McKinley Notes

The fires are out, so far as this valley is concerned, although only part of the crew that went in to the Williams Creek fire in the Tioga district September 8th have returned.

Mrs. R. H. Lawhorn, H. E. C. chairman, was unable to leave home on account of the fire hazard and all messages and business of the fire patrol having to be relayed through her phone, so Mrs. George Glenn and Mrs. Lee Mast took over the work of preparing the Fair booth. Mrs. Lawhorn had completed all plans, however, and there was no hitch except to find a car with a 1932 license to take in the exhibit. I. J. Bennett kindly volunteered for the job.

Mrs. Frances Holmstrom was agreeably surprised last Thursday when her son, Haldane, who is employed at the Coquille Service Station, brought Miss Marian Minthorn, talented young poetess of Salem, Oregon, out to spend the evening. Mrs. Holmstrom had admired Miss Minthorn's writings but had not met her until Thursday, although it was learned that they had both resided in Coquille at the same period.

Mrs. Cecil Dugger has been over to the East Fork neighborhood quite a lot of the time these last few days, helping care for her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Youkum, who have been down with the flu. They are a little better at this writing.

The So-So club held their annual election of officers last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Nellie Brown. Mrs. Reuben Brown was elected president, Mrs. Ted Bennett vice president, and Mrs. Saling secretary. As all the available young men were away on the fire job, the play practice had to be postponed until they returned to fill their several parts. The interest of the younger women in club work will no doubt add enthusiasm to the program mapped out for the fall and winter. The outgoing officers deserve much credit for their faithful service in a time of depression when even the most steady could hardly feel feeling, "oh, what's the use of holding on."

Mrs. Nellie Brown had a bad fall Saturday and bruised her hip, sprained her arm and broke her glasses. It did not lay her up, though her left hand is quite swollen and painful. She accompanied her son, Ted to Marshfield Monday to visit the L. E. Browns, while Ted transacted business. It was learned while over there that her nephew, Claude Church, had been brought from the Portland hospital and it was not possible to fix the leg which was so badly injured last January when he was shot through the hip. It was found that the muscles had been destroyed in the hip. Although he refused to have the leg amputated, it will be permanently useless.

Mrs. Lyman King, C. O. King and Mrs. Reuben Brown had business in Coquille to transact Saturday.

Mrs. T. R. Bennett and Lee Mast were Coquille and Marshfield visitors Saturday.

Two truck loads of pack horses were taken out of the Tioga district Tuesday and between fifteen and twenty men came in from this side of the trail. They were a tired, haggard looking bunch and complained of lack of sleep as their worst hardship. It is thought there are at least fifty men left to patrol the fire trails.

Mrs. J. B. Myers, Mrs. Teddy Bennett and Mrs. Lyman King went with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mast to visit Grandma Chandler Sunday. They say she is quite feeble and suffers a good portion of the time.

A crew of county road men were out in this vicinity repairing bridges this week.

The frost the latter part of last week was hard enough to nip the squash vines and the tomatoes and cucumbers also showed the effects of Jack Frost's work. With the previous dry days, the gardens have had a struggle to give even a passable crop.

Bridge Happenings

The 4-H cooking and sewing clubs have organized this week with the following officers: Sewing—Florence McMullen, president; Aleta Bryant, vice president; Myrtle Beckett, secretary-treasurer. Cooking—Marian Bryant, president; Dorothy Sutphin, vice president; Lita Shields, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Harold J. Lasswell is leader of the club work.

Bridge people are to have the privilege of hearing Miss Maude Aldrich give an address at the church here next Tuesday evening, September 27. Miss Aldrich is a national officer in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Alice McLain, of Marshfield, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Evernden for several days last week at their home on Rock Creek.

The Grange meeting was held Friday evening with all of the officers present. The attendance was larger than usual. It was decided to have the Country Carnival on Friday evening preceding Halloween. On Sept. 30 a potluck dinner will be given, followed by a Grange Boosters program. Other Grangers will be welcome to this meeting. Plans were completed for the community booth at the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hardman were honored Sunday with a delightful picnic in the grove at J. T. Evernden's place on Rock Creek. The young couple had just returned from a honeymoon trip and about 75 relatives and friends met to welcome them home and offer congratulations and best wishes. After a bountiful picnic dinner the bride and groom treated the crowd to candy bars and cigars.

Mrs. Hardman was formerly Miss Catherine Kock. They will make their home on Myrtle Creek.

Mrs. Ray L. Beckett, who has been very ill following an emergency operation at the Mast hospital in Myrtle Point last week, is improving nicely now.

Mrs. Gertrude Hendrick and family moved last week from the Wm. Carigan house on Rock creek to the Belien house behind the church.

There was an attendance of 48 at Sunday School Sunday. A missionary program will be given after Sunday School next Sunday.

Mrs. J. A. Hart, of Astoria, has been spending a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Porter, on Myrtle Creek.

Although not completely recovered yet from injuries received in an automobile accident in May, Miss Dorothy Hooton was able to return Tuesday to her work at the Mast hospital in Myrtle Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carl and son, Winston, of Portland, arrived at the W. A. Lett home Tuesday for a short visit. Mrs. Lett is Mr. Carl's sister.

paired farm tools and machinery. This exhibit will occupy the old Dairy Products Building, and will feature the work that is done by farm boys in making farm machinery repairs and the construction of labor-saving devices.

Among the new construction jobs are such items as auto trailers, farm gates, hay racks, watering troughs, sheep panels, hog self-feeders, and A-type hog houses, and also the small construction jobs on the farm such as wheelbarrows, trap nests, ladders, sawhorses, tool cabinets and hog troughs.

In the repair section will be included pictures before repairs and the repaired machinery itself and will include moving machines, harrows, stationary engines, cultivators, plows, and wagons, and also repair jobs on small hand tools such as shovels, hammers, hoes, pitch forks, and rakes.

Another feature of the Future Farmers show will be the competitive livestock judging contest between Future Farmers and their Dads. This takes place in the arena of the Stadium Tuesday morning, September 27th, at 9 a. m.

New Feature at State Fair

"A stitch in time saves nine." This is the slogan for one of the newest features of the Oregon State Fair, being a competitive exhibit, in farm repair jobs, sponsored by the Future Farmers of America and the Oregon State Fair.

New things are usually exhibited at the Fair. The Future Farmers, an organization of the Smith-Hughes high school students will exhibit re-
