Dr. J. P. Easter Buried

The following obituary notice is handed the Sentinel by Jas. Watson, a friend of the deceased, Dr. J. P. Easter, for many years:

Jacob P. Easter was born in Ohio, September 12th, 1842, and died at Clatskanie, Columbia county, Oregon, Wednesday, July 13th. He was buried at Portland last Saturday.

He was a Civil War veteran, one of the few remaining, enrolled as a private in the 24th Independent Battery, Ohio Volunteers, Light Artillery, on the 13th day of June, 1863, at Hillsboro, Ohio, by John L. Hill and was mustered into the United States service as such for the period of three years, on the 4th day of August, 1863, at Dennison, Ohio, by Captain Proctor, United States of America Muster officer, and was mustered out of the battery on June 24th, 1865, at Dennison, Ohio. He served to the conclusion of the war and was honorably discharged.

He graduated from Physiomedical College of Medicine in 1869 at Cincinnati, Ohio, as an M. D. and practiced his profession continuously from the date of his graduation until 1923, in several states including Ohio, Kansas, California and Oregon.

On March 3rd, 1891, he was appointed Examining Surgeon for the Bureau of Pensions of Washington, D. C., residing at Myrtle Point, Oregon, which position he held for a number of years; among his duties in this office was the examining applicants for pensions.

He was for a number of years superintendent of the county farm during the incumbency of David Lowry Watson as county judge from 1886 to 1894, under contract being required to furnish and operate the farm.

The writer became acquainted with Mr. Easter during the time he was superintendent of the county farm, about 1889, and at the time he left Coos county in December, 1929, was a very close friend.

Mr. Easter was very much interested in politics, and I have a number of letters upon political issues; he was the most loyal republican I ever met; politically, he had no use for a democrat or the democratic party; in one of his letters to me in 1930, written during the primary campaign, he stated, "Just a bit of ancient history. You know of the great men of long ago, men who left a name with the great republican party. One fact stands out in the history of our country, no democratic president was ever assassinated in the U. S. A. There is one truth stands out plain in the history of our country, all men that tried to destroy this government were democrats." He claimed to have cast his vote for Abraham Lincoln for President in 1860, when he was but 18 years of age, the legal restrictions being less than now; upon being questioned how this happened, he said, "Men voted younger those days than they do now." He claimed never to have voted for a democrat in his life.

He was ever ready to enter into a discussion of religion, politics or prohibition and was well informed on all these subjects, and many others. He often told me of debates he had had with men of my acquaintance in the early days; he gave me a number of books on early day politics and a bound volume of early day speeches by noted orators of the day. He was a man of strong beliefs and opinions.

Doctor Easter came to Coos county in the early days and after residing in this county for a number of years, left, and returned again in 1925. On November 13th, he was joined in marriage to Viola J. Easter, widow of the late David P. Strang, a Civil War veteran. Mrs. Easter died in December, 1929, after her death Mr. Easter moved to Portland, Oregon, and resided with his son, Doctor Chester F. Easter, for a time. On June 8th, 1930, he again married and moved to Clatskanie, Columbia county, Oregon, where he resided until his death. His widow survives him.

Mrs. M. O. Hooton, of Coquille, is a daughter and Dr. Chester F. Easter, of Portland, is a son of the deceased.

Doctor Easter had many sterling qualities; he was honest, honorable and upright; his word was as good as his bond, he was a true and sincere friend to his friends.

Ancient Ethiopia and Egypt Under One Ruler

The country known today as ancient Ethiopia, was known to the Greeks and Romans of that time as Aethiopia and to the Hebrews as Cush. It lay to the south of Egypt, and in its most extended sense it embraced modern Nubia, Sennar, Kordofan and northern Abyssinia that is about the region now known as the Sudan and northern Abyssinia. The northern boundary of Ethiopia was the southern boundary of Egypt, and it is indicated in Ezekiel 29:10, where Syene is mentioned as marking the border. The Hebrews do not appear to have had much practical acquaintance with Ethiopia itself, though the Ethiopians were well known to them through their intercourse with Egypt. The inhabitants of Ethiopia were a Hamitic, or as one might say, an African or negro race, and were divided into various tribes of which the most powerful were the Sabaeans. The history of Ethiopia is closely interwoven with that of Egypt. The two countries were not infrequently united under the rule of the same sovereign. Shortly before the birth of our Lord a native dynasty of females, holding the official title of Candace, held sway in Ethiopia, and even retained the advance of the Roman arms. One of these queens is noticed in Acts 8:27. The latter part of this chapter, beginning at verse 26, tells the beautiful story of Philip coming upon the man of Ethiopia journeying "unto Gaza, which is desert." The traveler was "of great authority under Candace, queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and had come to Jerusalem for worship."

British Royalty Seen Without Its Trappings

One day he (William IV) went to inspect the Tower of London, and a contemporary writer gives this picture of the royal party, wrote Clare Jerold in "The Early Court of Queen Victoria." "The king is a little, old, red-nosed, weather-beaten, jolly looking person, with an ungraceful air and cocked hat bobbing over his face, nothing could be seen of him but his nose. He seemed quite overcome with heat, and went along puffing and panting with the great, fat duchess of Cumberland leaning on his arm. The queen is even worse than I thought—a little insignificant person as ever I saw. She was dressed, as perhaps you see by the papers, 'exceeding plain,' in bombazine with a little shabby muslin collar, dyed Leghorn hat, and leather shoes."
