Adjourn for the Summer

The Pythian Sisters of Justus Temple No. 35, Coquille, at the last session in June adjourned their meetings by dispensation for the summer months of July and August. At the same time the regular election was held for delegates to Grand Temple at Portland next October. Mrs. Margaret Detlefsen was elected as regular delegate with Mrs. Olive Hickok as alternate.

The local Temple has just closed a winter of unusual prosperity, due mostly to the increase of membership. Plans are being shaped up for a grand rally and get-together in September when regular sessions will be resumed as usual on the first and third Wednesdays of the month.

County Agent on Strawberry Weevil Control and Cutworms

Strawberry Root Weevil Control

Strawberry root weevils which are the worst pest in strawberries in this section of the state can be effectively controlled by a poison bait at this time of the year. The weevil is found at this season under the leaves around the crown of the plant. This is the adult stage which is dark brown in color and varies from three-sixteenths to nearly five-eighths of an inch in length. They possess the characteristic weevil snout.

When about 75 per cent of the weevils are in the adult stage is the time for poisoning. The larvae stage of this insect is a small white grub and lives on the fibrous roots of the strawberry. The injury to the plants is caused by eating off the roots, thereby seriously retarding the growth of the plant or else killing it completely. A large number of strawberry patches in Coos county have been destroyed by this pest.

The best control is a poison bait made of either dried apple pomace or bran mixed with calcium arsenate or sodium fluorid, a small amount of molasses and enough water to make a crumbly mash. A prepared poison is sold under the trade name of "Go-West." The use of recommended formula is: Dissolve 1 pound of sugar in 2 quarts of water, and then thoroughly mix with 5 pounds of bran until the bran is uniformly moistened. One-half pound calcium arsenate is then thoroughly mixed with the bran.

The poison is applied at the rate of a teaspoonful to the hill directly in the crown of the plant and must be put on when the adult weevils are out. The weevils can not be poisoned when in larvae stage. Several growers of strawberries have found this remedy a very effective control.

Poison Bait for Cutworms

Cutworms have already made their appearance in several cultivated fields in the county and unless cultivated and recently seeded grain fields are closely watched serious damage may result. The infestation of cutworms in 1925 was serious enough to be remembered and losses of crops as occurred that year may be prevented by poisoning before the damage is done.

The cutworm is one of the easiest to control pests that we have. A poison bait made according to the following directions will eliminate any serious losses from cutworms.

Coarse wheat bran—25 pounds.
Paris Green or Sodium Fluorid—1 pound.
Syrup—1 pint.

Water to make a crumbly mash.

The dry ingredients are first thoroughly mixed and then water and syrup added. Use only sufficient water to make the material wet but not sloppy. It should be just wet enough so that it will fall apart readily after being pressed together in the hand. Broadcast the bait over the infested area at the rate of 12 to 15 pounds per acre as soon as the first cutworm injury is noticed.

The cutworms normally feed at night, cutting off the younger plants near the surface of the soil. The day is spent beneath trash or in the soil just beneath the surface. Because of their resemblance in color to the soil they are often overlooked until considerable damage is done. Prompt action is necessary. A few days may mean the difference between slight damage and total loss of the crop.

Chief Says Fire Hazards Few

Fire Chief Gardner stated at the meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors Wednesday evening that the fire hazard in Coquille is less than it has been before in a long time. Greater effort is being made to keep trash and accumulations removed from the rear of buildings in the business section. The fire department is taking an interest and notifying property owners as needed, in addition to the reminders by the city police.
