Coquille School News

Washington Building
Leonard Jackson is in school again after an absence of three weeks due to an accident.

Appropriate Easter decorations were in keeping with the season in each room. This is a good time to use our spring flowers to make our rooms more cheerful and attractive.

Our weekly fire drill has put us in good shape to get out of the building in a hurry. Our last drill was timed at fifty-three seconds.

Our primary teachers' council for the Coquille school system has been making some very interesting surveys and laying plans for more active work in reading for next week. Its motto seems to be: "The best for Coquille."

Lincoln Building
At a recent Junior High assembly nine first team basket ball players received well-earned letters from the student body. The boys worked hard and faithfully. They played ten games, winning six and losing four. Those given letters were: Alan Bailey, captain; Donald McClellan, Rex Kelley, Jim Schaefer, Dudley Walton, Kenneth Waggoner, Carl Jewel, Billie Walker and Linn Richardson.

The Riverton and Coquille baseball teams played here Wednesday, April twelfth. The games resulted in victory for Coquille. The score was Coquille 16, Riverton 1. A return game was played at Riverton Friday afternoon with the same result. The score was Coquille 17, Riverton 10.

The second grade is busy on a Japanese project. The basis is "Japanese Life." The children will write stories and make illustrated booklets. They will also have a sand table to portray Japanese homes and gardens. The second grade has started a weekly newspaper. The little people write the articles telling of the happenings in the room. Miss Harding photographs a copy for each child.

The first grade is working on a circus project. Through this work the children will gain a knowledge of life and habits of animals found in a circus.

Last week some of the students and teachers enjoyed the Ag boys' program over KOOS through the use of our newly installed aerial and a borrowed radio. Lewis Donaldson of the eighth grade played the harmonica on the program.

Final selection for Coquille's spelling and declamatory representatives was made last week. Robert McGilvery will represent us in declamation. The spellers are: sixth grade, Jack Martin; seventh grade, Violet Dornath, and eighth grade, Robert McGilvery.

High School
Plans for Commencement are rapidly taking shape. The Senior Class are holding frequent meetings and while they bicker frequently and continually disagree as have senior classes since the beginning of time, they are gradually making some progress. Definite announcements regarding graduation plans will be ready for publication next week.

The Junior class is busily preparing for the Junior-Senior banquet. They are handicapped, as are all of us, by lack of funds. However, they hope that in spite of this they will be able to carry on and put over their banquet and make it as successful as have been those in the past.

About the only thing the Sophomore Class has to interest them is the decoration of the church for Baccalaureate Sunday.

This week the Freshmen are editing the school paper and are kept very busy thereby. They also find this Friday their turn to put on an assembly program.

This Friday, at Myrtle Point, there will be held the extemporaneous speaking and dramatic reading contest. Margaret Purvance will represent Coquille in the dramatic readings, Gus Gallas in the extemporaneous speaking.

The nominating committee will meet soon and politics will be the order of the day for the student body as a whole. Those who visit school on visiting day will see how the nominations are made and will, at least, be in on the beginning of things. Elections will shortly follow the formal nominations. Just who will run for office and who will be elected is a matter of extreme speculation. One can as nearly predict Oregon weather as the trend of opinion in a high school student body.

The following is the honor roll for Coquille High School for the second grading period in the second semester:

Straight I—Doris Compton, Edythe Farr, Byron Davis.

No Grade below a 2—Lois Harry, Cloris Hatcher, Mabel Hill, Gail Hufford, Rose Matney, Beryl Unsoeld, Melba Varney, Howard Bonnicksen, Glae Gould, Archie Hansen, Howard Hickam, Delos Shinn, Donald Smith.

2 Average, no grade below a 3—Audrey Aasen, Anne Barton, Maxine Collins, June Holvenstott, Bonita Huntington, Marie Marshall, Faye McCue, Madeline McKeown, Robelle Odenkirk, Elizabeth Pierce, Mary Anne Schroeder, Norman Berry, Jack Clinton, Avery Combs, Lester Cunningham, Harold Esser, Gus Gallas, Harrison Greenough, Glenn Mast,

Carol Saling, Calvin Savage.

School Editorial

We are quoting from an editorial in the School Executive magazine, current issue. The title of the editorial is, "The Sword Over Education."

"A sword hangs over education throughout the United States. To prevent this sword from sinking to the vitals of the whole enterprise of education, builded of the blood and sacrifice of pioneers, will demand the utmost of statesman-like co-operation—co-operation between the leadership of school and the leadership of society. This sword that hangs over education is but sign and symbol of the peril that confronts all of the social and cultural enterprises of our common life in this phase of unprecedented depression through which we are all passing."

President Glenn Frank, University of Wisconsin, writer of this article, has reference to the "imperative re-renchments" as being dangerous to education. However, the danger is not so much in the existence of this sword as in the way we use it. We must be careful in our reductions that it is economy and not a false move which will result in greater expense in the near future. So the real issue becomes one of real economy versus bogus economy. The real sword then, is that of bogus economy.

President Frank states, "In the achievement and administration of real economy every responsible school man must stand ready to co-operate with the leadership of community, state and nation."

The writer suggests three broad lines along which educators are obliged to move if they are to discharge their responsibility to the future of community, state and nation.

1. Educators should see to it that the teaching profession and the public are put in possession of all the pertinent facts about any short-sighted and anti-social forces that may be operating in an uncritical drive against educational expenditures.

2. Educators should meet an unfair propagandizing of the public with a wise education of the public in the actual facts of the situation.

3. Educators should meet the situation with offensive rather than merely defensive tactics.

We certainly are in sympathy with these items and ideas of President Frank and would add that bogus economy will not show up in 1933, but some time in the future our grandchildren will turn on us and hold us responsible for false economy. "We cannot put educational opportunity in cold storage for the duration of the depression and catch up on it later."

In ten years from now the public will call on us to answer for poor schools. We at once see how important it is to work carefully together. The responsibility is not all the school's—neither is it all the community's. Both must intelligently work together. Let us be very careful how we wield the sword hanging over our schools. The boys and girls will continue to grow and develop and we cannot stop them. What comes to them while young greatly influences the future of our nation. A piece of interial improvement may be stopped without turning the tide of ideals and standards but not so with our boys and girls. Weigh carefully the wielding of "the sword."

COME IN WITH YOUR EGGS —

In stage coach days an egg rarely traveled far. Markets for farm produce were limited by the distance a horse could trot in a few hours. Now there's no limit. Eggs sold by farm patrons of Swift & Company's 100 and more produce stations have a market virtually as wide as the United States. Swift's Brookfield eggs and butter can—and do—go wherever consumer demand is good.

GO OUT WITH YOUR MONEY —

Eggs purchased from farmers by Swift & Company are paid for on the farm; city money flows to the country. Buying price quotations at the produce plants are close to what eggs bring in consuming centers over the country, less the necessary marketing costs on the way. Volume and efficiency make these costs low. Swift & Company profits, over a period of years, have averaged less than half a cent a pound of all products and per dozen of eggs.

Bridge Happenings

Mrs. James Morrison, superintendent of the Junior Christian Endeavor society, entertained the children Saturday afternoon with an Easter egg hunt in the grove at Hooton's Haven. A happy afternoon was spent by those present, who were Evelyn Shields, Vivienne and Virginia Lake, Ruby and Florence Johnson, Lynn, Tommy and Edson Culver, Betty Doney, Wilda and Virginia Beckett, Mary Lou Culver, Bernard and Billy Cope, Bonnie Jean Billings, Veda Hendrick, Byron Van Aleten, Elvin Oestreich, Edward and Evelyn Morrison and Archie Culver.

Frank and James Culver were Coquille and Marshfield visitors Saturday. Mrs. A. O. Hooton and daughter, Lou, were guests of the W. A. Roselle family at Broadbent from Monday until Wednesday. Sunday guests at the W. A. Lett home were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson and children, Charles, Virginia and Burton, of Sitkum, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reed and son, Gerald, of Reedsport.

An interesting program has been planned for the Grange meeting which will be held Friday evening, April 21. Two new members have been received into the organization: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Allen, who were given the first and second degrees at the last meeting.

Mrs. Jennie Luttrell is spending this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emory Eggers, at Broadbent.

A pleasing Easter program, arranged by a committee of Christian Endeavorers, was presented to a large audience at the church Sunday evening. The program consisted of a number of recitations, two beautiful pantomimes and several musical numbers, including two songs each by the Junior, Intermediate and Senior choirs. The church was attractively decorated with evergreens, flowers and a large white cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Culver, Everett and Mary Louise Culver, Constance Knight and Ernest Lett were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Culver's brother, Charlie Knight, at Gaylord.

W. A. Roselle, of Broadbent, has this week traded his homestead at Bridge to M. L. Owens, of Norway, and J. S. Owens, of Broadbent, who plan to move here in the fall to make their home.

Mrs. Albert Pancoast, assisted by Mrs. Clarence Billings, delightfully entertained a group of children at an Easter egg hunt Sunday morning, before Sunday school, at the Pancoast home.
