"Submarine"

A Mighty Drama of the Sea

Featuring Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and Ralph Graves
An epic of a different sort—glorifying the heroes of the deep—portraying them in their natural environs under the sea. It will get you—grip you and refuse to release its hold upon you. You'll like it. Story based on the tragedy of the S4.

Adm. 50c Child 10c

Tuesday, Greta Garbo in "WILD ORCHIDS," a tropical romance. A dramatic sensation.

Wednesday, Double Feature Day, Sammy Cohen in "HOME-SICK." You'll laugh till you cry. And Rex, King of Wild Horses, and Jack Perrin in "TWO OUTLAWS," a grand and glorious drama of the West.

Thursday, Ladies Golden Pheasant China Nite, William Boyd in "THE COP," a tremendous photoplay of the underworld of New York.

Friday, Laura La Plante in "SCANDAL," a pulsating drama of Santa Barbara's Millionaire colony.

Saturday, Double Feature Day, Monte Blue in "NO DEFENSE," a civil engineer wrongfully accused. And Tom Tyler in "GUN LAW," a Western thriller.

For rest and relaxation try the silent picture with the organ accompaniment. No tin-panny music to grate on your nerves. Miss Lucile Lore at the organ.

Why the Water Bonds

Should Be Voted Aug. 5

In an article appearing elsewhere in this issue, the city council of Coquille pledges itself, by the signature of Mayor Berg and all six councilmen, that the $25,000 or $26,000, included in the proposed bond issue for water system improvements, for raising the present dam, will not be spent, nor the bonds for that amount issued, until it has been thoroughly demonstrated that the present capacity of the reservoir back of the dam on Rink creek is insufficient to care for the city's requirements.

The members of the council have frequently expressed themselves to this effect in council sessions, and practically all have stated their belief that new iron pipe and meters, both of which will tend to eliminate waste, will prove that the present storage capacity is adequate for several years yet.

But, the recommendations made to the council some months ago by a group of business men who attended the sessions at which the water improvement campaign was started, was to the effect that the bond issue should provide funds for all possible enlargements and improvements, and the council has been following those recommendations.

There are very few people, although there are some, who will not acknowledge the justice of selling water by meter, just as electricity is sold. If the city had an inexhaustible supply metering would still be the equitable method of distribution, though not so essential as it is now. But leaky faucets and toilets and pavement sprinkling would be more carefully watched if a meter was ticking off the gallons of wasted water as well as of what is used.

Again, the Sentinel wants to suggest that if anyone doubts the urgent need of replacing 9400 feet of rotten wood pipe with iron, in the transmission line, that he examine the sample now in the city hall basement. The wonder is that we have any water at all for fire protection or for an hour's daily sprinkling.

And then consider the property owner in the Patterson Grove section of town, or in the north end, who cannot secure enough water for domestic use during irrigation hours. In justice to them, funds should be available for laying mains large enough to supply them with what they have been paying for for years and have not been receiving.

Coquille is growing, but no city ever attained much size without a sufficient supply of water. That precious fluid must be furnished to all its inhabitants. The council has no power even to replace the 9400 feet of decayed pipe with new, unless the bonds are voted.

It is useless to think of keeping fine lawns, flowers and ornamental shrubbery in the best of condition without water; and one hour of sprinkling a day is not sufficient.

Every home owner, every person interested in seeing Coquille a city of beautiful, well-kept homes, should talk and vote in favor of the water bond issue.

CENTRALIZED RADIO
HELPS IN TEACHING

The New Unit Takes Programs to School Rooms and to Hotel Guests.

Guests in hotels today are turning on a radio program in their rooms as easily as they switch on the electric light, pupils in schools are listening to valuable lectures given far away, and tenants in thoroughly modern apartments are connecting their receiving sets as easily as they connect their electric irons by use of one of the newest and most interesting radio developments. "Centralized radio" sprang into wide use immediately with its recent introduction by the Radio Corporation of America, whose engineers perfected it.

The reception of any one of four programs in rooms of hotels, schools, libraries, clubs, hospitals or other buildings is supplied through wall speakers no more conspicuous than a well hung picture. The programs may be heard also through separate loud speakers easily connected with a wall plate or through headphones when it is not desired that they be heard throughout the room. The development is equally interesting to the pampered guest of a huge metropolitan hotel and to pupils in isolated schoolhouses, who now can listen to educational features hitherto available only to pupils in the largest cities.

Principal of Oyster Bay, Long Island, school operating centralized radio.

This type of centralized radio, known as audio frequency, is not to be confused with the conventional radio receiver and amplifier connected with scattered loudspeakers or headphones. Reception with the new audio frequency is as perfect in every room as if an excellent radio receiving set were placed there.

The RCA audio centralized equipment takes the form of the necessary units mounted in standard switchboard fashion, one receiver with amplifying, distributing and outlet equipment constituting one channel, required for the reception and distribution of one program. As many as four channels, giving the listener a choice of any one of four programs, may be mounted on the central switchboard. The equipment is operated from the usual electric lighting circuit. The receiver for each channel is tuned to a given station and the tuning dials locked in position to prevent tinkering. A time clock switch may be set to start the program at any designated hour and to turn them off. The centralized equipment may be placed beside the telephone switchboard, behind the desk in a hotel, in the office of a hospital superintendent, in the office of a school's principal or any place that is convenient. Phonograph records may be played in the absence of programs.

The other type of centralized radio meets the different problem of persons who desire to use their own receiving sets in apartment buildings. It is known as radio frequency and does away with the necessity for unsightly roof antennas and lead-ins on the walls of modern buildings. It is not a mere lead-in, but is strictly a radio frequency transmission line which does not pick up additional signals or interference. One efficient antenna some 50 to 75 feet above the roof takes care of all, so that tenants merely have to plug in their radio receiving sets on a wall socket. A large percentage of the best type of big apartments now are being equipped in this way.

FLEEING MAN CAUGHT
BY A RADIO PICTURE

Constantino Queruben has a chance today to share a certain pride with the old crook character in Bayard Veiller's famous play, "Within the Law," in that he introduced a new era in criminal history. Veiller's character boasted that he was the first man to use a Maxim silencer in shooting his victim. Queruben was the first man captured by detectives by means of a radio photograph.

The chase after which Queruben is being taken back to New York to face charges of swindling and forgery extended over 5,500 miles and ended in Honolulu harbor. The sleepy Philco was roused from his berth at 5 o'clock on a recent morning and identified positively by a facsimile radio photograph, taken from an original in the files of the Bureau of Information in New York Police Headquarters and projected 2,600 miles across the Pacific Ocean by the Radio Corporation of America.
