WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Place: City Hall.
Time: 8:00 p. m.
When: First and Third Tuesdays.
President—Geo. W. Taylor, Sr.
Treas.—Mrs. John A. Martin
Cor. Sec'y—Mrs. Nellie Whereat.

Well, the flower show is a thing of the past, but I am still hearing many compliments passed upon it; people seem to be practically of the same opinion: that the quality of the flowers shown was better than that of last year's show, but the variety was lacking. How well we know that; and it ought to teach us something, but will it? One lady said to me, "Coquille has proved that she can put on a flower show any time of the year she wants to; just look at the flowers that were used to decorate the hotel for the caravan, and then the regular flower show right after." Maybe we can, but I am rather skeptical; so far as flowers are concerned perhaps we can, but who wants to show anything but the best? There is no reason why we cannot have the quality as well as the quantity to show if we want to; it just means a little planning, that's all. By doing a little studying of the catalogues and keeping a notebook in which to jot down the time that different flowers seem to be at their best, we can soon have a very valuable reference book of our own to fall back on. The spring season this year was against us for having our show in time to catch the roses, which so many people seem to miss; it was also so late that very few annuals were to be had and that went against us; it was too early for the glads and the dahlias, although there were a few shown; asters, of course, were out of the question, as were many others. We had quite a time getting lots of the exhibits that we had. I for one, in company with Mr. Taylor, scouted the country the Sunday before the show to find material. It takes work to put on a show, more than it shows on the surface, but it is worth it at that. If you don't believe it, just work on the show committee next year and you will learn lots. But suppose we start right now to plan for next year's exhibit. You all know that as a rule, Coquille holds her flower show in June. Start now to decide what you are going to exhibit next year and then get busy. If you are going in for a handsome house plant, well and good; if it is a showing of sweet peas you desire, look around and see what varieties do not burn, or hold up their color best. Perhaps it is one or more annuals you want; do you know that you can beat a late spring by sowing the seed of many annuals this fall, just the same as you do your sweet peas. Clarkia, Calendulas or Pot Marigolds, Larkspur, Snapdragons, Pansies, Violas, Shirley Poppies, Sweet Sultan or Centaurea Imperialis, Calliopeis, Ageratum, French and African Marigolds and many others may be sown at that time and will come on months earlier than the spring-sown seed. The other towns of the county will soon be having their shows, but like us, will miss something some one wanted particularly to see. No flower show can be held at a time that will catch everything, you know, but if you will all do your part and plan accordingly, you can do a lot for another show next year, besides living up to the reputation that Coquille seems to be getting; that she can put on a flower show any time she wants to. If all whose names are on the membership role of our flower club would attend the meetings and do their part in general so that all the work of putting on a show would not fall on a few, we could put on at least four shows a year; namely: a spring showing of bulbs, the regular flower show in June, a glad and dahlia show, and then a fall show of flowers that we could not get in the last one. The expense of putting on these smaller shows ought not to be so very great while there are vacant store buildings in town and think what shows like that would mean to the town. People from all over would come to see what we could raise here that would be good enough for show purposes, and we sure could show them a plenty. Think it over friends, and come to next club meeting, June 19th, and remember, the best display of glads in any kind of container is the cup contest this time.

At Christian Science Churches

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 10. The Golden Text was, "Let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup." (1 Cor. 11:28.) Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following words of Jesus as found in the Bible: "He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him." (John 14:21.) The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Obeying his precious precepts, — following his demonstration so far as we apprehend it,—we drink of his cup, partake of his bread, are baptized with his purity; and at last we shall rest, sit down with him, in a full understanding of the divine Principle which triumphs over death." (p. 31.)

W. C. T. U. Institute, Tuesday

The Coos County Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a very successful institute at Myrtle Point Tuesday, July 12, with Mrs. E. V. Ostrander of the Myrtle Point Presbyterian church and Rev. Wm. Slip of the Assembly of God Church as Institute speakers. Mrs. C. C. Farr, county president, presided.

A round-table devotional period centered around the theme: "Do Everything to the Glory of God," and showed how tobacco could not be used to the glory of God. This was followed by a business session, in which the North Bend and Marshfield unions were united under one head. This gives a very strong union at the Bay. Coquille, Bandon, and Marshfield have met their budgets in full, with Myrtle Point expecting to pay by August 1st.

Mr. Slip gave a splendid address on "Christ, the Head of Any Organization Which Would Succeed," this being a fine talk for Christian citizenship and service.

Mrs. E. V. Ostrander, using Irving Fisher as her authority, gave a fine talk on "Prohibition Facts Before and After the 18th Amendment." Mr. Fisher has made a study of conditions and knows whereof he speaks when he states that the country has greatly improved under the eighteenth amendment.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union recognizes the right of those opposed to prohibition to work for its repeal. We see strong reasons, however, why the drys should refuse to help them in their efforts by falling in with their strategy and program.

We do not believe any dry member of congress or any dry voter need support their plans. Congressmen are responsible to their own constituents. We believe prohibition is the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic and, until convinced there is a better method, we will oppose repeal or modification. The above message comes to us from our national president.

The annual county convention will be held in Coquille September 20. —Press Correspondent.

Riverton News

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifton Tucker, of Medford, who have been visiting at the Tom Smith home on Coos River the past week, drove over to Riverton Sunday and visited the Chas. Sell and the C. M. Hartwell families. They were accompanied by Jimmie, who came along to select his puppy from a litter of fox terrier pups at the Hartwells.

Mr. and Mrs. Art McMillan and two little children, of Powers, are visiting at the home of J. I. Watson this week. Mr. Watson is Mrs. McMillan's father.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Teters, of McKinley, spent the day and had lunch Tuesday at the C. M. Hartwell home. Mr. and Mrs. Teters were among the first people in Coos county to go into the fox business. It has been seven years since they bought their first pair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dye and daughter, Marie, returned home the first of the week, after having spent a week visiting friends and relatives in and around Portland.

Joe Nulf and son, Maurice, of Leno, were transacting business in the county seat Monday.

Ralph and Gene Smith, who came home for a week over the Fourth, returned Monday to the Grants Pass country, where they have gold mining interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Danielson were in Coquille Monday. Mrs. Danielson helped with some work at the Foursquare church while in town.

Miss Ilene Harrie is visiting her mother in camp this week. Mrs. Lola Olsen and little Evelyn are staying with Mrs. Peterson, while Ilene is away.

The orchestra met for practice on Tuesday night of this week. Hereafter it will continue to meet Tuesday nights, instead of Thursdays, as has been the rule.

Cherie Mae Hartwell is spending this week with Mrs. Flora E. Dunne and her brother, John Quick, in Coquille.

Her Volubility Subsided

She was large to the point that men made way for her and ebullient to a degree that made her an outlander among her own sex. A few days ago she took bus in Curry county headed toward the south. She talked on almost every conceivable subject and as the bus rolled along she seemed tireless with her running fire of verbosity.

Finally when it appeared that she had exhausted her fund of knowledge as well as the ability of fellow passengers to withstand her verbal assaults, she spied curtains rolled up alongside the driver. "What are those for?" she interrogated. "Well, lady," said the driver, "they are to keep the bright sun from burning the roofs of mouths of passengers like you."

More than 900 pounds of animation sank into deep and brooding silence.

Vacation Infection Precautions

(Oregon State Board of Health)
If you are going to spend your vacation in the great outdoors there are some precautions that should be taken to prevent infections. The successful vacation is a season for enjoyment and health building. Vacation may, however, present hazards which mark the joy of recreation. Most of the vacation accidents and infections are preventable.

An overdose of sunshine must be guarded against. Sunburn is not only painful but frequently causes illness. Sun baths should be taken gradually until the body becomes accustomed to the sun's rays. Rest is essential and a short rest period during the day will do much to increase the benefits of the vacation season.

Precautions must be exercised in what you eat and drink. Remember that water which is clear and cold and looks and tastes well is not necessarily wholesome. All drinking water that comes from unprotected or questionable sources should be boiled. Likewise with the milk you drink be sure that it is kept clean, cool and covered. Boil all milk that comes from questionable sources. Avoid the possibility of consuming contaminated food and steer shy of the places that tolerate insanitary conditions and unkept utensils.

The hands should be washed with plenty of soap and water before handling food for the table. Vegetables and fruits should be washed before eating. All foods should be screened against flies. Always wash the hands before eating. You want an enjoyable vacation season unspoiled by infection and digestive disturbances caused by unsafe food and drink.

Don't bathe or swim in streams polluted by sewage. Disease-causing germs are discharged from carriers and persons suffering with infectious diseases into the streams by the water-carriage system of sewage disposal. Make your swimming a real recreation by adopting the good rule of "Safety First." Remember that a water is not safe to swim in unless it is safe to drink. Pay particular attention to the location of the lake or stream and its drainage. In addition to having safe water, the swimmer should safeguard himself with respect to a number of other points. Never go in deep water unless you are a good swimmer. Do not go in bathing until two hours after eating. If overheated, cool off gradually before entering the water. Learn to swim so that you can enjoy it safely.

In making automobile trips remember the traffic code. Don't try to break the speed records. Others have tried, and many of them are now dead. These may sound like simple precautions, and they are, but failure to observe has cost many lives. Remember that a little common sense properly applied will enable us to avoid serious difficulty and add to the joy of a pleasant vacation season.

Polls Mean But Little

The following statement relative to "Prohibition Polls" is sent out by Ada Jolley, president of the Oregon W. C. T. U., and John B. Coan, president of the Portland ministerial Union. It was directed by a group of leaders from the following city and state organizations: Portland Federation of Women's Clubs; Oregon Women's Christian Temperance Union; Prohibition Committee of One Hundred and two Portland Ministerial association.

"We do not bring into question the motives which inspire this method of seeking to ascertain the trend of opinion upon the repeal or retention of the eighteenth Amendment, at this particular time. We do not question a newspaper's right to sponsor a 'poll' on any issue at any time. We do wish to assert, however, that under the method by which such polls of recent years have been conducted, a more reliable method could scarcely be found. No possible amount of care on the part of the sponsor can prevent wholesale duplication of votes. Certainly a resume of results of such polls and the subsequent election figures abundantly substantiate such a conclusion.

"Oregon's consistent dry majorities through recent years can hardly be overlooked by anyone who desires to know the prevailing sentiment of Oregon's electorate. We are well aware, as are most thoughtful people, that the real purpose of such polls of recent years has been mainly to affect the vote rather than to ascertain the sentiment of the people. It is because of these views that we have heretofore usually advised non-participation in such attempts. For the same reason we are addressing this newspaper and its readers and are advising our constituents throughout the state of our action. We desire to state, in concluding, that a persistent crusade to get the electorate registered and to the polls in November would be of far greater value in getting a reliable expression of the Oregon citizenry than any number of pre-election unofficial 'polls.'"

Comparison of Dollar Values

How much has the dollar increased in value since the last big "prosperous" year of 1929? Seeking to answer that question, John M. Rae, assistant professor of business administration in the University of Oregon, has just completed a survey of commodity prices in Eugene. He finds that $1 today will purchase as much as $1.51 used to buy in 1929. Women's wear and groceries were noted as the lines in which the greatest price declines had been shown. In the automotive world, his figures indicate, a mechanically superior car is now sold for less money than the model of 1929 used to bring.
