What Alibi Would You Have ? ?

Jones & Company's truck was not within a mile of the place where it was alleged to have forced William Smith's sedan headon into a street car. It was dark, there was no collision between the two, and no eye witnesses.

But Smith found a truck "that looked like the one that caused the accident" two months after he left the hospital. He said at the trial that he took the license number as the truck rushed by him. Let it be remembered he became unconscious immediately and remained so for days.

The jury believed Smith to the extent of $8000.00.
