Mrs. Jennie D. Moore, who is to represent the Coquille Teachers' Association at the state meeting of teachers in Portland next week, left last Friday evening for that city to spend Christmas.

In addition to the students mentioned last week, coming home for the holidays, were Miss Elva Wilby, from O. A. C., Miss Myrtle Hunt and Captain Neider, from U. of O., who came in Saturday.

One of our city subscribers compliments one of his friends at this Christmas season with a subscription for the Sentinel next year. There is a chance for all who wish to compliment as many friends as they choose with a Sentinel subscription for 1927.

Jan. Coughlin, who passed through town last week on his way from Portland to Gold Beach, says he is feeling strong again and expects to be back at work in the publisher's office about the first.

Food Friday, of Beaver Hill, is the latest applicant for citizenship papers. He filed his notice of intention to apply for them with the county clerk last Saturday. He is 37 years of age, was born in Harpelt, Czechoslovakia, and came to the United States in 1888.

C. H. Lowery this week closed his cleaning and pressing plant and Tuesday left with his wife for Newburg. From there he was going down to Arizona to look for a vacation. He found that two shops of that kind can not make it go as a business of this size.

John D. Carl and family, of Arroyo, left Wednesday noon for a ten day California trip. They will visit in Modesto, Taft and other points and will be in Pasadena on New Year's to see the big east-west football game which the University of Washington and Alabama meet for the last big game of the year.

J. J. Stanley received season's greetings Wednesday from his son, who has been in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., since last May. He is with the same lumber concern as are Roy Wernick and Ole Hight, former Coquille residents. John is convinced of the east and says he doesn't think he would ever be satisfied on the Pacific coast again.

One of the finest calendars ever issued by a Coquille business house is that which the Coos Bay Real Estate Agency has been giving away this month. A beautiful timber scene, with mountains in the background would indicate that it was reproduced from an Oregon view. Mr. Cottan says the calendars cost him $1.50 apiece.

No Football Schedule Yet

The high school principals and coaches held their meeting here last Saturday to discuss the football schedule for 1927 but were unable to formulate one that suited everyone.

One thing they did agree on, however, and that was that each of the five teams should play six conference games. But when it came to fitting these games into a schedule which would not conflict with games that those of the local eleven are to play with outside teams it seemed to be impossible to fix it up.

Each one of the coaches will endeavor to draw up a suitable schedule and it is certain that one can be arranged.

Marshallfield has three outside games scheduled, North Bend two or three, and Myrtle Point one.

"Brick" Enforces the Rule

Cigarettes and athletics have never mixed either in high school nor college, and Coach Leslie is to be commended in the stand he has taken in refusing to allow students to play basketball if they won't give up the habit of smoking. It is worse, too, for the captain of the team, a leader in the game, to set an example of rule violation. One of the men, a sure player on this year's squad, has been dropped from the squad for this reason, and there will be others unless they heed the rule.

Sentinel Wants Apple Yields

The Sentinel would like to have some of its former readers tell it what is the largest yield of apples they have ever seen gathered from a single tree or from an acre of apple orchard, or about 65 trees.

Ice and Snow in Idaho

One county's Christmas weather beats that of the "hazy north" this week. A dispatch from Atlanta, Georgia, on Wednesday, tells about a blizzard of ice and snow which swept through the entire country, which is in striking contrast with the balmy spring-like weather, with blooming flowers and evergreen verdure, we are enjoying at this Christmas tide. It says:

In Georgia, southern Alabama and Mississippi the fall was light and was virtually swept away as it struck the coast, but from Tennessee and Kentucky came reports of depths ranging to an inch and upward. Northern Alabama also reported snow and sleet. Temperatures went below the freezing point in several states and northern Florida prepared for heavy frost.

Holydays Treats Children

J. L. Holzman had his annual Christmas tree and Santa Claus for the children of the town last Monday. There were at least 200 children lining the street in front of his cigar store when St. Nicholas made his appearance and presented each of them with a big stick of candy. They were big sticks, too.

It is doubtful if there is anyone in town who derives more pleasure from treating the children than does Mr. Holzman and they look forward to it every year.

Jenkins Takes Another Lot

Jan. T. Jenkins, of Poughkeepsie, was here Tuesday looking for more Jersey heifers to take down to the Edison-Folk ranch near Coquille, Calif. Mr. Jenkins delivered several heifers to them last month and will take 200 head more down next week. The California concern is figuring on 1000 head of dairy stock and a great deal of beef stock on their ranch, including what they have under lease, of 15,000 acres.

Two Dances This Week

Coquille's Pavilion is advertising two dances this week, a Christmas dance on each Friday and Saturday nights.

Next week on Thursday night—New Year's Eve—a Carnival dance will be held in the hall. Caps, crowns and noise-makers will be presented to all attending and the new year will be welcomed in with much hilarity.

Malheur Goes After Wildlife

Deputy Sheriff Malheur left last Saturday for San Jose, Calif., to bring back Ralph Wildlife, held there for him. Wildlife was indicted by the grand jury in Coquille for taking his child from his mother in September, after the circuit court had awarded the child to the mother in the divorce of divorce separating the two.

Get No Justice on Earth

I know that there is a just, right and true Creator of all things, and I know Jesus was on the cross, and so far I have not got any justice on earth for my girl, but I know I will get justice from the heavenly court.

John Leuthold, the father of Lilian Leuthold, Bendon, Oregon.

Send a Letter Each Week

If you didn't think of it at Christmas, why not at New Year's—make a holiday present of a year's subscription to the Sentinel to some friend who would be interested in getting a letter from Coquille every week in the year. This, you know, is the paper that's "like a letter from home."

Deal Personality

When we choose between two lines of conduct, between a mean action and a noble one, we choose also between two persons, both bearing your name, the one representing what is best in us, the other embodying what is worst. When we vacillate and alternate between them, we wear, as the man in Robert Louis Stevenson's story wore, between Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

No Mental Progress?

A group of scientists in the University of California, after many years of study and test, have decided that the human mind has made no mental progress in 2000 years, says Popular Science Monthly. They have concluded that we know about as much today as the people who lived in Babylon, and not as much as the Greeks did 2500 years ago.

Failure and Success

Failure is not as bad, generally, as success. They seem to reveal almost mirror image truth, and, on the whole, more encouraging, than anything else in the world. Success encourages the weak qualities in men; failure often brings out the best. Failure is the fear, if not the voice, of failure—Lawrence Housman.

Smoke Dust Volatile

Smoke dust that collects in and clogs up chimneys will likely be utilized commercially in the near future, according to Prof. A. G. Christie of Johns Hopkins university. As a filler for the paint, a base for some building material or as a fertilizer, the prospects are encouraging on a commercial scale.

No Tubercular Birds

Although tubercle bacilli such as in feet humans may be transplanted into birds, the bacilli will not multiply. Birds seem to have a natural immunity from tuberculosis. The resistance is perfect and not even local infection develops as in some animals.

Good Manners

To enter the home of another person and to disturb the orderly arrangement by the careless placing of wraps or parcels is thoughtless selfishness. It is in much better taste to be unobtrusive even if we are sure of our welcome.

Handling Mercury

In 1926 Bureau found it possible to safely remove by exposure to a fuming solution. This cooling process is accomplished by liquid air, which can freeze mercury and make it hard enough to use as a hammer.

Early Mail Carrying

Mail was first carried by a steam railway in 1826, but it was not until 1838 that a law was passed declaring all railroads to be post routes. The traveling railway post office did not come until 1862.

Color of Sparrows

The biological survey says that there is no such bird as a red-headed sparrow. Both the lark sparrow and the chipping sparrow have distinctive heads. These species are known as song sparrows.

Fusion Harsh Strength

For in the same degree in which a man's mind is under to freedom from all passions, in the same degree also is it under to strength—Marcus Antoninus.

Action Before Words

For men suggest few such noble sentiments as they utter in action, except their in words.—F. W. Robertson.

None Dance

A dance for the benefit of Moore Lodge activities will be given by Ke-Kel Lodge, New Year's Eve, Dec. 31st, at Masonic Hall. All Moore and their friends are cordially invited.
