Miss Catherine Wernich arrived yesterday from Saratoga Springs, New York, where she has been attending Skidmore College. Miss Wernich will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wernich.

Donald Burch, employee of Skaggs grocery store, smashed two wheels of his Star roadster Tuesday night when he skidded into the ditch on the Marshfield highway to avoid hitting another car. No other damage was done.

W. H. Hull, civil war veteran of this city, and his son, Clark Hull, of River-ton, left Wednesday morning on a month's trip during which they will visit a daughter and sister in Olympia, Wash., Mrs. Ina Fox, and other relatives in that section.

Mrs. F. C. Sanford, accompanied by her son, Chester Sanford, recently returned from Los Angeles, where she has been visiting for the past year. Mrs. Sanford plans to make her home in Marshfield with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Curtis Sanford.

The Farmers & Merchants Bank has for exhibition now the new smaller sized paper currency. As fast as possible the banks are exchanging the old currency for the new but it will not be in circulation before the middle of July, according to W. S. Sickels.

Mrs. Fred Sample arrived Monday from Portland to arrange for moving her household goods from Marshfield to Portland, where Mr. Sample is working for the Southern Pacific. Mrs. William Wood accompanied Mrs. Sample for a few days' visit with her father, F. M. Hufford.

Supt. and Mrs. W. V. Ferguson left Tuesday morning for Corvallis and Monmouth, where the former expects to get in touch with teachers to fill vacancies in next year's teaching force. They were accompanied by Mrs. R. W. Slater and son who will visit her parents in Salem.

Miss Margaret White returned Monday from Portland after spending the week end with her mother, Mrs. Thos. White, who is receiving treatment at the Good Samaritan hospital. Mrs. White is convalescing from a tonsil operation and will probably be able to leave the hospital within a week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fuhrman and sons, Frederick and Rolph, returned Friday of last week from a week's vacation trip to San Francisco. While gone they saw the two daughters of Adam Pershbaker, a former sawmill owner and pioneer of this county. They are now living in Los Gatos, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carruthers and year-old baby came in last Sunday from Astoria and were guests at the home of his aunt, Mrs. F. L. Greenough, until Monday when they left for home, accompanied by E. W. Tallant, who will spend three months at his old home, returning to Coquille this fall.

The B. P. W. will meet at Coquille Hotel at 6:30 Monday evening, June 24. The program for the evening will include the installation of incoming officers and reports of outgoing officers. Members may bring guests if they wish to and are requested to make reservations with the committee before Monday noon. Charge $1.00 per plate.

Geo. E. Oerding returned last evening from a month's trip over western Oregon and California, during which he did a successful business for the Oerding factory line of myrtle-wood novelties. He was accompanied on his return by his sister, Mrs. Howard B. Warner, and her son, from Davis, Calif. They will visit the J. H. Oerding family for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fensler were Coquille visitors Wednesday, having arrived in Myrtle Point Monday from Baldwin Park, Calif. They expect to remain in Myrtle Point until fall. Mr. Fensler left Coquille four and a half years ago, after selling the Hub Clothing & Shoe store to Gant Bros., and went south for his health. He has improved greatly in health and appearance and is much heavier than when he left here.

Shoe Sale at Brunn's June 25
An "Estate Sale" at the Brunn Self Service shoe store on Front street is advertised to open next Tuesday morning, when the entire line of shoes is to be offered at unheard of prices.

street, recently built by Mr. Welch, and which Mr. Norton purchased a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Norton is a most charming lady whose friends and acquaintances are many in the Rose city. She has held a position of trust for some years with the Lumbermen's Trust Co., and for several sessions of the legislature has acted in a secretarial capacity.

To those who know Mr. Norton, no mention of his activity in Coquille and Coos county affairs is necessary. He is one of Coquille's leading citizens; one whose counsel is sought in all matters of importance and who has had great influence in shaping political and business affairs in this section for a score of years. He is manager of the Coquille Valley Mercantile Co., Coos county's representative in the last legislature, and has served in most of the positions of honor in this city, and always with credit.

"Gene" Norton is a man of sterling worth, one who has made his own way through life, and the Sentinel unites with his hundreds of friends in Coos county in extending heartiest congratulations to the happy pair and best wishes for their future life.

It's a Gas Well

Accompanied by Mayor J. Arthur Berg, Jas. W. Laird and I. A. Elrod, the Sentinel editor drove out to Gravel Ford Tuesday to see the gas well. It is located on the old J. D. Bennett place, a few hundred feet back from the cheese factory, and which place is now owned by C. S. Webb.

W. F. Kernin, who was drilling for water for Mr. Webb, says that he can not say whether it is natural gas or gas created by the decayed vegetation 150 feet below the surface, but it will burn.

A piece of burning paper dropped in the hole will cause an explosion and on Monday a torch at the mouth of the hole caused the gas to burn for two or three minutes.

Mr. Kernin struck the first indication of gas at 117 feet depth. The drill passed through two or three layers of shale and a couple of sandstone, and the location itself is on the ridge along the North Fork that geologists claim is of oil and gas structure.

Small globules of oil may be seen in the mess brought up by the bailer, and it is possible that were the hole drilled for several hundred feet oil and gas in quantities might be tapped.

But Mr. Webb cannot use gas for his dairy herd; he wants a water well, and he does not feel like gambling the amount necessary to sink the well deeper and they are going to hunt for water elsewhere.

When the four Coquille men reached the well Tuesday, a demonstration had just been made for a number of dairymen and there was not enough of an accumulation of gas in the shaft to explode, but for a quarter of a minute or longer there was a roaring at the bottom of the well while what gas was there burned.

That three or four test wells for oil are to be drilled somewhere on Davis Slough is pretty well assured, for a Wyoming concern has 24,000 acres under lease there and the drilling outfit is expected on the ground very soon. They figure on spending upwards of $250,000 in giving that section a thorough test.

Will Start Work Monday

Anderson & Matson, who were awarded the contract for the north end paving and sewer improvements by the council Monday evening, wish to advise the people of that district to get in their fuel and supplies this week as they expect to start tearing up the old plank the first of next week. Anderson & Matson, whose headquarters are on Coos Bay, have had some of the largest construction projects in the county, and in some instances the largest of their kind in the state. They were the first to lay vibrolithic or compressed concrete in the state, and laid the mill slough drain in Marshfield. They have laid a quarter of a million dollars' worth of paving in Marshfield and North Bend.

At the present time they are just finishing the bridge on the Roosevelt Highway over the railroad tracks at the entrance to Simpson Park in North Bend.

The concrete for the paving here will be poured from a fine sack mixer, the material being supplied to the mixer direct from trucks and not dumped in the streets. The truck holds the correct amount of sand, gravel and cement for each batch.

The main trench for the sewer will be dug with a steam shovel digger, thus expediting that work and insuring that the paving will be ready for use by the time the fall rains start—unless it should rain all summer.

Mr. Matson was a caller at the Sentinel office Tuesday morning and stated that his firm wished to work in harmony with the people here, and that they would be pleased to have anyone make careful inspection of their work. Mr. Matson will make his home in Coquille while the two jobs are in progress.

Eugene Plays Here Sunday

Sunday's game here between the Loggers and Eugene will see a new face in the Coquille line-up, that of Claud Hutt, of Yamhill, who played at O. S. C. this spring.

Wm. Fortier and Perry Roper signed him up Wednesday, while on a trip to Portland. He is an outfielder and will play left, which means that "Duke" Marlow will be moved in to second base. Hutt is a corking good fielder and a very good sticker. He intends to get a job and spend the summer down here.

While in Portland, the men conferred with Tom Turner and Roy Mack, of the Portland Beavers, and found that L. L. Graham, of the S. P., had preceded them in a visit to baseball headquarters, in the effort to get the Beavers here. The best figure to be had was a $700 guarantee. The date selected by the Portland management was July 22, and if the fans and organizations can help with the guarantee, Mr. Fortier will sign up for the game. But the ball club's treasury will not warrant a pledge for the full amount, and it cannot be stated yet whether the Coast League team will come or not.

The game with Eugene Sunday will start at 2 o'clock.

"How Good is It?"

That's Safeway's first question. We won't talk "price" until we know an article is worthy of a place on our shelves. This "quality first" policy helped Safeway to almost double its growth during 1928 and saved enormous sums for the food buyers in the vast territory we serve.
