Misses Bea Maury, Mabel Elstman, Ella Horn and Mrs. Annie Rooney were Marshfield visitors last night.

See the "Prince of Pilsen" in the Community Building, Coquille, Wednesday, March 11. Musical comedy extraordinary.

No one in Coos county, who tried in to hear President Coolidge inaugural address Wednesday seems to have found the radio working satisfactorily.

J. E. Quick and sisters, Mrs. Flora Dunn and Mrs. Mary Harvey, will leave in their car this evening to spend the week end with their sister at Albany. The father has just moved there from Baker, Ore.

Cut flowers and pot plants; funeral work a specialty. Leave your orders with Gould & Gould, agents. Marshfield Florist Co.

The Lumby Cheese Factory, near Myrtle Point, has just expended $2500 in enlarging its building and installing new machinery and its new manager, Chris Nelson, invites the public to call and look over its plant.

See the "Prince of Pilsen" in the Community Building, Coquille, Wednesday, March 11. Musical comedy extraordinary.

A number of cars from here went up to Myrtle Point last night, the occasion being a social meeting of the Easter Star chapter up there. A number of tickets to "The Prince of Pilsen" were disposed of while there.

Genevieve Chase, of Coquille, has been nominated for the office of vice president of the campus Y. W. C. A. at the University of Oregon. She will be opposed in the election next Tuesday afternoon by Beatrice Peters, Portland.

It will be easier and more pleasant to take your Sunday dinner at the new Coquille Hotel.

Rev. Thomas Barklow, of Myrtle Point, who has been spending the winter in California, for the benefit of his wife's health writes us that they are about ready to start home and expect to be in Myrtle Point again in a few days.

A musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," at the Community Building, Coquille, next Wednesday, March 11. Tickets can be reserved at Hudson's Drug Store tomorrow.

Mrs. E. O. Howe received a telegram from Beida, Miss., last Sunday that her mother, Mrs. Hattie Daniels, had passed away Feb. 29th. She was 84 years old. Mr. and Mrs. Howe visited her five months last year.

Don't worry about your battery when you can take it to an expert at the Coquille Service Station and have it inspected.

Bert H. Coeka, travelling representative of the Donnelly Garment Co., the house which manufactures Nellie Don wash dresses—was a Coquille visitor last Saturday and Sunday. He formerly lived in Independence, Kansas, and is an old friend of the Sentinel folks.

Dairymen—Ship your Cream to the Coquille Ice Cream Co. for best results.

Dr. and Mrs. V. L. Hamilton were in Coquille for a few hours last Sunday on their way home to The Dalles. They had been over on Coos river on a fishing trip and reported the catch of 63 trout over 10 inches in length. How many they caught under that length they didn't say.

R. H. Logan paid a $250 fine in Justice Stanley's court Wednesday for wrongful use of a dealer's license plate. He was just starting to work as a salesman for an auto dealer at the Bay and attached a dealer's license to a Ford in which he was transporting his household effects to Myrtle Point.

The Sentinel and the Oregon Farmer both for $2.15 a year.

Jas. W. Laird is in receipt of a copy of the Honolulu Advertiser in which appear the pictures of Misses Pauline and Christine Laird, doing the swim dive on Waikiki Beach. These young ladies are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Laird, and they have made quite a reputation for themselves on the islands as swimmers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane Levee returned to Coquille Wednesday to again make their home, in his father's home. After the funeral Monday they returned to Langhale, packed up their belongings and hurried back. Lane's position as government trapper at such that he can make his home here just as easily as in Curry county.

Ira Couldn't Find Bill

Ira Johnson has been having considerable trouble lately keeping track of his black bird dog, "Bill." Wednesday afternoon, Ira got an intimation, when Bill disappeared, that the police might have grabbed him. He jumped into the first Ford he came to, found it wasn't his, tried again and landed in the right car. He then fogged it up the street, passing Bill's usual haunts, and incidentally the city hall, and on his return found Bill peacefully occupying his kennel in the basement of the Ellington block.

Special Chicken Dinner at the new Coquille Hotel every Sunday.

Was a Paroled Convict

H. A. Potts, indicted on two counts by the grand jury, for writing bad checks, will not be tried at this term of court. It was found that he was on parole from the state penitentiary, where he was committed to a five year term for a similar crime. His parole has been revoked and officers came down from Salem this morning to get him.

Cooked Food Sale Tomorrow

The ladies of St. James Episcopal Guild will give a cooked food sale at the Raymond Milk Dairy Saturday, March 7th. Sale begins at 10 o'clock in the morning and fresh homemade doughnuts and coffee will be served all day. The doughnuts will be made and served in the building and orders will be filled for any amount.

Mrs. John W. Levee Pump

Mrs. John W. Levee, who had been feeling much better lately, she had for the past five years, passed away at her home on Sherwood Heights last Friday evening at 11:30. She had been feeling so well that day that in the early evening she and Mr. Levee had been over to the court house listening to W. C. Rose's radio. They got home about 10:30, and went to bed. A little after eleven she woke Mr. Levee, telling of a terrible pain in her side. He rushed to get the remedies which had relieved her before but when he came back she was lying down—something unusual with her. The doctor was called but she passed away soon after his arrival.

Mrs. Levee had not been well for the past 15 years, and had been very poorly since a serious illness five years ago.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Ellington Chapel and were attended by many of her friends and neighbors that could be accommodated. The tributes of flowers accorded by her loving friends testified to the esteem and affection in which she was held.

Mrs. Fred Bellini, pastor in the Christian Science church, conducted the first part of the services, which were concluded by the Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Levee was a member.

Elly Cox was born in Douglas county October 21, 1869, and moved to Curry county with her parents, while a small girl. In 1888 she came to Coquille to live with her grandmother and on October 25 of that year was united in marriage to J. W. Levee. They have made their home here since, except for a year they spent in California.

They have had but one child, Lenora, who with her wife came up from Langhale Saturday morning as soon as they received the sad news.

She leaves besides three her nephews, Alton Grimes, who thought as much of her as though she had been his own mother. She took him with her as a baby and he has always made it home with her. She also leaves several half-brothers and half sisters, living in Curry county and Oregon, Calif.

Mrs. Levee was a woman whom it was a real pleasure to know. Always of cheerful disposition and eager to help her friends or those in distress, even in her years of sickness she never lost her cheery smile and ready assistance. Her death is a loss to the community in which she lived. Her sympathy of the entire community is extended.

Lives to Be 87

Thomas J. Stillwell died on Friday, February 27, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Annie Babin, after a long illness of two years and seven months. Mr. Stillwell was born January 16, 1836, and was 87 years, 1 month and 11 days old at the time of his death. He was a native of Michigan, crossing the plains in 1864. Mrs. Stillwell, then aged four months at the same time. Mr. and Mrs. Stillwell recently observed their 60th wedding anniversary, being married at what is now Yreka, Oregon, in 1865. They came to Coos county in 1882 settling at Beulah in 1886 and living here continuously for the past 37 years.—Beulah World.

Fought the Cop

The officers of the city were enriched to the tune of $15 as the result of an attempt on the part of Pat Bottom to drown his sorrows in the city that dawn. Pat was observed by Night Officer Oakes Saturday night parking a flask on the hip and when the officer reached for it the possessor pulled it out and struck Oakes over the head, cutting a gash behind the left ear. The officer used his billy and got the bottle, taking Bottom to jail. Bail in the amount of $50 was posted in Municipal Judge Hart's court the following morning and on Monday the defendant appeared and was fined $15 each on three counts.—Beulah World.

Why Cleaver Had to Go

From Mrs. Virginia E. Wallburn, a social reform worker, we are in receipt of a copy of the speech, which she recently made before the joint prohibition investigating committee of the state legislature at Salem, from which we quote as follows:

The first startling discovery I made in my pilgrimage through the underworld at Portland, was that the leaders of the criminal elements—especially those engaged in the illicit liquor traffic, had little fear of any officers except the State Prohibition force.

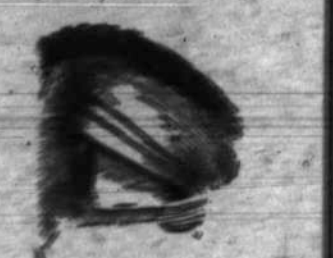

The second significant discovery I made was the astounding revelation that almost every newspaper in wide circulation in Portland was fighting the state office in command of George L. Cleaver—and that the news gathered for these dailies seemed almost with a desire to not only discredit the State Commissioner, but all of his deputies, agents or employees. I found them watching the courts feverishly to catch the name of any informer, witness or stool pigeon. I found them watching the records and publishing the names of men witnesses to the world as State Prohibition officers—thus spreading the poisonous vapors of disrespect for real officers of the law. This venom has passed into every hamlet—into the subconscious mind of Oregon's prospective jurymen—and spread itself on the records of the professional bootleggers' attorneys, whose sole defense is in discrediting the prohibition agent.

Naturally I sought the reason! No need to go far to find it. George L. Cleaver had dared to enter the Portland Press Club and carry away their supply of liquor. Not satisfied with this audacity, he walked in on a society drinking party; took the liquor out of the hands of the guests; confiscated the supply; and took the heat as full—regardless of the threats of the night.
