Quite a large number of Myrtle Pointers attended the games at North Bend and Coquille on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Schroeder drove down to a place below Bandon on Sunday where they picked huckleberries.

Among those who attended the Myrtle Point-Bandon game at Bandon Friday were the following: Wilda Barker, Lyla and Jacqueline Holloway, Avolia Baker, Alice Noeler, Geraldine Watzling, Lilyan LaBranche, Faye La Branche, Alice Train, Madge Lakey, Ellis Widby, Elmer Knight, Hugh Hamilton, and many others.

May Build at North Bend
All of Coquille has been interested in the possibility of a mill to be built and operated by Geo. H. Chaney, and when the Bay papers told of the rumors over there that his mill was to be located on Coos Bay, the sentiment of the town was that there was in these reports. His reply was: "It is all indefinite yet, but the stories are a fair indication of my plans, if they work out."

Following is the story of the probability of a new mill on Coos Bay as told by the News:

Report that George Chaney, well known Coos lumberman, will build a new mill on Coos Bay was virtually verified today when Chaney obtained data on harbor lines and docking facilities on a site between the Roosevelt ferry and the Southern Pacific bridge in North Bend.

At the request of Chaney, Major T. F. Maginnis, manager of the dock, furnished all the necessary data on this site but the lumberman made no announcement of his plans for a mill.

Report was current in North Bend that Chaney is representing the purchasers of a site from the Simpson Estate company in North Bend which was announced a few days ago. The estate company is understood to own the waterfront property which Chaney was investigating but whether this is the property sold by the company or Chaney's project is independent of that deal could not be learned.

The Simpson Estate company merely announced that it had sold a site for a new mill that would have a capacity of 250,000 feet a day but neither the location of the site or the name of its purchasers was stated. The site was first reported on Pony Slough but nothing definite could be learned.

The company today would neither deny nor affirm that Chaney was interested in that site, and neither was there any denial or verification of the report that the Weyerhaeuser interests were the purchasers.

Ex-Mayor of Kelso Here
A. Ruric Todd, ex-mayor of Kelso, Wash., was a Coquille visitor last Saturday. He has been the storm center of the political fight which has torn that town wide open and was a close friend of Editor Dorey, who was murdered there a few months ago.

He was on a lecture campaign, trying to raise funds to assist in prosecuting the murderer, but there were too many other attractions here Saturday night and he had no audience in Coquille.

Best Game Ever Seen Here

Marshfield did not win a 60-0 victory over Coquille in the football game here last Saturday. As a matter of fact they were exceedingly lucky to get the long end of a 6-3 score.

Outplayed throughout the first three-quarters, the visitors were swept off their feet with the unexpected fierceness of the Coquille attack. In forward passing and kicking the home team maintained a lead that the visitors could not overcome, nor were the locals at all behind in backing the line and in end runs.

It was as nearly perfect a football game as high schools ever produce and old timers who have followed the sport here for years say they never saw a game to equal it.

Coquille was outweighed in the line at least ten pounds to the man, but so conscientiously and painstakingly has "Brick" Leslie drilled his proteges that they knew just what to do to break up every attack, and they have developed a football instinct which carried them through many a dangerous point. Twice they held within their ten-yard line. In the last quarter Marshfield had intercepted a forward pass and on line bucks and end runs had carried the ball to the Coquille 8-yard line for first down. With only eight to go the Coquille line stiffened and held the fourth down on the one-foot line, although Dashney had squirmed and twisted in every conceivable way to fall that last 12 inches.

The Coquille team last Saturday was 100 per cent improved over the one that faced Myrtle Point two weeks before and it will make any team in the conference exert itself to the limit to hold it even.

The forward passes that Coquille completed were a marvel to the fans who had begun to think that passing was not in their repertoire. From just over the line, to ten, fifteen and twenty yards, the aerial attack was a revelation of properly executed plays.

But it was one of these passes which permitted Marshfield to annex their six points. Crewe, half back, caught one on Coquille's 40-yard line and eluded the one player which stood between him and a touchdown. The attempt to kick a goal was blocked.

Outside of this lucky break and the two times they got within the ten-yard line Marshfield did not threaten and the greater part of the game was in Marshfield territory.

Curtis, Wilson, Call and Richmond were on their toes every minute in carrying the ball forward. Curtis made several good gains of ten, fifteen and twenty yards, while Richmond seldom failed to make yardage.

Les Wilson was kicking from 35 to 45 yards on every punt, and that is up to college kicking. Westel, at U. of O., rated the best on the coast, averages about 45 yards.

Haglo Call, who was calling signals under the new alignment, did a fine job and he called his plays with an adroit cunning that completely upset the visitors' expectations of an easy practice game.

Too much praise cannot be given the linemen for the way in which they held, opened up holes and blocked punts. Floten, Seelye, Robinson, Watson, Stonecypher, Powder and Hansen exhibited an unexpected knack of nailing the man with the ball. And Marshfield had a very clever way of screening their plays.

"Giant" Finley, who went into the game in the last half, time after time tackled the man with the ball behind the Marshfield line and when the player didn't down, he picked him up and held him till the whistle sounded.

Holmstrom is another player who accurately diagnosed the play and he was the hero of several tackles where a get-away would have been fatal.

Coquille's three points was made in the second quarter. Three times Coquille had punted, passed and carried the ball to Marshfield's ten-yard line, only to be held on downs. Twice Wilson missed the goal on a drop kick but the third time it sailed true between the bars, and Coquille was leading 3-0 until the intercepted pass gave Marshfield the lead, just before the end of the half.

So accurate was the Coquille defense that Marshfield completed but one forward pass during the game.

Not one word of disparagement can be said of the Marshfield team. The boys played up to advance notices but the Coquille team went them one better.

Last Friday afternoon the Myrtle Point team defeated Bandon 85-0, and only used four plays. They have been pointing for the North Bend game at Myrtle Point tomorrow.

The following is the line-up which started the game but Seelye and Finley both got into the game and gave
