Capricious "Appetites"

A record case of foreign substances in a human stomach is described in Hygiene Magazine. Two Canadian physicians reported that 2,533 different metallic objects were found in a woman's stomach. They included bent pins, tacks, corset steels, garter fasteners, needles, buttons, beads, washers, an American penny and a pen point.

The woman, who is forty-two years old, had been swallowing the articles over a period of years but felt no pain until recently. An operation was performed.

The greatest number of foreign objects found in a stomach previously was 1,146 in a case reported in 1911.

Many Thanks

"Do I understand," said the young man, "that you absolutely decline to let me marry your daughter?"

"I do," replied her father firmly.

"Sir," said the young man, reaching for his bat, "will you shake hands on parting?"

"Of course," said the father, surprised. "And I am glad to see that you take your disappointment so well."

"Yes," said the young man; "and if you'll allow me, I am going to send you a box of cigars, too. You don't know how dear that daughter of yours came to having me hooked."

They Sing

Illustrative of the importance that music plays in the life of Welshmen, there was a war-time anecdote which told of eight Britons who were found in a dugout after a 12-hour bombardment. The two Irishmen were still fighting, the two Scotchmen were holding a debate, the Englishmen had not been introduced, but the two Welshmen were busy organizing an oratorio society.

Members of the Elks lodge from all over Coos county are expected at the Marshfield Elks annual picnic slated for next Sunday, August 26, at Winchester Bay. The Marshfield lodge has members in all sections of the county as well as in the Reedsport section and in addition Eugene and Roseburg Elks have been invited to join with the coast lodges in the all day outing.

A program of sports and entertainment has been arranged for the amusement of the picnicers. The lodge will furnish coffee, cream and sugar and those attending will bring basket lunches. A gala-day event is promised and it is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance.

Clerks Books Being Returned

Many of the clerks from the several school districts in the county have been calling at the office of the County School Superintendent in order to secure the return of their clerk's books which have been audited by the auditor for District Boundary Board for W. H. Wann. Since the passing of a new law in 1927 the auditor is not paid directly by the district clerks but rather the money is taken from the county school fund by the county superintendent when apportionments are being made.

Schools Open Sept. 3-4
