Tennis Tournament Interest

The competition of the past two of three weeks has developed some of our local players to such a degree that it is hard to select a competing team for outside games.

A challenge has been received from Roseburg and the following is a tentative list of the players who have been selected to uphold the honor and standard of the Coquille Club: Dr. J. B. Galis, O. T. Gant, R. H. Faulkner and Albert Oerding.

Other players who will be used as substitutes are: George Oerding, Cecil Galt, Wm. Oerding, Levi Wilson, Lerwell Simpson, Homer Gant. Albert Oerding and Ralph Faulkner think they are pretty good as a team in Doubles and have issued a challenge to any other doubles team in the club, with side bets up to any reasonable amount considered.

(Note: This challenge is hereby accepted by Dr. J. B. Galis and O. T. Gant and side bets are to be arranged by the respective Managers.)

Mr. Webb of the First National Bank has suggested that a heavy stamp paper be secured and used on the courts before any outside competition be entertained. This is a good suggestion and is being seriously considered by the club.

Volley Ball Notes

Much interest was manifested in the Monday evening game of Volley Ball. The crowd, however, was somewhat peeved at the Portland aggregation for not showing up and had to content themselves with a practice game.

Some of the players showed splendid form and the opinion is general that the team from the metropolis was afraid of us.

Frank Leslie as usual was the lip of the game and claims to have reduced his waist measurement over 7-16 of an inch. Frank is getting to be a marvel of speed in handling the ball. In fact the boys have been considering hiring him as assistant coach to help out Brick who is rather over-worked.

In the pick-up game played Monday, the Medics made a remarkable showing but were unable to hold down the Earns who by clever scoring won by a small margin of one game.

More Room for the Jail

Geo. W. Zerr has been making steady progress with the work at the jail and expects Monday to install the steel-screen covered skylights where a couple of prisoners have escaped in the past.

In the southwest corner of the basement he has fitted up a cell with steel lining. Opening off this is the padded cell at one end and a sleeping room with four bunks at the other. When this is finished the jail will accommodate about fifty.
