

LIBERTY THEATRE

WEEKLY PROGRAM

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, JAN. 1 & 2 "MAD PARADE"

SUNDAY, MONDAY, TUESDAY, JANUARY 3 - 4 - 5

"His Woman"

With Gary Cooper and Claudette Colbert

He is a hard-fisted sailor with a girl in every port. She is the hard-hearted dance hall scamp with the law on her trail. When they meet it is to hate. But when they become foster parents to a darling infant orphan, it is to love, with a love as deep as the seas they sail. A story all women will understand, a story all men will wish they could live.

Sunday Matinee 2:30. Prices 35c, 10c

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY, JANUARY 6 - 7

"NICE WOMEN"

With Sydney Fox and Francis Dee

Girls, which do you prefer—a young old man, or an old young man? A family fight you'll enjoy because you might have lived it.

Wednesday 35c, 10c. Thursday Gift Night 50c, 10c.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, JANUARY 8 - 9

"WICKED"

With Victor McLaglen and Elissa Landi

Woman's Love pitted against man-made laws. Society judged her wicked for being a faithful wife. She loved too well. That was her crime. Would you do the same?

Prices 35c, 10c.

McKinley Notes

Last Friday night most of the neighborhood gathered at the hall to have a final visit with the Taylors and to bid them goodbye, as they are moving from this neighborhood to reside near Newberg. They were presented with a large myrtle wood bowl as a parting gift. After a song fest and games, coffee and cake, was served. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snow, owners of the farm which had been rented by Gene Taylor, will return to take charge of the place for the present.

It was reported that some time on the night of December 29th the gas and oil were taken out of Taylor's car and truck, and cream stolen from the cans. It is not known if there were any other neighbors' raided that night but there have been several complaints of cars being drained of gas this winter.

The C. O. Kings have had a real family reunion this holiday season. There were the eldest son, Elmer, and family from Bandon, Percy and family from Salem, Mrs. May Mast and sons from Marshfield, and Lyman King and family who live in McKinley. It is not often in these days of hurry and worry that a family takes the trouble to gather with the home folks for a real Christmas reunion.

It has been arranged for eight granges to install the officers of the subordinates at Myrtle Point on January 5th, at 11 a. m. That will include all the granges except those over on the Bay district who will hold a separate installation, as it was impracticable for them to attend the one at Myrtle Point.

L. E. Brown and wife and son, Bill, were over from Marshfield to see Alva Brown Sunday. Frank Brown and Mrs. Arthur Crouch, of Camas, were over Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Christensen and Christina, also Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Alford were over from Sitkum one day last week. Alva does not seem to improve as was hoped and some days is very weak, indeed.

Rex Brown, of Wenatchee, Washington, arrived Christmas morning to be with his father as much as possible until he has to return early in the New Year to his work. He probably will be transferred to Eugene.

Rev. E. G. Ranton was out Sunday despite the bad weather which seemed to be severe enough to keep most of the McKinley folks indoors. The Sunday school and services went on as usual, however.

The young folks, aided by the Ladies Club, are intending to have an old-fashioned dance at the hall January 2nd. They expect every one to dress as old-fashioned as possible, as well as dance the old-time dances, such as polkas, schottisches, quadrilles, marzukas or what have you. It is to be hoped they will act old-fashioned as well and refuse to dance with any one who has "liquor on their breath" as it was done in the days when "mother was a girl."

Lark Mast has been up visiting with his son, Lee Mast, at McKinley for the last few days. It was said that he is suffering from a bad cold since the last cold weather set in.

Attended O. S. T. A. This Week

Coos county delegates to the Oregon State Teachers Association, which met Monday in Portland for a three days' session, were E. F. Grider and Rosabel Shone, of Coquille; Cora Mackey, teacher at the Roy school; Grace Linn, of Myrtle Point; Carl Morrison, of North Bend; and O. L. Williams, of Marshfield.

The Monday morning business session was called to order by Supt. W. L. Turnbull, of North Bend, who is O. S. T. A. president. The second and third day sessions were departmental meetings, addressed by outstanding educational leaders.

The officers of the Coos county educational association are E. F. Grider, of Coquille, president; Oliver Clark, of Bridge, vice president; Carl Morrison, of North Bend, secretary-treasurer.

Calling cards 100 for $1.50.

Church of Christ Meetings

Marked increase in attendance and interest is being shown at the nightly evangelistic meetings at the Church of Christ this week. The crowds in number have been approximately double those of the previous week.

Miss Lucile Schutt continues to amuse and delight with her cartooning and crayon art work. She has been following the policy of giving away the pictures which she draws at the close of the service and these are eagerly requested by those present.

Last Tuesday night was observed as special Young People's Night and about half of the large crowd present was young people. All showed a deep interest in Errol Sloan's amusing and interesting sermon, "The Ups and Downs of a Fast Young Man."

The series of meetings will close Sunday night. The leaders will return to Eugene Monday. Mr. Sloan will resume his graduate work in the University of Oregon and Miss Schutt her work in Eugene Bible College, where she is teaching two classes in art.

At Liberty Next Week

The first time they were ever co-starred on the screen! Gary Cooper as the hard-fisted sailorman. Claudette Colbert as the hard-hearted dance-hall scamp. Little Richard Spiro, the six-months-old sensation, as the homeless orphan who brings them together from the ends of the earth, into a full realization of Love!

Creations of two worlds. She a denizen of the city, a dance-hall tomboy. He a two-fisted master of men on the high seas. When they meet, it's to hate. Yet, under the strange circumstances of foster-parenthood for an orphaned waif, they find themselves in love. See Gary Cooper and Claudette Colbert in the greatest picture of either's career at the Liberty Theatre starting Sunday.

That darling baby! Six months old, yet he's already receiving fan mail for his heart-melting role as the homeless-infant in "His Woman." You must see this youngster. You'll love him as Gary Cooper and Claudette Cooper did in this great dramatic-romantic film.

Riverton News

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dye and Mrs. Dye's father, of Portland, spent several days at Christmas time at the home of Mr. Dye's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dye.

Ben Watson went up to visit his sister, Mrs. Lige Culbertson's last Thursday. He intends to stay until school opens again next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith and three little children came in from Klamath Falls last Saturday to visit until after New Year's with his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Smith, and his two brothers, Ezra and Lyle, of Leneve.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Beck, accompanied by Miss Louise Smartt, one of the high school instructors, drove out to the Valley before Christmas, where they planned to spend the vacation with friends and relatives.

Aubrey E. Haan, music instructor, drove to Ashland, where he was joined by his mother, a sister and a brother, and they spent their Christmas together there. He returned Tuesday.

Mrs. Adolph Moltu returned to her home here last week, from the hospital in Coquille, bringing with her their little new son, Donald.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Clausen spent Christmas with Mr. Clausen's mother, Mrs. Mary Clausen.

Mrs. Miller from Parkersburg was a Coquille visitor Wednesday evening of last week.

In spite of the dreadful storm last Wednesday night, December 23rd, a large crowd turned out to hear the beautiful Christmas program at the Baptist Church in Coquille. Those from here participating in the program were Miss Heene Harris, Miss Cherie Mae Hartwell and her father, C. M. Hartwell. Mrs. Ralph Cummins, who had charge of the program, was the recipient of much praise and hearty congratulations for the splendid success she achieved.

Monday was a great day for the kiddies as well as for some of the grown-ups. The morning disclosed a blanket of nearly two inches of snow, the first to be seen here for several years. Snow men sprung up everywhere. Old sleds and ladders were dug up from forgotten places and put into service. The weather moderated later in the day and some rain fell, melting most of the snow.

Mrs. Lola Olsen, accompanied by Evelyn and Jack, went up to visit at the home of Mrs. Sam Olsen on Fat Elk Wednesday.

An Oregon editor gives the depression credit for developing his sense of touch to a very high degree of perfection and efficiency. This editor says that the seat of his pants has become so thin that he can sit on a dime and tell which side is up, heads or tails, and if the depression lasts much longer, he will be able to tell the date on the dime.—Mill City Logue.

County Agent's Report on the Year's Activities

2. Eighteen thousand seven hundred pounds of super phosphate was ordered in one lot and distributed among twelve farmers at cost.

3. This fertilizer cost $28.00 per ton which was $6.00 under any price quoted in small lot orders from dealers in the county.

4. A saving of $57.00 was effected on nine and one-half tons of fertilizer by the work involved in pooling this order and making the distribution.

5. Results in increased yield on the 62 acres where this fertilizer was applied has stimulated interest in the use of more phosphate fertilizer and orders have been taken for an amount equal to more than a carload of super phosphate for fall distribution.

E. Manure Conservation

1. More than 60 per cent of the value of farm manure is lost to Coos county farmers through leaching and poor management.

2. Active work has been done in all communities of the county to stimulate interest in the construction of manure pits for handling farm manure.

CROP PRODUCTION AND IMPROVEMENT

Because of the importance of the crop production program in increasing production per acre in the county it has been selected as the major project for the county agent. Dairying, which is the most important farming enterprise of the county, can be expanded through two sources. One, the increasing production per cow; the other an increase in the production of the land.

A. Seed Crops Work

1. Fifty thousand four hundred and fifty-five pounds of bent grass seed were certified for 23 farmers at a cost of one-half cent per pound.

2. This amount represents only about one-half of the 1930 crop, the other 50 per cent having been certified during 1930.

3. This service is considered to be very valuable by the producers and was estimated to be worth many times the cost of certification.

4. In connection with the bent grass seed certification program for 1931, 1416 acres have been inspected for 21 farmers in the county by a representative from the State College and the county agent.

5. Assistance was given in organizing the Coos Seed Growers Association, a general educational organization for seed producers, which was a stepping stone for the organization of the Coos District Bent Seed Growers, a co-operative marketing association.

6. Ben beardless barley was tested out on the Ben Moomaw farm at Arago in comparison with O. A. C. No. 7. Results were encouraging and the seed will be saved for additional plantings.

B. Forage Crops

1. A field meeting was conducted at one of the three grass nurseries maintained in the county in co-operation with farmers.

2. Seventeen different grasses and clovers were seeded in these nurseries in an effort to determine the most desirable ones for hill land seeding under local conditions.

3. Definite recommendations for hill land seeding in this section have been made to farmers based on the results of these nurseries.

4. The county agent was instrumental in securing Austrian winter field pea seed for seven farmers who planted 36 acres this year.

5. Farmers of the county have been encouraged to plant more ladino clover on land which is adapted to this crop. This crop has proved its worth in numerous demonstration plantings established during previous years and on many farms where it is now being grown.

6. Alfalfa is another forage crop recommended in parts of the county. Acreage of this crop is constantly increasing, due in a measure to demonstrations previously established in co-operation with the office.

7. The first demonstration of alfalfa in the section north of the Bay was established this year in co-operation with A. Grossen.

8. Seventy-four bottles of inoculation material for alfalfa, clover and vetch, has been distributed through the office to 41 farmers.

9. Held crops field meetings in the Arago section at which time the production of Austrian winter field peas and purple vetch were discussed.

C. Root Crops

1. Fifty-seven pounds of Bortfield turnip seed was distributed among 43 farmers at cost. The Bortfield is a new turnip which is meeting with favor in all coast sections.

2. Data on the comparative yields of different root crops was sent to 1400 farmers in agricultural news notes.

D. Weed Control

1. At the request of the county court, the county agent has served as county weed inspector during the year.

2. A demonstration on weed control with chemicals was conducted in four communities in co-operation with

Grange agricultural committees.

3. Supervision was given to the spraying of county roads with county spray equipment. Canadian thistles on all county roads and plots of blackberries in all sections of the county were sprayed.

4. Spraying was done for nine farmers in the county with the county equipment on a cost basis.

5. A careful check was made on the results of previous years spraying and this information was sent to 1400 farmers through agricultural news notes.

6. Thirty-five hundred pounds of sodium chlorate were purchased for the county at 7½c per pound f.o.b. Coquille.

E. Potatoes

1. Thirteen sacks of certified seed potatoes were secured for two farmers.

2. Two fields of potatoes were inspected for certification. A potato improvement program in the county was advocated and a talk given on this subject before two Granges.

3. Four field meetings at which potato disease control was discussed, were held with 96 attending.

4. The grading of potatoes according to U. S. grades was demonstrated at four meetings attended by 120 farmers in four different communities.

HORTICULTURE

A. Fruit Growing

1. Nine varieties of strawberries were included in a trial planting on three farms in an effort to determine the most desirable varieties.

2. Two of these varieties, the Corvallis No. 12 and the O. A. C. No. 7 look especially good.

3. Assistance was given to the cranberry growers in the county in forming a growers' association.

4. Five farms were included in a tour of cranberry bogs attended by 52 growers and the county agent.

B. Truck Farming

1. Five varieties of lettuce were included in trial plantings on two farms in the county in an effort to find varieties which are more resistant to alime and tip burn.

2. Five different forms of commercial fertilizers were applied to one of the plots.

3. Two meetings attended by 52 grocery men and producers were arranged by the county agent; one held in Bandon and the other in North Bend.

4. These meetings are being held for the purpose of working out a plan which will increase the amount of locally grown produce sold through local stores.

5. Lack of proper grades and standards and an uneven source of supply from local producers were given as main reasons why so much produce is imported.

6. This program is being continued and a county program will be worked out.

C. Plant Inspection

1. The county agent serves as horticultural inspector in Coos county. In connection with this work 261 packages of plants were inspected before or after shipment.

2. Easter lily bulbs grown in the Bandon section were inspected before shipment for three different growers.

RODENT & PREDATORY ANIMAL CONTROL

A. Campaign Against Squirrels
1. Eleven hundred pounds of poison

barley was mixed and distributed among 194 farmers in all sections of the county.

2. This poison was mixed by the county agent and a representative of the Biological Survey and sold at cost.

3. There was a saving of at least $100.00 in direct cost of the poison.

4. The value of the campaign to the county is estimated to be several hundred dollars in eliminating thousands of squirrels.
