IMPROVE METHODS FOR RANGE SHEEP

Do you remember when the only treatment a sheep ever had was to be crag with and to be sheared? Such a business could be managed to yield a profit by methods which would yield...

The sheep man of today must see or have had to stay in the business. This must be produced or raised in suitable weathering places, by method and be treated of sufficient weight or produce that the feeding...

As for an increase in capitalization, there has been an increase in the operating expenses. The sheep have been crowded out of the land which formerly afforded range...

In order to realize a profit from the business it is necessary to increase the per cent of waste dropped. A great deal of waste is without doubt being lost...

Hogs Require Shade and Clean Water in Summer

Make hot clean water during the summer months an essential to successful pig production. All kinds of hogs must have shade. The most direct sunlight will tend to a frequent cause of hogs killing to starve...

Exposure to shade is not necessary. Shade trees provide ample protection. Where no trees exist temporary shade may be provided by the covering of a frame with canvas...

Clean fresh water for drinking and bathing is equally as important as, or more important than, shade. The old-line valley lake covered with weeds, which was once the drinking fountain...

Live Stock Notes

- Don't feed early, or spoiled stuff.
Don't get fresh feed in dirt or over troughs.
Don't forget to salt all animals regularly.
Don't feed milk from tuberculous cattle to your animals.
Keep the head ends on the troughs as they are going to be high the coming year.
Supplement pasture with sufficient grain to keep the hogs in good healthy condition.
Protect cattle, horses, and swine from the torment of the biting fly and the horn fly by using fly repellents.
About 65 per cent of gun-load live stock is marketed directly for meat purposes.
Low collars for lightness are best and longest. Don't overlook the necessity of ventilation—and safety.
Two liters of not less than seven eggs each, raised to maturity each year, more than double average profits from hogs.
The ewe with twin lambs should produce much more milk and consequently needs more feed than is best for the ewe that is feeding only one lamb.

Must Remove Filing in Bay

County Judge R. H. Hunt has been notified by the U. S. engineers that the test piling driven in the channel of Coos Bay is making soundings for the piers of the new bridge to Knapside must be removed.

County Commissioner Kluckner, who had the contract for driving them, faces a penalty for driving them without a special permit and it is up to him to remove them. The piling was driven about 45 feet to the mud and it will be some job to remove them as they cannot be pulled. The government will not permit the dynamiting of them and as it will be necessary to secure special applications for their removal—Coos Bay Times.

Marshfield Men Served One Day

H. H. Moore and Willie Dilworth, Marshfield residents, who were sentenced to jail for one day at Gold Beach this summer of opening fish last April in Coos county, and had appealed their case to the circuit court, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Kendall in Gold Beach last Friday. They were fined $100 apiece and sentenced to 30 days in jail but were paroled by the judge Saturday, after serving one night of their sentence.

EAST FORK NOTES

Last week Monday coyotes were barking close by. That night they were yelling again. Tuesday evening when I was milking, several shots were fired on the hillside back of the barn, and the next morning Joe Smith came over and told me he killed one and wounded another. He thinks there is no bounty on the skins now, so we have asked County Clerk Watson to tell us, and if not, why not.

Joe Larsen, Mrs. Larsen and daughters, Thalie and Barbara, were on the East Fork Sunday. We had a ride to Jimmy Laird's in their new Chrysler. Jimmy was holding the place down all alone and putting in the time picking black berries. He has an extra good looking field of corn.

When we got back to Mountain Glade there was only a short time for them to stop.

We lived neighbors to the Larsens near Canby and know that Mrs. Larsen is a sweet singer, so we had a big treat Sunday, not only having a short visit with old neighbors but Mrs. Larsen sang "Lead Kindly Light."

Monday Mrs. Cordray, of Millington, and Mrs. Larsen of North Bend, stopped for a moment on their way to visit Mrs. Jimmy Laird and family. They returned home Tuesday. When Mr. Cordray carried the mail Mrs. Cordray made frequent visits to Brewster Valley. The little boy with them was a manly lad. Miss Larsen teaches at Silverton.

The Dora school commenced Monday. Mrs. Roy Luttrell teacher. They live in the Stammer house. Mr. Luttrell is working at Fred Minard's camp.

Pleasant Hill school commenced Monday. Helen Deyoe of Myrtle Point teacher.

Shiloh school commenced last week. Bula Maze teacher. When Gen. Hindenberg, president of Germany, signed the bill to pay Germans five per cent of what the Billie Z government bled them to carry on his war, it struck their $18,000,000,000 of supposed wealth to less than a billion dollars. There must be some man about General Hindenberg as president of Germany, for when he signed the bill he wiped out what were once family resources. The Germans are learning that when people play the fool they get fool's pay. R. A. Easton.

Coquille Boy Selected

Fred Cadle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cadle, 508 S. Myrtle St., has just been notified of his selection for membership in the League of Curtis Salesmen, an honor organization maintained by The Curtis Publishing Co., for boys who sell its publications.

Admittance to this organization depends upon regular school attendance, and a record of efficient service to customers. Through this training teachers very generally report that boys gain a sense of responsibility that tends to make schooling more real to them.

As Fred's friends know, he is developing a sense of self-confidence and an ability to make decisions quickly. That is one reason he is proud to show his badge of membership to his friends and is now looking forward to advancement to the next higher degree in the organization.

Shot With a Deer

Lewis Ludtke, of Nehalem, is in the Keizer hospital at North Bend as a result of being shot through both arms by Robert E. Starr, his son-in-law, while he was carrying a deer on his back. The accident occurred Saturday evening shortly before dark seven miles east of Gold Beach.

Three men in the hunting party, Ludtke, Starr and C. H. Hanson, of Tillamook, spotted three deer and separated in an effort to bag the bucks. Ludtke succeeded in getting one of the trio and was carrying it over the hill on his back. Starr, mistaking the buck on his father-in-law's back for a live one, took two shots which passed through Ludtke's arms near the wrists. The injured man was taken to the hospital Sunday.

The men had been spending the summer fishing in the Rogue river and Saturday was their first day hunting for deer.—Marshfield News.

Weyerhaeuser in This Section

A crew of cruisers of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company is reported to be checking their holdings between the headwaters of the Coos river and the Umpqua. The party is said to be headed by the head of their firm's cruising department at Tacoma.

The Weyerhaeuser company holds practically two solid townships of fine timber land in this belt and its total holdings in this vicinity are in the neighborhood of 40,000 acres.

According to statements of officials of the firm a couple of years ago, the Weyerhaeuser interests then did not plan to tap its Douglas and Coos timber holdings until about 1940. However, the present cruise in thought by some to indicate the possibility of earlier action.

This following the recent visit of President Ralph Budd of the Great Northern to Southwestern Oregon in the occasion of a revival of expectations of railroad development which has been centering in southeastern Oregon possibly reaching this district soon.

The Weyerhaeuser and Hill interests have always been closely allied.—Coos Bay Times.

Coos Cedar into Lane Bridge

One hundred sixty thousand feet of white cedar lumber and 150 pieces of fire-killed Port Orford water piling have been ordered by the Lane county court from the Western White Cedar Co. of Coos Bay for the new bridge to be built over the North Fork on the highway between Florence and Coquille, according to County Commissioner Charles Hunt, of Douglas county, says a Eugene press dispatch.

This bridge, which was built only nine years ago, has rotted away so badly that it is now considered dangerous. By using the cedar material rather than fir it is calculated that the life of the new span will be much longer than the old one.

The bridge is nearly 700 feet long and spans the North Fork near its mouth. Action of the salt water on the piling and other timbers has caused it to deteriorate rapidly.

Traffic will not be interrupted while construction is being carried on as the old bridge will be left standing. The new one will be built at a different angle and out of the way of the old one, it was stated.
