some "to judge nobly."
To be a student one must have "willingness to learn, capacity to receive and to enjoy."

We should be thankful that we have a Secretary of the Interior in Dr. Work, who can not be bull dosed, bluffed or stampeded by the irrigationists whose sole object, purpose and interest in irrigation is that they may have money to spend—somebody else's money. They make no claim or pretense that more land should be put in crop. That irrigation scheme in Baker county would boom the town of Baker. $9,000,000 would make Elensburg, Wn., hum. It would be a sure thing hum. A $9,000,000 hum.
All those fellows who are interested in robbing the United States by having the public domain of the United States turned over to certain particular states, are looking ahead to a nice profitable game of grab-bag politics.

EAST FORK NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bunch and son, Gale, were on the upper East Fork Sunday calling on friends.

Neva Heller, of Cherry cross, gave a pleasure ride Sunday to Jess Cotton, Malcolm Looney, Ker at Florence and Audrey Shepherd and one of Vern Barker's boys. Lots of folks drive up the East Fork when they want to see beauty spots.

The Steel Creek Logging Co., Cecil Dugger operating manager, have nearly finished logging the Geo. Chaney timber on Sec. 11 and have commenced felling timber on the Stemmler place owned by Mr. Chaney.

Fred Minard's camp is running full swing. The 200 acres on which he is logging has timber enough to keep him going for a year or more.

Ida Howe is on the sick list. It is not often that she has a chance to take a vacation.

Mr. McDonald and others of North Bend have been camped on the Gold Brick road and doing some hunting.

There is an outfit hunting who have a hound. Monday night some one was doing night hunting. As far as our land is concerned they are not going to do night hunting or daylight hunting.

Ed Barker, of Myrtle Point, Bert Gould and son, Harold, of Coquille, came up to club grounds last week. Harold had to beat it back home for school. Monday Gould and Barker were out towards the headwaters of Bald Hill and Steel creeks and Ed Barker shot a fat deer, a big five pointer. He figures it dressed 175. They were 2 hours packing it in to camp.

Seven different men had degrees conferred on them, the exercises of which were interesting. The great thing of the evening was the address by Sir Arthur Currie, president of McGill University, Montreal. To hear that was worth nearly the price of the radio. His address was concerning education. These are some of the thoughts he handed out as to what true teaching is and the youth should be taught:
