Out at Kanu Klub Grounds

The annual summer encampment of the A. J. Sherwood and L. H. Hazard families started last Saturday at the Kanu Klub grounds on the East Fork Mrs. L. A. Liljeqvist and children, who came in last week, are a part of the party which nearly fills the Sherwood cabin. Mr. Liljeqvist, who drove his family in left the next day for Portland.

Jack Juza Here This Week

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Juza, of Crescent City, spent last Monday night in Coquille. They were on their way home from a trip to Portland. Ten years ago Jack was the mainstay of the Sentinel mechanical force. Now he owns both the Triplicate and the Courier in Crescent City and is publishing the former as a semi-weekly.

5-Year Old Boy Breaks Arm

Gordon, the five-year old son of Floyd Conrad, suffered a broken arm when he fell from a barn near his home in the north part of town Wednesday. He narrowly escaped a more seriously injury, for another boy pulled at him as he fell or he would have fallen on a plow share which was standing point up.

Concealed Assets—$19.85

The Bandon World says that F. J. Blundell, who recently filed papers in bankruptcy concealed some of his assets. He listed them at $450, while the amount should have been $469.85. The difference won't help his creditors much, their claims amounting to about twenty times the assets, being set at $8,100.48.

Praise Coos Creeping Bent

The following, agent Lyman Carrier's Coos creeping bent, appeared in the Los Angeles Examiner last Wednesday:

"As level as a parlor carpet! That was the remark made by H. W. Lawson, president of the Hollywood Country Club and vice president of the Southern California Golf Association, after trying out the eighteenth green at the new El Caballero Country Club course, built by William P. Bell, local golf architect. The photo shows, left to right George R. Dexter, H. L. Averill, H. W. Lawson, Chairman, Merritt H. Adamson and L. W. Craig. The quintet tried out the Coos creeping bent green preliminary to the opening of the wonderful, new eighteen-hole championship course on September 5 with an invitation tournament. All greens at El Caballero are planted to Coos creeping bent.

The grass to which the above refers was grown from seed harvested by Mr. Carrier here last year.

It won't be long till most of the golf courses in the United States will be played on turf grown from seed which was produced in Coos county.

And it is an industry which will more and more benefit Coos county ranchers. Very few people realize what Mr. Carrier's location here means to this section.

Logan Kay Here on Visit

Logan Kay was calling on friends here Wednesday just before leaving for his home in San Jose, Calif. He and Mrs. Kay had spent a week visiting relatives in and near Bandon. Logan is doing pretty well in the native son state. He and his partners have just finished their eighteenth packing house for the Western Pacific and have enough more jobs in sight to keep them busy for the company for some time yet. He was doing general contracting before he formed his present connection with the railroad company.

Arranging for Interment

Anson O. Rogers was over here Wednesday making arrangements with the Eastern Star for the burial of the ashes of a cousin of his, Mrs. Rommel, who died in San Francisco recently. Mrs. Rommel at one time lived in Coquille, her first husband being Dr. Steele, and she expressed the wish that her ashes be deposited beside the graves of their three infant children who died here years ago and who were buried in the Masonic cemetery. Mrs. Rommel was very prominent in Eastern Star circles around San Francisco Bay.

Editors Gone to Grants Pass

Edgar McDaniel, publisher of the Coos Bay Harbor, and family stopped in Coquille for a short time yesterday. They were on their way to Grants Pass for the annual summer meeting of the State Editorial Association. The program there includes a trip to the caves and a dinner up on Grayback mountain. Editor Felshim, of the Western World, went out to Grants Pass the day before.

Another Jitney Dance

Again next Wednesday, July 24, there will be a jitney dance at Graham's Hall, Coquille—the most popular floor in Coos county. Last Wednesday there was a very good attendance and a most enjoyable dance. The music by Norton's Coquillians is as good as any to be found in the county and they are attracting patrons from a constantly widening area.

He Switched License Plates

R. P. Oxley, of Port Orford, paid a fine of $20 in Justice of the Peace Hayden's court last Friday on complaint of Traffic Officer Williams Oxley was operating a Chalmers car on license plates secured for a Ford. The difference in the license fee is $20, so the fine was set at that amount in the meantime Oxley had sent for a Chalmers license.—World.

Our weather has been of the regulation summer sort here in Coos county this month—the 100-degree temperature we had one day in June, occurring here not more than once in a generation.

Notice Rebekahs

Mrs. Myrtle James, president of Rebekah assembly of Oregon, will pay an official visit to Mamie Rebekah Lodge No. 20 on Wednesday, July 22. There will also be installation of officers. Members requested to be present. Visiting sisters and brothers are welcome.

Mrs. Swihart Dies at Bandon

Mrs. D. L. Swihart died at the Emergency hospital at Bandon Saturday without regaining consciousness from a sudden stroke of apoplexy which caused her collapse in the Bank of Bandon last Thursday afternoon, says the World.

Way to Raise Chicks

Purdue university gives the following points for the proper raising and brooding of chicks:

Hatching only from mature, selected, brood-tested males and females.

Brooding chicks with a hard coal stove in a portable brooder house on new disease free soil.

Reducing brooder temperature from 100 degrees (at edge of hover) after the first week as rapidly as the comfort of chicks permits.

Getting chicks out on the ground when a week old even though weather is chilly.

Giving nothing to drink but skim milk, buttermilk or scum-sold for at least the first month.

Giving no feed or drink till chicks are 48 hours old. For the first few days it is safest to feed only the finely cracked chick grains giving only what is cleaned up in about twenty minutes.

Giving no mash the first five days. After this start gradually on mash always preceding the mash with a grain feed to prevent overfeeding on the mash.

Placing chicks on full mash feed after the second week and reducing at same time grain feeds to only two or three times per day.

Sand Supplies Grit

Cover the brooder floor with sand and then several inches of chaff from the clover mow. Do not have dust in the chaff, but the fine particles of the clover heads and straws. This gives the chicks something to scratch it to hunt for their grain feed. Do not use sawdust on the brooder floor, as the chicks are apt to eat this and cause trouble. The sand is good for them, as it supplies grit so necessary in digesting their feed.

Poultry Notes

When chicks are penned keep grits, oyster shell and sand before them all the time. Pulverized charcoal, too should be in easy access, as it aids digestion.

A runway covered with fencing wire is a lot cheaper for chicks than to lose them to attacks of cats and other enemies of chicks.

Many breeders will not undertake to raise chicks without sour milk as the first feed and continued right along with the grain feeds.

Do you know how much net profit your hens are returning? Farmers all over the country are learning it is worth the time they spend to keep a close count on the eggs their hens produce and the cost per dozen.

Geese should not be used for breeding purposes until they are two years old. A gander may be used the first season. Geese eggs may be hatched in an incubator, but better results are obtained by setting the eggs under geese or hens. The eggs hatch in from 27 to 33 days.

Thousands of worthless producers got their "start" during the hatching and brooding season.

Toe-mark the chicks soon after they are hatched. This fixes their age and classification. Do a neat job with a sharp punch and keep away from the feet bones.

Give the young chicks a chance to dry off and get their "sea legs" before putting them into the brooder, and be careful not to chill them while making the transfer.

Telephone Co. Extending Lines

A new telephone line 25 miles in length is being built between Trinidad and Orick in Humboldt county, northern California, by the Coos & Curry Telephone company, Earl W. Gates, superintendent of the company, announced Thursday upon his return from that section.

Mr. and Mrs. Gates and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McInturf Wednesday completed a five days' motor trip through Curry and Humboldt counties. They visited Gold Beach, Port Orford, Brookings, Crescent City, and Eureka on the trip.

Port Orford fire-killed white cedar poles will be used in construction of the new line, Gates said. He reported that the roads through Curry county were now in good condition for motor travel. He also found that most of the travel from California northward was being averted through Grants Pass and as president of the Marshfield chamber of commerce he plans to take steps whereby some of the travel will come through Coos Bay.—Marshfield News.

Ask Change in School District

A petition asking that land in school district 70 now held by district 77 be restored to the former school district has been received by C. E. Mulkey, county school superintendent. District 70 was consolidated with 77 in 1908. If the petition is granted land now held by Bridge 77, will be restored to Myrtle Point, 70. The district boundary board will consider the petition August 4.

Can Sealer

Mrs. Frank Schroeder, phone 5077, has the agency for Coos and Curry counties for the Burpee Can Sealer, which aids greatly in all canning work. Call her up if interested. Subagents wanted. 25c3*

Calling Cards, 100 for $1.50.

Police Dog a Hero

Jack, Belgian police dog, was the hero of Klamath Falls yesterday, says a press dispatch. Little 3-year old Buddy Cornish owes his life to the dog. The lad was racing with his coaster wagon near an irrigation ditch when it toppled over the embankment and threw him in. The dog, hearing Buddy's companions cry for help, sprang into the swiftly flowing water from a 15-foot bank. First the animal brought in the lad's hat. When he delivered that to the other boys he went back after Buddy and brought the lad ashore.

where will you go—when your home burns?

GRANTED that you have your home insured against fire, but how about the rent you will have to pay until you rebuild? Here is the proposition: you pay a small amount now and we'll pay you rent from the time your house burns until it is rebuilt. The cost of this Dwelling Rental Insurance is insignificant—often only $1 a year.
