The Modern Demand For Electric Light and Power

A COMMUNITY cannot grow unless its electric light and power company grows also.

Every new house built, every new store opened, every new factory started, means more business for the power company.

And every new power plant and every line extension enables the establishment of new industries and the building of additional homes.

Modern communities must have electricity because it is the best and the cheapest light and power—and heat as well, for many purposes.

Is there any other way of sending thousands of horsepower over slender wires hundreds of miles? One horsepower of electricity supplies the energy of 10 men wherever it may be needed, and for a small fraction of the wages 10 men would require.

Instead, however, of reducing employment, electricity creates more and better paid jobs, because it vastly increases the means of production.

An investment in a business of this kind is safe and dependable. It will pay you to investigate the

Rogers' Hard Luck
Some lucky thief broke into the basement of the Anson Rogers residence on North Second street Saturday night and got away with two cases of champagne which he declared he had preserved since before the Volstead act. Further misfortune hit him when he lost his fishing tackle Sunday coming from Coos river, and last night some one stole his auto robe.—Times.

Tom Guerin, Geo. Guerin, Grandma Guerin and Priscilla Deyo left Wednesday by auto to attend the fair at Salem. They will return Sunday.

EAST FORK NOTES

Last week James T. Jenkins, of Parkersburg, our new county commissioner, took out a bunch of sold heifers to the railroad at Dillard, where they were to be shipped to Montague, Shasta Valley, California. Mr. Jenkins had 39 head in the lot, nearly all of his own raising from good cows. J. L. Spith, of Coquille, had 40 head. A young man, Gene Russell, was the helper on the job. They lost two going over the mountain, which took the back track to Laird's.

It was a pleasure to meet Mr. Jenkins and here is wishing him much success as a county commissioner and a reducer of taxes. If the tax rate is the same for the coming year, the outlook is now that our taxes are to be $36 more next year than this. We are not kicking about the assessed value either but the tax rate is an eating cancer.

William Kimball, who has a home-stand across the river from Rocky Point, has gone to Salem to be with his wife, who has been quite ill at her mother's home for several weeks. As soon as she is able to stand the trip he intends to take her to Brites Bush Springs for relief from rheumatism.

Brewster Valley

Last Thursday evening Mrs. Fannie Alford entertained about 30 guests in honor of her son, Elwin's twenty-third birthday. The evening was spent in visiting and social chat and a special feature of entertainment was rendered by Mr. Alford singing some old time songs. Songs by others present were also enjoyed. Refreshments of cake and cider were served before departing for home.

Mrs. Jenkins and children, of Coquille, made Mr. Jenkins a visit Sunday.

David Crowley and family, of Curry county, visited his brother, Percy Crowley coming up Sunday and returning Monday.

J. R. Benham, our road patrolman, has been busy the past week slashing brush along the road.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Moore made a trip to town one day this week.

Nevy Ralph Noah, of Portland, nephew of Mrs. Stella Crowley, has been enjoying a visit with the family this past week.

Elwin Alford and Mrs. Albert Christensen made a business trip to Marshfield Monday.

Norman and Jesse Laird were home over Saturday night from their work near Powers.

Rollie Alford, who has been working in the Dugger camp the past two months, has gone to Big Creek to work for Willie Weekley.

The Myrtle Point Fair was quite well attended by Brewster Valley this year. Those enjoying a day there were D. A. Moore and family, Mr. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Benham, W. M. Laird and family, J. D. Laird and wife, Halley and Carl Laird, Elwin and Rollie Alford, T. Parks and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson, Mrs. C. M. Wilson, E. A. Krewson and family and Miss Leah Parks.
