Mrs. Fred True has been quite sick with a cold.

Brewster Valley

Grandma Shepherd passed away at her daughter, Mrs. P. A. Alford's home last Monday morning at the ripe old age of almost 98 years. She had been an invalid in bed for the past two years and was patiently waiting for the end to come, so she could be at rest. She leaves to mourn her death, three daughters, Mrs. Fannie Alford, of Sitkum; Mrs. Annie Anderson, of Merrill, Ore.; Mrs. Eunice McDaniels, of Redding, Calif.; and one son, J. D. Laird, of Sitkum; also a host of grand children and great grand children. Mrs. W. H. Bunch, of Dora, made a short talk and she was laid away under many beautiful flowers in the Dora cemetery.

Clarence Miller, of Duggers' camp, spent Saturday night and Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Moore, and family.

Mrs. Julius Benham has been confined to bed for a few days with a severe cold, but is improved at this writing.

Hailey Laird made a business trip to Coquille one day this week.

EAST FORK NOTES

J. T. Parks cleared 32x68 pieces of his place in Brewster Valley last winter, planted it to potatoes and this fall he dug from that strip of ground, 32x68 pieces, 225 sacks of potatoes, which he and Ernest Krowen, who helped him dig, say contain not less than a bushel and a half to the sack as they were taken from the field. The potatoes are an extra choice lot. Mr. Parks said he thought three-fourth of them were No. 1 and that there were only 12 sacks of what he called small ones. He knows it was back-aching work last winter in the rain and the snow to clear that land of myrtle and maple stumps, but the ache is all out now and it is a smile when he thinks of his crop for that is not far from 800 bushels to the acre. One day Ernest Krowen helped him six hours in digging and they dug and picked up 73 sacks.

Rob Ray had some experience with a rob who stole 15 or more dollars out of his tent.

Bert Gould was up to his cabin at the club grounds Sunday. He said some one had been in it and taken his fishing rod.

Last week Wednesday morning, the tomato vines were black, the frost got in its work, but the tomatoes are all right. E. A. Easton.

Stage Lines Favor Gas Tax

According to Geo. W. Bryant, manager of the Coast Auto Lines stage line and a member of the Oregon Motor Stage association, the organized stage operators of the state are not in sympathy with the attack on the gasoline tax made by W. E. Crawford in the United States Court in behalf of certain Oregon interests.

Mr. Crawford seeks to have the United States Court invalidate the law of Oregon providing for the present gasoline tax which is used for the construction and maintenance of the highways.

Mr. Bryant states that the stage operators of this state, through the Oregon Motor Stage association, representing 25 per cent of the stage interests of Oregon, have several times gone on record publicly and officially, as being in favor of, not only the present gasoline tax, but an increase in this tax if additional funds are needed for construction and maintenance of our highways, their position being that the gasoline tax, together with a license fee based on the weight of vehicles, is the fairest and most equitable measure of the use of and damage to the highways as far as direct or suggested.

During the Thanksgiving Season

Our thoughts naturally turn to good things to eat. Not since this store was established have we been better prepared to cater to the needs of the holiday food shopper.

Mince Meat for Pies

Heinz in tin.
Libby's in glass.
And our quality bulk mince meat—aged just right to give that fine flavor due to the proper blending of the ingredients. They all come back for more.

Fruit Cake?

Yes, we have that; also the makings.

Plum Puddings—Cranberries—In fact everything from soup to nuts. And

Speaking of Nuts

Our new crop Walnuts and Almonds are now in stock. Not just nuts, but the quality kind that has made our walnut business grow until we buy them by the ton.
And after all that, we can supply the after dinner mints and chocolates for the ladies and cigars for the men.
If you are rushed, call 69 and we'll put it on the kitchen table.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (CALIFORNIA)

Visiting Around the World Mrs. Ray Stillner, of Bridge, left Roseburg last Monday on a visit to her old home at Cardiff, Wales, and a trip that will take her around the world before she returns to Coos county. Her route across the country is by way of California, thence over Southern Pacific to New Orleans. At the last named point she takes boat to New York, thence to Cardiff. From Cardiff she will sail around Africa and on to Australia, where she will visit relatives, and from there to Seattle and then to Bridge again.

Mr. and Mrs. Stillner met during the late war when Mr. Stillner was in the British navy and Mrs. Stillner was engaged in a munitions factory in Cardiff. This is her third trip to Wales since 1919.—Myrtle Point American.

Good Returns from Black Sand An alchemist of the twentieth century, Albert Seelig, told the directors of the Marshfield chamber of commerce of his work at the Chickamin mine near Bandon in turning black sand into gold, platinum, and other precious metals. The mine is operated by himself, Charles Frazer, and L. M. Frazer. Charles Frazer said that all the trained scientific men had failed to extract gold from black sand but that Seelig was doing it daily. Seelig said alleged experts had told him the sand was virtually worthless but none the less he was obtaining precious metals from it by his method.—Marshfield News.
