

MINOR MENTION.

Telling About People and Events in the City and County

Girl Wanted—Apply in person. Coquille, Laundry Co.

Orville T. Gant left Sunday for Eugene, where his two young brothers were entering the university.

Chester Beaman, of this city, has just received a permit from the sheriff's office to carry concealed weapons.

Dairymen—Ship your Cream to the Coquille Ice Cream Co. for best results.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Drane left Wednesday evening for Portland for a two weeks' visit with the Geo. Pike family.

R. E. Bacon was lodged in jail last Saturday to serve 30 days for larceny at Bandon. Justice Hayden also fined him $60.

S. R. Svendsgaard sells furniture on installment. 3314

Herbert Adams returned last Saturday from his summer's visit in Texas and along the southern boundary of the United States.

Mrs. Pat Geaney, of Cunningham, is doing nicely at Mercy hospital, where she underwent a major operation recently, says the Times.

On account of failing health Rev. Neal J. Barnes, pastor of the Baptist church at Marshfield, has resigned to accept a call to Bend.

Mrs. Dora C. Schroeder, of Norway, has leased her 80-acre farm at Norway for three years to J. W. Caudle, who recently came from Nebraska.

A Longlife Cord tire and a pump-gum tube for $9.75 at the Wallace Tire Shop.

Rev. M. F. Hill and family are expected home from Texas today. He will preach on Sunday, morning and evening at the M. E. Church South.

Special weekly and monthly rates now being offered at the Tourist Hotel by Wm. Fortier. Hot and cold water and steam heat in each room. Next to Liberty Theatre. 3615

We have an attractive proposition that will provide someone with a nice home in Coquille. Small cash payment and the balance 75% per call at Farmers & Merchants Bank.

Mrs. J. A. Lamb accompanied the H. N. Butler family to Medford Sunday after their two days' visit in Bandon. Miss Gertrude is now a teacher in the Medford high school.

Clyde Gage, Casey Jones, Neil McGilvey and Clint Crouch returned yesterday from the Twelve Mile country. They claimed they were deer hunting, but they only had one deer to prove it.

Put on a set of Hood Balloons and forget your tire troubles. They cost no more at the Wallace Tire Shop.

Miss Cora L. Farr, whose home is in Spokane, came in Sunday for a visit with the family of her brother, C. C. Farr. Tuesday she and Mrs. Farr drove to Eugene. The latter is expected home today.

Your credit is good on furniture at S. R. Svendsgaard. 3314

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Lawrence will leave tomorrow morning for their home in Oakland, Calif., after a week's visit here. Mrs. J. S. Lawrence will accompany them for a visit of indefinite length with her two sons—Ned and Kennett.

Golden Bantam sweet corn for sale by the sack for canning. Reasonable price. H. L. Aber, Phone No. 5135 3513

Jesse James Gibbs, former North Bend man who was stabbed to death at Medford the first of the week, has been brought to Powers for burial, the Moose lodge having charge of the arrangements. Gibbs formerly lived at Powers and his mother is now here.

The fair at Myrtle Point has never been drowned out but once since it started, although the rains some times have continued right up until Wednesday night. This year they have had two nice days for it with indications that tomorrow may be different.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nosler and Geo. Bryant returned Monday evening from their trip to the Pendleton Round-up. They went east as far as Weiser, Idaho, and returned through the central part of Oregon, stopping at Eugene to get their Maxwell which Layton had driven out when he left for the University Sunday.

It will be easier and more pleasant to take your Sunday dinner at the new Coquille Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sterling arrived here Saturday for a few days' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Way, and other friends. They were on a two weeks' auto trip during which they had been down in California. Paul is S. P. agent at Oakridge, on the new Natron cut-off. He says that the new line to Klamath Falls should be finished next year.

Henry Maury and his sister, Miss Mary Maury, together with a brother, Mary Maury, of Medford, together with a brother, Miller Maury, of Crescent City, arrived last Saturday for a visit with their brother, L. P. Maury and family.

Letter from Alton Grimes

A letter from Alton Grimes to the Sentinel, written at Vancouver, B. C., contains a program of the unveiling of the Harding Memorial in Stanley Park at Vancouver on Sept. 16. Alton says there were 30,000 people at the unveiling and "they all seemed to be enthused about it."

It is a fine illustration of the cordial relations existing between this country and Canada when they will erect a memorial, 66 feet long, out of British Columbia granite, to the memory of an ex-president of the United States. President Harding visited Vancouver in July, 1923, and addressed one of the largest gatherings ever seen in Vancouver.

Alton says he and Fred Hudson gave up in despair when they found four breweries running there, day and night. They are expected home in a day or two.

No Quorum of Council

Failure to secure a quorum for the regular semi-monthly meeting of the city council Monday evening prevented the opening of bids for the grading and improvement of Moulton street for the block north of the Spurgor street bridge.

The adoption of the city budget was also left over until the next regular meeting—Oct. 2.

Councilmen Opperman, Willey and Chaney were the only members present and they doubted the possibility of securing a quorum for a special meeting when one could not be secured for a regular session.

City Engineer Vinton informed the street committee chairman that the assessment for the Fourth or Spurgor street improvement had been prepared and was ready for the committee's consideration.

She Tried Them All

We note that Mrs. Mary Gray, of Crescent City, California, who celebrated her 102d birthday there Tuesday, and who is a native of Ireland, claims to have "tried early every state" between Illinois and Oregon before she settled in Curry county forty years ago. This writer, though he lacks many years of Mrs. Gray's age, also started west from Illinois in 1881 and since that time has lived in the four states of Kansas, Colorado, California and Oregon, in all of which except California, he became a voter. On the way between Illinois and Oregon he spent thirty years, twenty-seven in Kansas and three in Colorado. Like Mrs. Gray when he reached the Pacific coast in Oregon, he was satisfied to stop, though, unlike her, California has not attracted him again as a place for a home.

Fatal Auto Accident

A Frisco press dispatch tells us that Mrs. Emma Spiers, aged 57, of Myrtle Point, Ore., was killed in an auto accident near St. Helena, when the car, in which she was riding with her husband and two friends, was struck by another car.

They were returning from an eastern trip where they had been visiting their son, O. C. Spiers, at Superior, Wis. The son and wife spent a few weeks here at the J. E. Paulson home this spring.

The body arrived in Myrtle Point yesterday and the funeral was to be held today.

Two Drunks Fined

F. L. Andrews and Pat Ballard, two loggers who were drunk and pretty noisy in the Donaldson restaurant about 1:30 Tuesday night, were fined $25 in the city recorder's court Wednesday afternoon. They didn't have the wherewithal to pay but agreed to settle right after pay day. The marshal notified them that they would be nabbed the first time they came to town and required to serve the 12 1-2 days if they didn't come through as promised.

Remodelling His Residence

Geo. O. Leach, who recently bought that large two-story frame building on West Second street, in which he lives, from Mrs. Emma Lyons and J. S. Lyons, is giving it some needed repairs. The underpinning, which was almost rotted away, has been renewed and the roof is being reshingled.

Special Chicken Dinner at the new Coquille Hotel every Sunday.

THE COUNTY FAIR AT MYRTLE POINT

(Continued from first page.)

outcropping on the ranch. His mother assisted in the display with a great variety of canned fruits and vegetables.

Broadbent won the first prize for community exhibit with an excellent display of fancy work, fruits and vegetables, both canned and fresh, fancy work, grasses and grains. One unique display was a case containing 55 different varieties of wood which grow near that community. Another article here was the violin, belonging to Fred True, which was made by Silas Gibbs out of myrtlewood and cedar.

The Lee-McKinley Grange were awarded second prize, and here, as in the Broadbent booth, all the items on the score card were represented by exhibits. It was a nicely arranged booth, too, its display consisting of pastry, bread and cake, cheese, wool and mohair, grasses and grain, and a lot of fancy work and sewing.

Bandon, like Coquille, did not attempt to make a complete display of resources, but showed many views of her scenic beach, specimens of black sand, and a few vegetables—corn, tomatoes, apples, potatoes, squash—and canned goods. Pretty articles of fancy work decorated the three walls of the booth.

The Agricultural and Home Economics department of the Myrtle Point Union High School, made a display of what constitutes a balanced ration for man and cow.

The general display of agricultural exhibits, entered for competition, was complete, there being present all of the common vegetables and some not so common.

The fruit display included cranberries, prunes, grapes, strawberries, apples, plums, peaches, pears and melons. A muskmelon, grown by Ed Abernathy was the equal of any Rogue river melon ever brought in.

The cakes, bread, butter, cheese and canned goods made a most tempting display, and would excite the appetite of even the most surfeited gourmand.

We do not say that the county fair is larger this year than ever before but it has a fine display of all kinds usually entered at such affairs and is well worth a trip up there.

An Old Offender Caught

Deputy Game Warden A. M. Fish, of Medford, and his partner, made one of the most important arrests for game violations in a long time when they caught Mr. and Mrs. Stobie, of Canas Valley, with the goods on them last week.

Mrs. Stobie, who is an old offender, is the one who rode down Game Warden Adams in Curry county a couple of years ago when he attempted to arrest her. She set spurs to her horse and ran away from him.

She kills deer and fawns in season and out, and will furnish a deer almost any time to those she knows, according to the officers' story, for $25.

Last week the officers surrounded the pair and had the drop on them before they knew what was doing.

Justice Hooton, at Bridge, fined her $75 for disguising the sex of a deer and $50 for having one untagged in her possession.

The husband was fined $25 for acting as a guide without a permit, and $50 for wanton waste of game.

Mrs. Stobie, who is an expert shot, used a short carbine which Mr. Fish had on display at the Coquille Hardware store here for a few days this week.

To Truck the Lumber Out

H. M. Axtell, of Port Orford, passed through here Tuesday with a new G. M. C. Greyhound type truck that he recently purchased in Portland. He brought in a new Aeolian Player Organ for his new theatre, the Welcome West Cliff House. The truck will be used to haul the lumber from the buildings he recently purchased at Beaver Hill.

Returned Missionary to Speak

Zuda Chambers, furloughed missionary from Japan, will speak at Church of God chapel next Thursday evening, October 1st, at 7:30. Come and hear first hand news from mission fields.

Chadwick Lodge, A. F. & A. M.

Stated Communication of Chadwick Lodge, No. 68, A. F. & A. M., Saturday, Sept. 26, at 7:30 p. m. Visiting brothers invited to attend.

Tell the World

Mrs. Decker, corset expert, dealer in high grade underwear, hosiery and dress goods is at Bigelow's.

All goods direct from factory and sold on 20 per cent profit. Perfectly tailored art silk, princess slips, boomers and vest set complete, $9.25 or separate knit night gowns, knit cotton princess slips and petticoats.

A Surrender to Adonis

By J. A. WALDRON

(Copyright)

RUPERT ELVARY swung down the avenue martially perfect, as he always was, but mentally at fault. Maude Dollande, whom he had known only since she had been a divorcee, had persisted in interfering with every serious thought he had and every amusement he had undertaken now for weeks.

"I'll make an end of it today," he thought as he strode along, whipping imaginary things with his cane, "one way or the other!"

"Mr. Elvary to see you, madame," said Maude's maid, who had been instructed never to deny him.

"Heavens! Wait a moment! Let me think!" Maude had decided to have a lazy afternoon. To that end she had not improved, upon a darling house dress—it really would have been difficult to improve upon it, so intimate was it with a charming figure—and a chic cap from which rich little bunches of hair strayed. "Well, Hortense, I'm going to let him see me for the first time just as I am!"

"And how could you make yourself more charming, madame?" Hortense asked.

"And I'm going to take him into that tiny room and show him what coffee I can brew. He may have had luncheon, but . . ."

"But never such coffee, I'm sure," added Hortense.

"Quick! Bring him right in. And apologize for me! And I'm going to introduce him to Adonis."

"But suppose Adonis . . ."

"Adonis must get used to him, my dear girl!"

So Elvary was brought into the very sanctum. Maude's cozy flat was maintained from a very generous alimony.

Maude was humming a song not wholly unrelated to love as he entered. And she was in the preliminaries to coffee.

"This is really more than I had hoped for," he said, as she asked him about coffee. He stood diffidently, admiring her. What round, white arms she had!

"G-r-r-r-uff! U-4-1! U-4-1! It was Adonis, coming rather fast from an inner room. Elvary started. When one doesn't care for dogs, all dogs are wise to the fact.

"Doggy! I say, doggy!" Elvary's voice was raised gently as he backed against a Chippendale chair.

"Oh, he'll not hurt you! Stop, Adonis! Stop, I say! Make friends with the gentleman. Isn't Adonis lovely?"

"Quite. Very. Here, doggy—I mean Adonis!" Elvary put out his hand somewhat indefinitely, though Maude construed it rightly as ingratiating.

"G-r-r-r-uff! G-r-r-r-uff!" Adonis looked at his mistress for approval, apparently not being exactly wise to the situation, and then cast his eyes on the visitor. Elvary thought they looked abnormally yellow at the moment, and might mean rage, jealousy, or all the evil emotions consistent with canine excitement combined. Maude slapped Adonis, and Adonis whined and at once became meek. Civilization has done almost as much for dogs as it has for humanity.

"I never—never—punished Adonis before!" said Maude apologetically. "But you deserve it, don't you, dearie?" And she left the percolator to bend down and kiss Adonis with impulsive sentiment.

Elvary moistened his lips. Maude poured coffee and they sat down.

"Adonis is fortunate," ventured Elvary. "Had him long? By Jove! I never tasted such coffee before!"

"Adonis is wicked today! Four years. Here, darling!" And she held up a cube of sugar. Adonis forgot there was company.

"One gets attached to anything in time—any pet, I mean. Did Adonis ever bite anyone?"

"Oh, yes! He's a fine watch dog. And once Dollande—before we were divorced—struck Adonis. But he was paid dearly for that, wasn't he, darling! You bit him, then, didn't you?"

"Served Dollande right, I'm sure," said Elvary. "I should never strike a dog."

"I knew you loved dogs! And you'll adore Adonis! He grows dearer and dearer to me every day! You darling! Won't you please take a little sugar?" And she kissed Adonis and gave him surplus sweetness in the shape of another cube of sugar.

"I don't suppose you'd part with him for any consideration—in any circumstances," ventured Elvary.

"Part with Adonis? What a question! Have another cup!" Elvary had risen.

"I couldn't, really, wonderful as it is! I'm five minutes past an engagement now!"

They rose together. At the door he looked at her admiringly. "What wonderful coffee you brew!"

That night at the club, with mind at ease, he cleaned out the bunch at pirate bridge.

Steady Fur Demand
The rabbit skin and hatters' fur industry in the provinces of East and West Flanders has shown a steady growth since the war, with the increasing popularity of fur garments and trimmings, as well as the demand for the manufacture of hats. The United States is the best customer of the Ghent district in these articles, taking $3,020,502 worth of raw and dyed rabbit skins as well as wasts during 1924.

SAVE with SAFETY at your Rexall DRUG STORE

ENJOY YOUR FOOD
While You Eat and Don't Regret It Afterwards

Don't punish yourself. If you have had to eat hurriedly or have over-taxed your stomach, take Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets to increase the activity of the bowels and to stimulate the stomach.

They contain no harmful ingredients and have no unpleasant after effects. They help you to get full value and pleasure from your food by making digestion easy.

Fuhrman's Pharmacy, Inc.
The Rexall Drug Store

DRUGGISTS STATIONERS

Bible Tells of First Aid
The Book of Ruth in the Old Testament contains what is probably the first advertisement on record authentically as such. After recording that Boaz went "up to the gate of the city and sat him down there"—the gate of the city being the center of business life—it is recorded that he said: "I thought to advertise thee, saying, 'Buy it before the inhabitants and before the elders of my people.'"

Dairy Hints
Creating dairy breeds is like mixing good ink with good water; the value of each is lost. . . .
Dairy calves respond with great susceptibility to care especially during the first few days of their lives. . . .
The most profitable method of handling dairy cows by the average farmer is to market cream and use the skim milk for bringing up calves and pigs. . . .
It is usually a good rule not to feed milk to exceed one-eighth of the calf's weight, at birth, for the first six weeks. . . .
The four generally recognized leading breeds—Ayrshire, Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey—comprise 95 per cent of all registered dairy cattle in the country. . . .
Send the Sentinel to eastern friends

Ask Me
about any kind of insurance.
I will write it for you.

N. C. KELLEY Dependable Insurance

Model 94 The Famous WINCHESTER 30-30

Hi Power Rifles
Of all the Popular Makes to Rent by the day or week

Complete stock of the following ammunition:
Winchester
Western
United States
Remington
Savage

Coquille Hardware Co.
THE WINCHESTER STORE