Celebrates His 85th Birthday
W. A. Luse, of Coos Bay, last Saturday celebrated his 85th birthday at his home on Coos River. He is said to be one of the heartiest and healthiest of Coos Bay's early pioneers, daily doing chores on his ranch. The Times says he is perhaps one of the best men in this section and has a very retentive memory, and is a profound Biblical student and recalls a great fund of early pioneer stories. In 1840 with his family he started across the plains from Ohio and with his father and sister located at Safford, Ore., 25 miles from Salem. He worked with his father for 24 years in the Luse Lumber company which was located at Empire and from which the first lumber was shipped from Coos Bay to San Francisco. He is one of the oldest living pioneers of Coos county.

Bridge Men Injured
H. J. Hendricks, of Bridge, was seriously injured and his son slightly hurt when their automobile overturned ten miles west of Roseburg Sunday night. Hendricks and his son were on their way to Roseburg when a broken front wheel caused the car to upset. The father was removed to Mercy hospital where he is suffering from head and internal injuries. The son was cut about the head and face.

Both Legs and Arm Broken
T. Wiley, of North Bend, who was seriously injured in a 25-foot fall at the Milo Pierson mill at Lakeside Saturday morning, is improving, according to reports from the Keizer hospital. Both legs and right arm were broken and his head was badly cut.

The Redwood Highway
A definite program of activities has been laid down by the Executive Committee of the Redwood Highway Association, of California, the main objects of which are as follows:
1. The bringing about of the early completion of the Redwood Highway and its main laterals.
2. The diversion of a larger volume of tourists, vacationists and settlers into the Redwood Highway Empire.
3. The advertising of the scenic attractions and main resources of all counties and communities which make up the Redwood Highway Empire, on a large-scale practical basis.
4. A concentrated movement to increase the length of stopover of visitors in the Redwood Highway Empire, thereby increasing amount of cash expended therein.
The success of the first item, it was pointed out, is the early completion of the Redwood Highway, which in itself attracts additional motor traffic over the Highway. In fact, it will induce the motorist who is usually satisfied with short drives around his own town, to motor over an improved highway and enjoy the wonders of Nature. An improved highway will sell itself to those who ride over it, thus producing the best advertisement that can be obtained—a satisfied customer.
According to Frederick H. Meyer, President of the Redwood Highway Association, the diversion of a greater volume of tourists and vacationists over the Redwood Highway means more actual cash in the cash-registers of the merchants in the communities along the line. The tourist, it is claimed, spends an average of $10.00 a day. Moreover, of a given volume of tourist traffic a certain percentage return and become permanent settlers, according to statistics.
The idea of advertising each county's scenic attractions and business opportunities, linked with a name carrying such value as the "Redwood Highway," carries, it is of vital importance, not only to the counties and communities themselves but to each individual and business house in the Redwood Highway Empire, according to the Executive Committee.

If the activities of the Redwood Highway Association of California should be expanded far enough north to include the southern Oregon section of the Roosevelt highway, as they certainly must be as soon as the connecting link between these two highways is finished in Curry county, as it is promised that it will be next year, Coos county it liable to witness the biggest boom it has ever seen, in the near future. Having just been reading of the results that have followed from the discovery of our old home, Suffolk county at the east end of Long Island, by New York capitalists, and the wonderful increase in real-estate values this year of the lands over which the writer used to roam in his boyhood days, we are now looking for a reflection of these eastern activities on the southern Oregon coast in the near future.

America First Found A. D. 1000
Though it was not until 1721 that the present Danish European settlement in Greenland was organized, it is of more than slight significance that the Danish archaeological expedition to Greenland has recently discovered many evidences of the early Norse settlers there. For it is fairly well established that these hardy Norsemen first "found" Greenland about 1000, that before very long they had a population of several thousands there, and that they flourished for several centuries. The colony was from the first a republic, and its planting followed the voyages and discoveries of Eric the Red. Lief Ericson brought Christianity thither shortly thereafter, and the foundations of the churches then built still remain. It was, of course, from Greenland that Ericson sailed for the New World, being followed later by Karlsefan, in the hope of planting towns on the coast of what is now New England, and one colony is believed to have dwelt for three years near the site of Boston, Mass.—Christian Science Monitor.

Moose Knocked Off Trestle
A moose cow walking the trestle near Crow was hit by the Southern Pacific train one night this week and knocked into the lake.
Dr. W. V. Glaisyer, county veterinarian, examined the moose and found her so badly hurt that there was no hope of her recovery, so that all that could be done was to kill her.
Several moose have been hit at this place as the animals seem to have a decided fondness for taking their evening strolls across the trestle. The Southern Pacific crosses the trestle slowly but was unable to stop in time to avoid striking the moose.

STORY OF CHRISTMAS SEAL INTERESTING

Idea Originated in Denmark Years Ago Accomplishes Wonders in United States.

More full of dramatic interest than the chapters of a novel, is the history of the little Christmas Seal now on sale throughout the state of Oregon. Conceived by a Danish postal clerk, to raise money that would save the lives of children suffering from tuberculosis; wandering across the Atlantic, falling into the hands of a great American writer; being recreated on American soil, and sold to maintain another tuberculosis hospital; becoming the sole financial support of a great organization dedicated to a Health campaign steadily and surely overcoming the "white plague," are leading events in the life history of the Christmas Seal.

Mr. Elmer Holboell, postal clerk in far off Denmark, busy cancelling stamps and handling packages during the Christmas season of 1908, had on his heart the problem of raising money to support a little hospital for poor children stricken with tuberculosis. In the midst of his work, he conceived the idea of selling a seal somewhat like the stamps he was so busy cancelling. Mr. Holboell submitted his plan to the king, received the royal sanction and the seal was printed, sold, and fulfilled its mission. The children of the poor received the care they needed, at the little hospital.

Several years later, one of the Danish seals fell into the hands of Jacob Riis, the American writer and publicist. He was immediately interested, wrote to a friend across the ocean, obtained the story behind the seal and published it in the "Outlook" in 1907.

This story in turn stirred to action an American woman, Miss Emily Hissel, who like the Danish Postal Clerk, was struggling with the financial problem of a little tuberculosis sanatorium near Wilmington, Delaware. Miss Hissel managed the first American Christmas Seal Sale in 1907, raising $3,000 for the needy hospital, a sum far beyond her expectations.

From the three thousand dollar Seal Sale in 1907 to the four and a half million dollar sale in 1924, the story of the Christmas Seal has been one of magnificent accomplishment against the foe tuberculosis. Between 1908 and 1918 the American Red Cross, put its shoulder to the wheel, and backed the Seal Sale, hence the term "Red Cross Seal" which still lingers although now six years out of date. The fight name is CHRISTMAS SEALS or tuberculosis Christmas Seals, for since 1918 the National Tuberculosis Association, and its branches, state and local, have been selling the seals, and depending on them for their entire support. The Oregon sale is conducted by the Oregon Tuberculosis Association and the County Public Health Associations.

Since the time of the first Seal Sale many millions of dollars have been invested in tuberculosis-fighting equipment; hospitals, open air schools, clinics, dispensaries, tuberculosis nursing, etc., and it has been largely through the interest focused on the problem by the annual sale of Christmas Seals. The tuberculosis death rate in the United States has been considerably more than cut in half in these eighteen years. The disease is being conquered. The winning slogan is Health! Health! Health!—such fine radiant health that it repels sickness, and Christmas Seals are in the field in Oregon, and in every state in the Union, to continue the fight to a winning finish.

Eighteenth Seal Sale On
Money to Finance Anti-Tuberculosis Fight in Oregon
Christmas Seals, selling for one cent each are expected to raise $50,000 in Oregon between Thanksgiving and Christmas, in the 18th annual Seal Sale. Ninety-five per cent of the money will be kept in Oregon, where it is the sole source of income for the Oregon Tuberculosis Association, and provides most of the funds used by the County Public Health Associations.

Every city, village and community in the state will have a chairman or group of workers actively interested in selling the seals. Women's clubs and organizations are giving it enthusiastic support, and a large number of Parent-Teacher Associations are lending aid to the "Give Health, Fight Tuberculosis" campaign which the seals finance.

One of the few things a penny will buy—A Christmas Seal.

Huge Public Barometer
One of the largest public barometers in existence is to be found on the tower of the German museum at Munich. This particular barometer is so said to be the only one of its kind in existence. It shows the weather conditions for the city of Munich very accurately. The figures on the dial show the height of the mercury in centimeters; 71 is the average height of Munich, so that a swing to the right of this figure indicates fair weather, to the left bad times ahead. The hand on the tower is connected electrically to an ordinary spring barometer, which is located elsewhere in the building and whose slightest movement is automatically followed by the tower hand. The dial is more than 18 feet in diameter and the gilded hand weighs nearly a hundred pounds.—Family Herald.

CHRISTMAS SEALS AID TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT

Knowledge and Practice of the Rules of Health Greatest Need.

In 1924, 899 Oregon people died with tuberculosis. Best estimates indicate that probably 6000 are afflicted with the disease. Careful studies show that between the ages of 15 and 40, which may be called the best years of life, more Oregonians die of tuberculosis than from any other cause of death and the same is true throughout the United States as a whole. All this is in spite of the fact tuberculosis is known to be preventable and curable.

"We know enough about tuberculosis to scotch it within a generation. It is not lack of knowledge, it is lack of application of knowledge that impedes our progress." These were the words of Dr. Allen K. Krause, leading American authority on tuberculosis, when he visited Oregon last summer. He also pointed out that the knowledge which makes physicians confident that tuberculosis is preventable and curable is not knowledge regarding medicines or treatments that can be called "specific cures." It is knowledge regarding the fundamental rules of healthy living.

It is disregard of the rules of healthy living that permits tuberculosis to continue as so great a menace to humane life. It is knowledge of these rules, and care in their application which will eventually overcome tuberculosis. It is the tremendous progress in this direction which has made possible the 50% reduction in the tuberculosis death rate in the United States within the last 18 years, and the 23% reduction in Oregon's rate within the last ten years.

Christmas Seals finance the campaign of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association which is specifically designed to meet the need of teaching health. Public Health nurses are put into the field in Oregon. Health teaching is taken into the Oregon schools. Literature is distributed, exhibits are prepared, and every known channel of teaching health is employed.

The objective of the health teaching is to overcome tuberculosis by striking at its vulnerable spot.

OREGON CONGRESSMEN ENDORSE SEAL SALE

Stanfield, Sinnott, Hawley, and Crumpacker Approve Work Supported by Seals.

"The anti-tuberculosis movement has always had my unqualified support. I believe that conducting the Sale of Christmas Seals to raise funds for combating this disease (tuberculosis) is a most valuable public service and should by all means be encouraged. Best assured that I shall be more than glad to do anything I can to further the valuable work."
HON. M. E. CRUMPACKER,
U. S. Representative from Oregon.

"I am glad to most heartily join in wishing the utmost success in the work of those engaged in the anti-tuberculosis campaign."
HON. ROBT. N. STANFIELD,
U. S. Senator from Oregon.

"In a time when we are thinking of making a season especially joyful to those of our immediate family and friends, the contributions to the anti-tuberculosis campaign is an instance of kindly good will toward a number of our fellow citizens who have cause for uneasy apprehension, and the fact that people are mindful of them will help them as much, I believe, as the money will help them. I cordially commend the sale of Christmas Seals."
HON. WILLIS C. HAWLEY,
U. S. Representative from Oregon.

"I wish to cordially endorse the coming anti-tuberculosis campaign in Oregon, through the sale of Christmas Seals. I note with pleasure the report of the great decrease in the death rate from tuberculosis in our home state, during the past fourteen years, and believe that this is due in a large measure to the money derived from the sale of Christmas Seals.

"The Christmas Seal campaign is a most worthy one and I consider it a distinct privilege to be able to add my testimony to the great number who hold a like opinion."
HON. N. J. SINNOTT,
U. S. Representative from Oregon.
