Three hundred and twenty-three candidates for national, state and district honors in Oregon are anxiously awaiting the outcome of next Tuesday's election. Twelve of this number are women. In addition to this sizeable legion of patriots scores of aspirants for county and city offices are also deeply concerned in the result of Tuesday's battle of the ballots.

What with the thirteen measures up at the same time, voters of Oregon will be confronted with one of the most cumbersome and complex ballots they have been asked to vote in many years.

Of the 323 candidates 150 are republicans, 87 democrats, 33 socialists, 24 socialist-laborites, ten communists, 16 independents and 23 are aspirants for non-partisan judicial positions.

The republicans, democrats, socialists, socialist-laborites and communists each present candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency for the consideration of the voters, together with five aspirants for the honor of serving as presidential electors in each case.

Six candidates offer their services for the position of United States senator. In the first and second congressional districts there are five candidates for the seat in the House while voters in the third district must decide between six candidates.

Three candidates aspire to the job of secretary of state with four candidates for the position of state treasurer and also for that of attorney-general.

Forty-five candidates offer their services for the 19 seats to be filled in the state senate with contests in 11 of the 16 districts.

With 60 seats available in the Hall of Representatives 130 candidates offer themselves as lawmakers with contests in 26 of the 33 districts.

With 28 district attorneys to be elected there are 51 candidates with contests in all but nine districts.

Twenty candidates aspire to the 11 available seats on the circuit bench with contests in nine districts and three candidates up for the two seats to be filled on the state's supreme bench.

"Reading with a purpose" courses are now available at the state library to all applicants at the mere cost of postage, Miss Harriett C. Long has announced. Scores of young men and women, denied the privilege of a college education because of lack of funds, have already taken advantage of this opportunity to pursue their studies in their chosen fields of endeavor. Scores of others, out of employment, are turning to the library in an effort to improve their ability to meet the problem of finding and holding a job. Occupations and hobbies on which these special courses are now available include salesmanship, advertising, journalism, short story writing, good English, home economics and flower gardening. Special courses on any subject will be outlined by a trained librarian for any one interested in a subject not already covered.

State employees will not be asked to contribute a day's pay toward the relief of unemployed this winter as they were last, Governor Meier has said. This action is taken in view of the pending salary cuts which the governor will recommend to the forthcoming legislature. Contributions by employees and officials of the state to charity during the five months of last winter aggregated about $180,000. The decision to eliminate the day's pay idea this winter, however, will not prevent those on the state payroll from contributing to local charities, it was said by officials here.

The intense interest in the present political campaign is shown by an increase of 49,906 in the number of registered voters in Oregon over the number prior to the presidential election four years ago. Reports from the 36 counties compiled by Secretary of State Hoas show a total registration of 486,148 of whom 319,840 are republicans, 154,486 democrats, 262 progressives, 787 prohibitionists and 9040 of miscellaneous political affiliations. The republicans recorded a gain of 14,444 in the four year period with the democratic registration showing an increase of 37,858. All other registrations show decreases from the 1928 figures. Twenty-seven of the 36 counties show registration gains with losses recorded in nine counties. The republican registration fell off in 13 counties compared with that of four years ago. These include Multnomah, Clackamas, Tillamook, Baker, Gilliam, Harney, Jefferson, Lincoln, Sherman, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa and Wasco. The democratic registration also decreased in Wasco county and barely held its own in Sherman county. Approximately one-third of the state's voting population is in Multnomah county which lists a total registration of 160,487.

The state will benefit to the extent of approximately $4,000 in reduced cost of electricity for light and power purposes under the terms of a new contract entered into this week reducing the rates approximately 15 percent from that previously in effect. This reduction is in addition to one put into effect some 18 months ago under which the state's lighting and power bill was reduced $10,000 a year.

Faced with a seriously depleted sinking fund, due in part at least to the waiver of its millage tax a year ago, the bonus commission was compelled to sell a $1,500,000 block of bonds this week.

WILL IT BE ANOTHER STATE LOSS?

At top is present Southern Oregon Normal School at Ashland, in which many from this community are students; at bottom is site of old Ashland Normal, which, abandoned many years ago, represents a huge loss to the State of Oregon.

Ashland, Oregon—(Special)—"Today Southern Oregon has the beautiful and efficient Southern Oregon normal, a certainty which is serving the youth of Oregon who desire to become teachers so that the rural and city schools of Southern Oregon may be properly manned." G. M. Green, chairman of The Save S. O. N. E. Association of this city, stated, "while the Kern-MacPherson school moving mill is passed on November 25th, we will have only an uncertainty, which is sure to result within a few years in entire abandonment of the present state school plant in this city, with another huge loss to the state of Oregon and the deprivation of the present educational opportunity. 'We are given only a Junior College by the bill, a facility which Southern Oregon Normal has always offered to Southern Oregon youth, with never more than 60 taking advantage of the Junior College work,' Mr. Green continued. 'Southern Oregon is sure to be robbed of its only state school unless a great majority of voters in this area on November 5th vote 317 No.' Mr. Green warned.

Had That Privilege A poet was forbidden to sell his lyrics in a public park at Los Angeles. It wasn't meant to deny him the privilege of picking up an honest living in a park. No. But he must do it in the usual way. There would be no objection to a poet's disguising himself as a pigeon and accepting pennants.—Detroit News.
