Widespread Belief in Horshoe as Talisman
The horshoe is one of the very oldest talismans for woeing good fortune that exists. The belief in its efficacy is held almost all over the world, and has been present since the dawn of history.

Keep Out the Sun
West windows are to be avoided for the afternoon sun is too strong for plants, and it does not seem to act favorably on even the most sun-loving plants, says Nature Magazine.

Highly Imaginary
The "Land of Cockayne" was an imaginary land of idleness and plenty in which the houses were roofed with casks, the rivers ran with wine and roasted fowl offered themselves to be eaten.

The Seven Wise Men
The Seven Sages of Wise Men of Greece and the motto of each were: Solon of Athens, "Know thyself"; Chilo of Sparta, "Consider the end"; Thales of Miletus, "Who hateth surety-ship is sure"; Bias of Priene, "Most men are bad"; Cleobolus of Lindos, "The golden mean"; Pittacus of Mitylene, "Refrain from the forelock"; Periander of Corinth, "Nothing is impossible to industry."

Preserving Book Bindings
The Bureau of standards advises that the application of a thin coating of egg albumen to the leather binding of the books will prevent decay. The use of ammonia for diluting and preserving the solution should be avoided, but the whites, after a thorough beating, may be made antiseptic by the addition of a small quantity of camphor, thymol or some essential oil.

Look for the Best
Every man has his laws and weaknesses; nay, the greatest blemishes are often found in the most shining characters; but what an absurd thing it is to pass over all the valuable parts of a man and fix our attention on his infirmities.—Exchange.
