News From Coquille

Schools by Supt. Ward

We wish to announce, so that parents and patrons will know, that there will be no school on Friday, October 27th. Teachers will be in Marshfield attending the County Institute.

To show the wonderful spirit of co-operation and loyalty, and to show the high morale among the faculty, we are happy to announce that Coquille is one hundred per cent in membership for the Oregon State Teachers Association, the National Education Association, and the county organization. We were the first in the county to report one hundred per cent. This certainly speaks exceptionally well for the teachers, particularly during this financial depression.

Superintendent Ward left Thursday noon to attend the State Principals' convention to be held in Salem Friday and up to Saturday noon, October 20th and 21st. This convention is organized, primarily, for principals of secondary schools and other school executives. It takes up problems dealing directly with state standards and how they apply to local situations. Principal Hartley was unable to attend because of a heavy football schedule this week-end.

Activities in the student body have been running at high speed of late. The sale of student body activity tickets has demanded the time and attention of the various classes. Reports are very gratifying and students are to be commended for their fine work and backing of all student functions. Attention is now turned to the election of a Student Body president. Morse Stonecypher, who held that office, has definitely withdrawn from school and returned to California. Campaigns are being organized and soon student body politics will be fully displayed.

It is very gratifying to note the very definite progress being made in the various professional meetings of the teachers of the faculty. At a regular faculty meeting held recently reports were given by teachers representing each group. At a high school faculty meeting the subject of an activity program was very thoroughly discussed. The intermediate and junior high school had for their topic, "The Place of the Teacher in Opening up Responsibility for the Student." The primary council in a more recent meeting discussed, "Standards of Continuity, Grading, Writing and Language." It is very helpful and enlightening to attend these meetings and we feel that some very definite standards are being reached for the Coquille school system through the faithful efforts of the teachers.

Special Announcement: We wish to call the attention of the public again to American Education Week which is observed November 6 to 12. Service groups and churches should plan, if possible, to give a little time to the subject which is being emphasized throughout the nation, "Education and the Future of the Child." The superintendent's office has available material.

School Editorial

It is very fitting this year that we bring to the attention of the public, American Education Week. Each year the National Education Association emphasizes the importance of child training during Education Week. We feel that it is especially important for all school patrons to carefully weigh the value of our entire school system in the light of what future developments are going to demand from thinking citizens.

We are going to pass on several quotations from leading men or our nation. Quoting now from Jesse Gray, president of the National Education Association for 1933-34: "The American common school is the expression of a mighty faith; it has grown up out of need and aspiration; it is the bulwark of those democratic ideals and rights for which mankind has sacrificed and suffered throughout the ages. It is the home of light and of reason. It is the hope of better tomorrow. The common school is the house of the people. During American Education Week let all the people renew their faith in themselves and in their children. Let them discuss their problems and determine how their schools may be better. Let them return to the school which is the house of the people and know that through this, their own house, they may again bring order and promise and hope to the republic."

We are glad that American Education Week comes almost on the threshold of a new school year. It is a privilege to assist in deepening general understanding of what the local schools are attempting to do for the children. The willing worker finds, in any success, a cause for increased vigilance and devotion to his cause. But if he fails, he finds a cause for renewed and better effort. So may we say with you, winning or losing, we know we will gain willing hands and throbbing hearts that beat with a vital interest for the continued progress of the education of our children.

In attempting to interpret education to an ever interested public, Joy Elmer Morgan writes: "The next time you pass a school, pause a moment to think of what that school means to humanity. Recall the long dark centuries when the masses were kept in ignorance, when greed and oppression ruled the world with an iron hand. From the beginning of man's struggle for knowledge, self respect, and the recognition of his inalienable rights, the school has been his greatest ally. We refer to the school as 'common' because it belongs to us all. It is ourselves working together in the education of our children. But it is a most uncommon institution. It is relatively new; it is democracy's greatest gift to civilization. Throughout the world, among upward-struggling peoples, wherever parents share in the aspirations of their children, the American common school is being copied. Let us cherish and improve our schools."

time you pass a school, pause a moment to think of what that school means to humanity. Recall the long dark centuries when the masses were kept in ignorance, when greed and oppression ruled the world with an iron hand. From the beginning of man's struggle for knowledge, self respect, and the recognition of his inalienable rights, the school has been his greatest ally. We refer to the school as "common" because it belongs to us all. It is ourselves working together in the education of our children. But it is a most uncommon institution. It is relatively new; it is democracy's greatest gift to civilization. Throughout the world, among upward-struggling peoples, wherever parents share in the aspirations of their children, the American common school is being copied. Let us cherish and improve our schools."

It would not be our sole purpose to attempt to interpret the schools alone as they are but to attempt to interpret what the schools are doing and should do in response to a future need. It is true that schools began as a response to a developing need. It is equally true that they must continue to grow as a response to the future needs of our children now in attendance. As a result of this, we must be very careful not to blind our eyes to the echo which is going to come back from the present embryonic citizens when they take our place in society and government.

Next week we hope to continue on the subject of American Education Week and show what our civic organizations are doing in assisting to promote and interpret education.

Pook and Bailey Nominated for Student Body President

The regular student body meeting held Friday, October 13, witnessed "school spirit" as never before. Patriotically and properly introduced by the salutation to the American flag and the singing of "America," the procedure then centered around the sale of activity tickets, the nomination of a president to fill the vacancy left by Morse Stonecypher, and try-outs for yell leaders.

At the opening of the meeting, after an announcement by Coach Hartley, the entire student body participated in the salute to the American flag and the singing of "America." This is a new procedure in student body meetings and one which it is thought well to be continued.

In the absence of President Stonecypher, who moved to California, the vice-president, Howard Bonniksen, took the chair and opened the business meeting. Minutes were read and approved and the names of the student council's two nominees for the presidential vacancy, Bob Bailey and Bill Pook, were read. As no further candidates were presented by the members at large, nominations were declared closed. The election is to be held October 20th.

Announcements concerning a new ticket sale were made by Rose Matney, who also explained the privileges to be obtained from holding a student ticket. Every class readily pledged its support, and as the vice-president called for some members to express their opinions, one boy declared, "If the seniors think they can put the next ticket sale over 100 per cent, the juniors can put it over 200 per cent." It might be added that the juniors won the first sale.

Try-outs for yell leaders were then called for. Three teams, Eleanor Smith and Faye June Noles; Donald Burch, Lin Swain and Howard Detlefson; Rose Matney and Beryl Unsoeld, responded and led the assembly in several rousing yells.

Inter-class rivalry is running at high pitch just now, with a real "clash" expected in the near future. More power to you, Coquille High!

C. H. S. is justly proud of their seniors, who on Tuesday this week put over the activity ticket sale 100 per cent, and of the juniors, who five minutes later matched their seniors. Sophomores and freshmen, not to be excluded, are still vying with each other; their reports will come in soon.

The latest plan for the activity tickets, that of fixing the price at twenty-five cents to allow more students to show their school spirit, receive the paper, and attend out-of-town games, was proposed recently by the student council and has proved very satisfactory.

Class Meetings Held

Monday, October 16, special class meetings were held at Coquille High school for the discussion of two events that are to take place within the next few weeks. The reports from the classes are as follows:

The main topic of discussion among the seniors proved to be the class motto. They are trying to find one which will satisfy the entire group. The activity ticket sale, the first of the two events, came in for its share of interest, however, and the class resolved to back it 100 per cent in an effort to defeat the juniors.

The juniors elected Don Smith to sell the tickets in the class and resolved to lengthen their lead over the other classes. In regard to the second event, the yelling contest, Lin Swain was elected leader. The class hopes to prove its supremacy in this event also.

The sophomores are busy planning their party, so the ticket sale took second place. However, they hope to make quite a showing in both the sale and yelling contest.

From among the freshmen, Lewis Donaldson was elected the student council representative. Mr. Hartley urged the "Freshies" to do something besides "getting under everyone's feet," and Robert McGilvery pleaded the cause of the ticket sale quite eloquently. The class decided to wear ribbons in order to show how many had purchased their tickets.

Girls' League Meets
C. H. S. Girls' League members, after a short business meeting Thursday, October 19, entertained as guest speaker Superintendent C. L. Ward. Florence Carpenter, Betty Axtell and Dorothy Glaisyer completed the profitable thirty-minute program.

Superintendent Ward evidenced genuine interest in the league, its work and its members. His talk, which is well titled, "That Which Counts," stressed the importance of right standards for girls. The league appreciates his interest.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Marianne Axtell, who called for council and league minutes. "Pop" talks concerning the "Nifty Gift Sale," to be held just before Christmas, and league dues were made by Hallie Knight, Clarice Krantz, Florence Tway and Harriet Webb.
