board and Mayor Johnson, provided the funds needed could be secured, and a committee consisting of J. J. Stanley, H. A. Young and L. H. Hazard was appointed to confer with the two municipal boards.

Mr. Snyder, of North Bend was then called upon to explain to the members the plan for an arch at the intersection of the Coos Bay and Pacific Highways. He began by stating that he had found it difficult to break into Coquille but that he had not been here twice within a week or two; and that he liked the town and its people. He was here about 25 years ago, he said, and while preaching at the M. E. South church a door fell down: "I was there a few days ago," he continued, "and the same door fell down." He gradually led up to the subject of his visit, telling how people are going to come to the coast this year by tens of thousands, and finally called attention to the plans for an archway across the Pacific Highway.

Built of concrete base and stucco with gong and revolving light on top, it would attract attention and tend to bring people to Coos county who otherwise might pass up the opportunity. It would cost about $3600 he said and the plan was to secure the co-operation of all commercial bodies as well as the county court. It would be provided with a room where an attendant would always be present to give information and pass out literature.

After some discussion a motion endorsing the movement was adopted. Messrs. Loggie and McDaniel both gave very interesting talks, expressing their pleasure at being present and commending the way in which the organization was functioning.

Withdrawals will be permitted by check but the pass book must accompany the check. In the case of withdrawals interest, of course, will be allowed only on the amount remaining in the bank for the full six months period.

The First National was organized in 1903 and is acknowledged to be one of the strongest and best managed banks in the county. The many friends and patrons of this institution will be pleased to know of the installation of this addition service and will no doubt make use of it freely.

Pioneer Resident Is Gone

Mrs. A. L. Nosler died at her home in the north part of the city last Monday shortly after noon. She had been ill for a year, the decline beginning when she had the flu last February.

The funeral services were held at the Christian church at two o'clock Wednesday and were attended by more than could find seats in the building. A vast array of floral wreaths and emblems and offerings testified to the affection and esteem in which the deceased was held by her friends and neighbors.

The services were conducted by T. B. McDonald, of the Christian church at Myrtle Point, assisted by E. A. Palmer, of the church here. The former did not preach a sermon but gave a sincere and heart-to-heart talk to the audience.

Annie Hatcher was born in Livingston county, Missouri, July 10, 1851, being past 73 years of age at the time of her passing.

She came to Coos county in 1872, after a year spent in teaching in Josephine county. She taught school her first year here, in the Cunningham district, the log school house then being located on what is now the county farm.

On June 17, 1874, she was married to Amos L. Nosler at Empire, which was then the county seat. Two days were required to make the trip over and back. By steamer to the mouth of Beaver Slough they went. From there Mr. Nosler paddled to the head of the slough and from there they walked a mile and a half to the head of Isthmus Inlet, whence a boat carried them around the bay to Empire. There was not even the tramway across the divide at that time.

To this union four children were born, of whom three survive. They lost their third child forty-four years ago. Those surviving are Claude H. Nosler, of Myrtle Point, Fred N. Nosler, and Mrs. Maude M. Wilson, of Coquille.

Besides her husband and three children she leaves nine grand children, three great grandchildren, a brother and two sisters. Mrs. J. P. Messer, of this city, is one sister, and Mrs. Sarah Gibbs, of Grants Pass, the other. Hiram Hatcher, of Myrtle Point, is her brother.

The newly married couple started house-keeping in what was then a forest, north of the Knife Apartments, on Coquille street and bank, made their home there ever since, except for twelve years of the time when they lived at Bridge. The original house burned many years ago but they have always retained the land.

When they went out there to live, there was a little shack near the present site of the high school, and there were two or three small houses down near the river bank, as well as the Miller House, where the hotel stands and Moulton's store. They literally carved a home out of the wilderness and have witnessed the stages of Coquille's growth for over half a century together.

Nearly sixty years ago Mrs. Nosler became a member of the Church of Christ and has been a faithful and consistent member ever since. She was a kind and devoted wife and mother and her memory will be cherished by friends all their lives. She was a good neighbor and active in good work until old age limited her activities.
