Rev. and Mrs. C. S. Bergner left Coquille at eight o'clock Wednesday morning, going by stage to Roseburg, where they boarded the Southern Pacific southbound. Death of Michael Sandon

Mrs. Zoe Sandon received a wire announcing the death from heart failure of Michael Sandon, brother of her deceased husband, Alec Sandon, who was killed in the mill at Marshfield Jan. 5 of this year. Michael Sandon was here at the funeral of his brother, Jan. 12 and took home with him his aged mother, Grandma Sandon, and now poor old grandma will have to change homes again. Michael Sandon died in California, where he was foreman of a logging camp. His body is in transit to Corvallis, Oregon, where he will be buried and where the family have lived for several years, two or three of his daughters being graduates of O. A. C.

M. W. A. Delegates

A. E. Howe, H. B. Carter and E. H. Kern were delegates to the county camp of the Modern Woodmen held in Myrtle Point Wednesday night, from Beaver Camp, No. 10550. W. Lee Ray, of Myrtle Point, was elected to attend the state camp, which will meet at Albany, May 4.

Incorporated Bandon Auto Park

Bandon-by-the-sea Auto Park Inc. is the name of a new corporation that will begin business in the near future in that city. The members of the company are Harry E. Hall, W. E. Hall and Keith A. Caldwell. The capital stock is $10,000.—Western World.

J. L. Stevens Won Bicycle

J. L. Stevens was the holder of the lucky number which drew the bicycle given away by Gould & Gould at the close of their annual furniture sale last Saturday. Jim says he doesn't know whether he was lucky or not for if his youngest son can ride the bicycle he won it will mean that he will have to buy one for each of the other boys.

Ford Not For Roadmaster

The county court order authorizing the purchase of a Ford roadster for the roadmaster's office was a little misleading to the Sentinel reporter last week. The roadster was not for the use of Roadmaster W. A. Gilbert, who has a car of his own, but for the use of the maintenance department—the crew which is out all the time repairing the highways.

Willoughbys Go to Waldo, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Willoughby, of the Remote neighborhood, who have relatives in Coquille, left last week for Waldo, Oregon, where he will take over an interest in some rich placer claims with Mr. Hutton, who is already on the ground getting things in readiness for operation.

Operetta Was Splendid

The high school cast in the operetta, "The Gypsy Rover," presented at the Liberty Theatre last Friday night, heaved a sigh of relief when the curtain went down on the last act but the audience, which filled the house, felt that it had been very worth while. A great deal of credit belongs to Miss Ruth Nissen, who so untiringly drilled the actors, held rehearsals and directed the presentation. With seventy-one in the cast it was a herculean effort to personally oversee and overhear every part of the musical comedy which took more than two hours to present.

There are some very good voices among the students in the high school, and although they are not strong and developed as are those of professional singers they made a splendid success of "The Gypsy Rover."

The acting, too, was excellent and everything moved along as smoothly as though the actors were of the profession.

Garnet Steward, who had the leading part, has a very sweet voice and her singing was a great pleasure to hear. She was also very successful in her presentation of the high-born English lady.

The leading male part was taken by Wilfred Laird and he did excellently, whether it was telling stories to the gypsy children, singing to the lady of his choice, or taking dialogue parts.

Hadley Curtis and Lester Wilson, as Marto and Sinfo, two housebreaking gypsies, pulled a song and dance turn that was clever and mighty well executed.

Allen Young, as father of Lady Constance, took his part well and was good in his musical numbers.

One of the most difficult characterizations was that of Clarence Barton, who acted to perfection as Lord Craven, monoco, "don't you know," and all the other oddities of the English gentleman making his part comical and yet presented with an assurance and calmness that nothing ruffled.

Mildred Chapin, as Nina, second daughter of Sir Geo. Martendale, is another of the singers who proved that evening that she has a good voice.

Perhaps the most self-possessed of the whole cast was Geo. Belloni, butler in Sir George's home, who was not a whit abashed when his announcement of Sir Gilbert Howe came a little too soon for Sir Gilbert's appearance, he having to change himself from gypsy to conventional attire.

Others of the cast who were the means of making the operetta a success were Doris Myhren, Marvin Hawkins, Clare Lehmanowaky, Rupert Pownder and Harry Varney.

The gypsy dancers—Leah Huther, Avis Hartson, Thelma Nelson and Wanda Houdyshell—were skillful and clever in their dancing and their brightly colored costumes added to the beautiful effect. Miss Huther also pleased the audience with a solo dance in the second act.

The double sextette chorus consisting of Verna Harrold, Mary Watson, Marian Norton, Lena Pinkston, Jenn Young, Lois Ball, Harold Peart, Eugene Laird, Wayne Robinson, Tyler Walker, Rupert Pownder and Verrill McCurdy made a very pleasing appearance and did excellent chorus singing.

The group of gypsy children, Jettie Watson, Grace Hill, George Tracy Leach, Betty Glaisyer, Milton Aalton, Yula Minard, Earl Morris and Myrtle Wilson, were just as natural as though to the Bohemian life born.

One of the most difficult tasks devolving on anyone was that of accompanist and Phyllis McCurdy covered herself with glory for the way in which she handled the theatre's large organ.

It was a considerable undertaking for high school students to attempt the production of an operetta and they richly deserve the applause they received and the commendations which they have received since.

The show netted the high school treasury about $118.

To Initiate Class of 20

Two High Records at U. of O.

Two Coquille students at the University of Oregon were among those to receive no grades less than B, according to the grade sheet recently issued by the registrar's office for the term which ended March 20. The students are Genevieve Chase, a sophomore majoring in Romance languages, and Mary A. Donaldson, senior, majoring in education. Forty-nine women and forty-one men out of the total enrollment of approximately 3,000 received no grades less than B for the past term's work. Only three received I in all subjects. I is the highest grade given unless special honors are applied for at the beginning of the term.

Powder Magazine Completed

Through certain arrangements between Farr & Elwood and the J. A. Denn Powder Co., of Roseburg, a new storage magazine will be used as a distributing point for central Coos county. The establishment of this storage magazine here will eliminate the necessity of explosive users sending to Marshfield for their powder, as has been the custom in the past. There will be a complete stock of Giant Explosives stored here at all times and Farr & Elwood with their trucking facilities will be able to give prompt and efficient service.

Shuck Mountain Road Fine

The Sentinel quotes Judge R. H. Maat as saying the Norway-Lee market road over Shuck mountain is in the best condition now that it ever has been. Last Wednesday the maintenance crew of the roadmaster's department scraped and rolled that section of the road until it was in excellent condition. Mr. Gant's statement, published last week, was made on Monday, just after he had been over it and had seen the cars stuck. But before the Sentinel was published on Friday the road had been greatly improved.

An Appreciation

Coos Bay Harbor
Rev. C. S. Bergner, of the Coquille Presbyterian church, has resigned and will go back east. Mr. Bergner, a young man, could not content himself by preaching to small assemblies which had greeted him in the county seat. By his retirement the city loses a live wire, one who was secretary of the chamber of commerce, a Boy Scout leader and a member of the Cornfield Canaries, the booster chorus which gained renown by its songs.

Remodelling Hersey Building

E. W. Gregg started this week remodelling the Hersey building, alongside the brick in which the postoffice is located. His first job was to straighten and strengthen the frame, the walls being about six inches out of plumb. He then put in a new floor, a partition across the rear and is preparing to install large plate glass windows in front. It will be nearly a month before the chain grocery store can occupy it.

To Gym Class Members

All members of the Gymnasium class are requested to either attend the class Tuesday night or make it known to the president or secretary whether they intend to continue with the class or not.

Kaludes Out on Bond
Peter Kaludes, who has been in the county jail here since Feb. 24, when he shot his sweetheart, Mrs. Freddie Page, and wanted to follow it with a shot into his own head, was released Monday after a $2500 surety bond had been posted for his appearance. The bond required was reduced from $10,000 to $2500 after Mrs. Page recovered from the wound in her shoulder.

Kaludes is a resident of Reedsport, while Mrs. Page conducts a rooming house in Bunker Hill.

Stiff Booze Sentence
E. A. Wilson and his son, T. A. Wilson, who live near the Country Club grounds, were brought over here to jail last Saturday, having been given six and three months respectively, and fined $1500 and $250, by Justice W. J. Rust for possession of a still and manufacturing of liquor. The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriff Malehorn and other deputies.

Coquille Has That Many
According to Wednesday morning's Oregonian there are 153 cases of flu in the state, of which 38 are in Portland, and all are mild cases. We venture the assertion that there have been more than 153 cases in Coquille alone during the past two weeks.

Send the Sentinel to eastern friends.

Total receipts by the county clerk during March were $963.70, divided as follows: Recording, $438.75; Circuit court, $306; Probate and county court, $142.50; marriage licenses, $54; miscellaneous, $22.45.
