market, and this is the best that can be said of any business concern.

Coos County Court House

The frame section of Coos county's court house was built in 1898 when the county seat was moved from Empire to Coquille. The newer Hall of Records is an absolutely fireproof building built in 1916 and 1917. It contains the offices of the county clerk, the county treasurer, the sheriff and tax collector and the county jail is on the top floor.
