What Babson Thinks

In a copyrighted article Roger W. Babson, the famous financial expert, calls Hoover's message on the war debts the greatest constructive step since the war. He says it is an epoch and history making message. He hails Hoover as one of the greatest statesmen of recent years. He says in part:

"I wonder if readers realize what has happened since President Hoover offered to forego one year's payment on the debt which Europe owes the United States? The simple fact is that this $246,000,000 (the amount of one year's interest and sinking fund payment) has increased the value of our farm products, mineral products and securities, over $6,000,000,000. This has all happened in less than two weeks' time. Commodity and security markets throughout the world were electrified by the announcement. Our own values of wheat, corn, cotton, copper, lead, zinc, steel, silk and other basic materials rose abruptly. The rise in commodities coupled with the rise in securities has increased the value of these things over $6,000,000,000, according to my best estimates."

They Make Money in Oregon

Seventy-eight life insurance companies operating in Oregon collected $222,271,764 in premiums during 1930 and paid out $9,608,886 in claims, according to reports filed with A. H. Averill, state insurance commissioner. These reports show that there was in force at the close of the year 467,362 Oregon policies representing $712,834,190 in life insurance, a gain of 14,737 in the number of policies and $49,284,284 in the amount of insurances over the 1929 figures.
