FOR IMPROVEMENT OF COOS BAY WAGON ROAD

A delegation of Marshfield, Fairview, Brewster Valley and Sitkum citizens appeared before the county court Wednesday asking that road work be done to put the Coos Bay Wagon road in such condition that it can be used as a means of direct communication between the upper valleys of the North and East Forks and Coos Bay.

The delegation did not receive any assurance from the court other than that J. H. Scott, state market road engineer, would be asked to make a report on its feasibility as a market road, which the people of those sections are asking to be done.

Judge Mast told those in attendance just why they cannot expect anything done on that road this year, except a little maintenance work, which would not help a great deal on the far side of Summer mountain.

In the first place the county has no funds budgeted for the purpose, and the proposal to "borrow" from some bond funds, which are to be voted on next month, is unworthy of consideration for from what project could they be borrowed? Would Marshfield permit any of the funds for their beach road to be used on Summer mountain? More than that the court does not propose to issue bonds if they are voted, until construction work requires that they be sold.

Another thing is that when the county road program was worked out by the court and Good Roads Association last year, no item was included in the proposition, for this section of the Coos Bay Wagon Road.

Judge Mast expresses great doubt that the route would be accepted by the state as a market road, as the collars were asking, for there are five ranges of hills to cross and on many of them a grade of less than eight per cent cannot be secured except at a prohibitive price for construction. The state market road limit for grades is five per cent.

All road engineers are agreed that the water level route is the only feasible plan for road building and with the Fairview-Lee market road under construction this year, which will permit an almost water level route from that section to Coquille and thence to Coos Bay, the court would not promise that they would begin work on a highway, which would have to cross one range of hills after another.

Sheep Raisers Want Protection

Lowering bounties for coyotes and bobcats and removal of government trappers is threatening the sheep raising industry at Powers, according to word received at the Bay yesterday. Pat Easley, Mike Summerlin and A. D. Bones, three of the largest sheep raisers, are reported to have lost heavily during the last few weeks.

John Wilson, spokesman for the Southern Pacific, declared that he could find a hundred lamb carcasses on the hillsides. Coyotes kill the lambs to suck the blood only, leaving the carcasses with throats slit.

Animals have become bolder since the government trappers were taken away and now come close to the city of Powers. Pat Easley found two twin lambs with throats cut this week when he decided to fulfill his promise of making a present of one for John Wilson.

Sheep raisers are aroused by the action of officials who have cut the bounties so that it is no longer profitable to kill the animals. They point out the heavy fines imposed upon men for killing deer out of season, when coyotes and bobcats slay large numbers of the young during fawning season.—Daily News.

County Court Business

Since the last issue of the Sentinel the county court has attended to considerable business besides calling the special bond election before May 12.

Messrs. W. A. Gilbert, Geo. McCulloch and Chas. St. Dennis have been appointed viewers to lay out the road from Lakeside to a connection with the Roosevelt Highway north of the Bay.

A call for bids for clearing and grading the old Kittyville road, between Marshfield and North Bend, which the county will build this year, was ordered.

A permit was given M. W. Fayno to haul logs across the county highway for the bridge he is going to build across the North Fork.

An election was called to be held in the city of Empire, Tuesday, May 12, when the question of allowing stock to run at large within the city limits will be voted upon. From the interest shown by the citizens there it is going to be a hot fight.

E. H. Lewhorn was granted a license to conduct the McKinley Community Hall as a dance hall. It contains 1384 square feet.

No Funds for Boy Scouts

A letter to the Coquille Boy Scout Council from John O. Kendall, president of the county council, was read at the Chamber of Commerce meeting in the hotel Wednesday evening. It conveyed the information that unless all the towns which had supported scouting—Coquille, Myrtle Point, Bandon, Marshfield and North Bend—came through promptly with funds for the past quarter and a guarantee for the balance of the year, the paid executive would have to be dispensed with in Coos county.

North Bend has definitely withdrawn from support of the executive and one other town in the Coquille valley has not met the quota subscribed, so there is very little prospect that the county organization can be maintained this year.

Coquille was $72.50 short of meeting its payment for the first quarter of 1925 and this amount was voted by the Chamber to be paid out of its funds, leaving Coquille with a clean slate.

It was with extreme reluctance that the Chamber gave up the idea of a county council and executive, for the more they have learned of Scouting the more favorably the men of the organization have been impressed with the good it was doing. It is hoped that the cessation will be but temporary and that by 1926 it can be resumed in full force.

Meanwhile Scoutmaster M. F. Hill will continue to conduct Coquille Troop No. Two, and it is hoped that some one can be found, self-sacrificing enough to become scoutmaster of Troop One, and thus keep the Boy Scouts here active until a full Scout program can be resumed when conditions are right for it.

New Bids on Hotel May 1

Bids on the new Marshfield hotel will be called for again about May first, the plans having been meanwhile reduced to fit the cash available for the structure. Bids on the building will be divided into 26 different items, which will allow more of the smaller contractors to get a finger in the pie.

HONEY RECIPES ARE OF UNUSUAL NATURE

Lends Itself Very Nicely as Sugar Substitute.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Not only is the honey useful to eat strained, in the comb, or candied, but it lends itself to use in place of sugar in cookery, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Baked fruit, such as whole apples with the cores removed; baked whole peaches or cooked dried fruit are very good sweetened with honey in place of sugar. Preserves or marmalades may also be made with honey. Apple or pear preserves made by the following recipe are very good:

Honey Preserves.
2 quarts apples or 1 teaspoonful cinnamon
2 cups sugar or 1 cup honey
1 cupful vinegar

Heat the honey, vinegar and cinnamon together and cook the pieces of fruit a few at a time in the sirup until they become transparent. Pour over all the sirup which remains after all the fruit is cooked.

Honey may also be used in cake making or for sweetening ice cream, custards or puddings, and in cake and cookie making. In substituting honey for sugar you will get good results if you will follow your old recipes, substituting a cupful of honey for a cupful of sugar and using one-fourth less of whatever liquid the recipe requires.

Soft Honey Custard.
1 cupful milk 1-2 cupful honey
1 egg yolk 1/2 teaspoonful salt

Mix the honey, eggs and salt. Scald the milk and pour it over the eggs. Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens.

This custard is suitable for use in place of cream on gelatin desserts or to be poured over sliced oranges or stewed fruit.

Sauce for Ice Cream.
1 teaspoonful cornstarch
1/2 cupful butter 1/2 cupful honey
1/2 cupful milk

Cook together the cornstarch and butter thoroughly, being careful not to brown them. Add the honey and cook the mixture until it becomes hard when dropped into cold water and until all taste of raw cornstarch has been removed.

Hot or Neugat Wafers.
1/2 cupful butter 1/2 teaspoonful sugar
1/2 cupful brown ginger or sugar 1/2 teaspoonful powdered car-
1/2 cupful milk 1/2 teaspoonful car-
1/2 cupful bread crumbs or un-
sifted flour

Put together the butter and the sugar and add alternately the milk and the flour sifted with the spices. Spread in a very thin layer on the bottom of an inverted dripping pan or on flat tins made for the purpose. Mark off into pieces about an inch wide and four inches long, bake and put together in pairs with honey nougat filling made as follows:

Judge Stanley Marries Two
Two marriage ceremonies were performed by Justice J. J. Stanley last Monday, K. W. Lowfen and Florence Coats, of Bandon and Henry Clark, of Riverton, to Irene Goodrich, of North Bend.
Whether the shock of two weddings in one day was too much for the judge, we do not know, but he has been down with the flu most of the time since.
