A COLUMN OF FUN AND FACTS

A customer of ours owns an old Hudson that he is mighty proud of. The other day he was in our shop and as he started his motor a bystander almost threw him in convulsions by saying: "Where does the cement come out at?"

A man drove up to the Coquille Service Station with one of the largest eights on the market and asked for gas, leaving his motor running. One of the boys, after pumping gas into the tank for a few minutes, said: "WOULD YOU MIND KILLING YOUR MOTOR, MISTER, AND LET ME GET A LITTLE START!"

A cowpuncher ordered a steak at a restaurant. The waiter brought it in rare—very rare. The puncher looked at it and demanded that it be returned to the kitchen and cooked. "Fis cooked," snapped the waiter. "Cooked—hell," said our friend the puncher. "I've seen cows hurt worse than that get well."
