Interest of economy and if the enrollment does not increase, organization will be perfected to care for the sections of grades affected.

We urge that all parents and students take advantage of these days that are set aside and clear up all questions as to courses, units, and credits.

General faculty meeting will be held Saturday, September 2, at 2 p. m. in the High School study hall. Sectional faculty meetings will be held in the different buildings with the principals on Monday, September 4, as follows:

High School—9:30 in the High School Library.

Lincoln—2:00 p. m. in the Library at Lincoln.

School opens and all students are requested to be present for all day on Tuesday, September 5. Primary students entering the first grade will be kept only at the discretion of the instructors.

We have been asked many times during the summer regarding our attitude toward post graduate students. We realize and appreciate the conditions facing many high school graduates and, as far as possible, the administration is willing to cope with and meet this situation. Graduates from the Coquille High School, under the age of twenty-one, are welcome to enroll for work if they do so with the idea of completing their course and making the very best of their opportunities. If there is a sufficient number of post graduate students who enroll we hope to organize a separate class for them and perhaps get in touch with the Extension Division of one of our state institutions and offer an extension course for credit. Of course, in registering post graduate students it is to be understood that if classes are crowded, they cannot be admitted as we must avoid over-loading our teaching force and going beyond the state limit in number. But as long as there is room and no interference with the regular program, post graduate students are welcome.

The State Textbook Commission of Oregon has selected a number of new texts for the High Schools of Oregon. Students should be sure, before buying second-hand texts, that they have not become obsolete.

If parents and patrons have any questions at any time please feel free to call the office and information will be gladly given. We urge and invite parents and patrons to visit our schools and get acquainted with what is actually being done.

Sincerely, Chester L. Ward, Superintendent.

Three Fine Shows at Liberty Beginning Tonight

Starting this Friday night the week's program at the Liberty Theatre is an usually attractive one. For tonight and Saturday the main picture, "Parole Girl," features Mae Clark and Ralph Bellamy.

The production concerns a young girl innocently drawn into the confidence game by a slick racketeer, who through aiding her father at some time, holds her under obligation. Hale Hamilton is "Tony," a suave gangster. Marie Prevost portrays "Jeanie," a hard-boiled but lovable character, who throws bricks at women rivals for her man. There are several outstanding comedy scenes.

The Saturday night preview, at 10:45, features Lionel Barrymore in "Looking Forward." The star is supported by such well known players as Lewis Stone, Bernita Hume and Phillips Holmes.

The picture tells a story of the modern business world and the effects of the depression on a great department store. Its title, "Looking Forward," was selected by special permission of President Franklin Roosevelt. The symbolic phrase was used by the President as the title of his recently published and widely acclaimed book.

And then on Sunday night comes one of the outstanding pictures of 1933, "Hell Below." Thousands of men and women appear in the cast. The picture was filmed at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Uncle Sam's navy may be described as the unpublicized star of "Hell Below," for without the active cooperation of the naval department, filming of this ambitious sea picture could scarcely have been undertaken at all.

The picture was adapted from Commander Edward Ellsberg's story, "Pigboats," and its all-star cast includes Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Eugene Pallette and Robert Young, under the direction of Jack Conway. For fifteen days the actors in "Hell Below," coached by regular navy men, manned torpedo tubes, worked controls and literally lived under the water at the submarine base at Pearl Harbor. That's how the biggest thrill ever staged by submarines for a talking picture was made.

Cameras from portholes of submerged submarine photographed action—thanks to special underwater lights and lenses, and the fact that Hawaiian waters are so remarkably clear. In the picture one sees a big submerged submarine heading right for the camera—sees it blow off, dive, pump out the tanks and rise again. One sees depth bombs being hurled by "Y-Guns" as they lay a pattern under water. One sees them explode, making great globules as the water is displaced, and the submarine rushes through them, in a desperate race to escape their terrific concussion.

Anti-aircraft guns, operating against diving attack planes are shown in another thrilling scene. Then a bomber appears on the horizon. The submarine dives, and the camera follows the dive down below the surface.

And then for Pal Night, Wednesday and Thursday next week, comes Geo. Arliss, whom many picture fans prefer to any other male actor on the screen today.

Beloved by the theatre-goers the world over, he has found the perfect role in his latest picture, "The Working Man." It is a highly spiced comedy drama of American business and youthful folly in which the star appears as a short-tempered, soft hearted champion of "big business" who steals time from his own affairs to straighten out the lives of the orphaned children of his former strongest competitor.

As "Reeves," grumpy bachelor head of a great manufacturing concern, who goes fishing for a vacation only to find that the expedition leads him into the most exciting business battle of his life—against his own firm—Arliss displays all the qualities that have made him recognized as the foremost actor of the screen today. It is a story filled with humor and amusing situations, replete with real drama, played by a cast of all-star calibre.

Bette Davis is featured in the principal supporting role as the gay young reckless-living orphan.

FARM ACCOUNTING CONTEST LAUNCHED

Bankers Evolve Plan for Stimulating Important Aid to Farm Success

THE Cache county, Utah, bankers recently added a stimulus to banker-farmer cooperative work by launching a farm accounting contest. At a meeting of the Clearing House Association the project was put before the bankers, and methods and plans formulated.

Each bank in the county agreed to enroll a minimum of five farmers in the farm accounting project. The names of the farmers when enrolled will be sent to the Secretary of the Clearing House, and also to the Extension Division of the Utah State Agricultural College. The bankers agree to cooperate and keep in close touch with each farmer they enroll so as to insure the completion of a maximum number. The bank which succeeds at the conclusion of the contest in enrolling the largest number of farmers completing the project will be given a special recognition at the annual meeting.

The banks of Cache county have agreed to subscribe to an award fund, which will be presented to five winners as follows: first prize, $35.00; second prize, $25.00; third prize, $20.00; fourth prize, $12.50; fifth prize, $7.50.

Recognition for Good Farming

In addition to the cash prizes, every farmer customer enrolled, who scores sixty per cent or more, will be awarded a special certificate issued by the Clearing House Association and the Extension Service jointly in cooperation with the Agricultural Committee of the Utah Bankers Association.

The scoring will be done on the following basis:

- Farm and home account records (accurate and complete) . . . 50%
 - Success of year's operations as brought out in the summary of the year's business . . . 25%
 - General appearance of farm and improvements and condition of livestock and poultry, (judging to be done during the summer months) . . . 25%
- The contest will end December 31, 1933. The judges will be the County Agent, the County Key Banker, a representative of the Clearing House Association, and two representatives selected by the Extension Division of the College.
