Fishtrap Waking Up

Almost every house in Fishtrap Valley is occupied. There have been some changes but more came than went.

L. B. Huff is in the Byers house. Walter Robison is one of the Henniger houses and Charley Byers in the other. Mrs. Stenerson is in the Ed Fish house, Mr. Paul in the H. Clinton house, Walter Barklow in the Crouse house and Mr. Kirkpatrick in the Brewster house. John Hickman has moved to Coquille.

There has been a great deal of plowing done this fine weather.

Walter Robison runs the school wagon.

Roses and myrtles are in bloom, frogs croaking and there are many other indications of spring.

The Fishtrap church bell that has been quiet so long once more peals out to this entire section every Sunday morning a call to Sunday school and church service. It even calls visitors from Coquille and Myrtle Point to come over into Macdonia and help us.

There is only one drawback—the river is jammed with logs and I suppose contrary to law (we will soon find out), and the road is impassable. We are almost quarantined against the county seat, but we hope that work will soon begin on the road and the logs begin to be cleared from the river.—Observer.

Zed Conroy Mixes Salads and Songs

Zed Conroy, business manager of the musical classic, "The Kites" is hailed by his friends as the most versatile of American popular song composers.

Zed Conroy.

of a certain young fellow (talking over the lines) has been recognized as the model of American songwriting.

But Mr. Conroy has other "bread" in his repertoire. His acquaintance extends to a country level, he is a judge of home cook, and also knows a good deal.

The single life in Mr. Conroy's idea of happiness. Every so often illustration gets too crowded for him and he boards a train for the country and the companionship of a certain morning break. Invariably he comes back with one of the many tunes for which he is noted.

A bachelor, Zed keeps open house for his friends. If he invites a few of the boys over for a midnight supper, he does the cooking himself. Invitations to his lovely little dinners are sought after. There are two dishes to which Mr. Conroy is partial. We are his friends. His recipes for the two follow:

- Royal Eggs With Mustard Sauce.
- 12 eggs
  - 1 1/2 cup egg-plant
  - 1 1/2 cup cream
  - 1 1/2 cup butter
  - 1 1/2 cup milk
  - 1 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1 1/2 cup flour

Beat the yolks in two deep layers, taking care not to burn. Make a white sauce of two cups butter, four cups cream and most of the milk. Cook the mixture. Add the cooked egg-plant to the sauce. Cook the Royal Eggs and keep them hot. The egg-plant is to be kept in a glass jar. Heat an onion as they are a guide to the onion and do not allow an egg on each plate of food. Allow two cups for each serving. Heat over all with cream sauce and garnish with parsley.

- Pineapple-Chicken Salad.
- 10 slices pineapple
  - 1 cup cream
  - 1 cup chopped chicken
  - 1 cup evaporated milk
  - 1 cup lettuce
  - 1 cup mayonnaise
  - 1 cup pineapple juice
  - 1 cup sugar
  - 1 cup salt and red
  - 1 cup cream
  - 1 cup salad dressing

Combine the chicken, cream, evaporated milk, pineapple juice and sugar, and blend into a smooth mass. Cut pineapple circles in half. Spread chicken mixture on a slice of pineapple. Place on the other half circle of pineapple on top of chicken as one would a slice of bread in making a sandwich. Cut the circles or triangles from green and red lettuce and press into the edge of the chicken mixture between the slices of pineapple on a crisp lettuce bed. Garnish with creamy salad dressing. This serves six.

Khefve's Ex-Chef Gives Cooking Tip

Great chefs are born, not made. Rarely if ever do they rise to the heights in their profession by dint of perseverance. In Europe and the East a chef with the true gastronomic instinct is treasured jealously. He expects and obtains the treatment of an ambassador. His dishes are the pride of his master, to be boasted of to friends in the cafes and banquets.

Such a chef is Haroutun Gedejian, sometime chef to the family royal of the khedive of Egypt, now the owner of a famous gold coast restaurant in Chicago. In his thirty-three years as a chef extraordinaire, Haroutun's word has been law in the kitchens of three Egyptian princes and one princess, the mother of the khedive. When Lord Kitchener was viceroy of Egypt, before the trouble in the Sudan, Haroutun cooked for him.

One of Kitchener's favorite dishes, according to Haroutun, was scotch-halibut, a fish made from milk-freshly lamb. Prince Jamel, another of his masters, was particularly fond of dried cream and honey, a preparation which is one of Haroutun's religiously guarded secrets. Prince Saad Pasha was a keen admirer of a confection Haroutun makes entirely out of flour, butter and nuts.

In many of his delightful dishes, Haroutun uses evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk sterilized in cans and with sixty per cent of the water removed. Because of a homogenizing process through which evaporated milk is put, the fat globules in the milk are broken up into microscopic particles and distributed throughout the milk, where they remain in homogeneous suspension.

This breaking of the fat globules gives a distinct buttery flavor to every drop of the evaporated product, a flavor which ordinary market milk does not have. Haroutun says he uses evaporated milk in preference to market milk in the preparation of all sorts of baked dishes, as well as in cooking.
