

"Oregon Trail" Celebrated at Eugene, July 26, 27, 28

With a new name, "The Oregon Trail," replacing the former designation of "Sunset Trail," and more elaborate, more impressive features for every event, Eugene triennial epic of the west will be staged July 26, 27, and 28.

Not only Eugene, but all the surrounding territory has fallen completely into the spirit of the event, which in 1929 attracted national attention. For several weeks men have cultivated beards, and all women of the city are now going about in the hoop skirts and bustles of the 1850's.

The epic will again have three main features—the pageant, which this year will have a huge cast of 2,000; the pioneer parade, which will bring together replicas of early day scenes, and thousands of pioneer relics, and the Progress parade, which will draw entries from communities and business industrial organizations from every part of the state.

The pageant, which will depict the development of the Oregon territory from pre-historic times to present, and predictions for the future, will be enacted on Hayward field on a huge stage that will cover the football field. Many thrilling episodes have been added for this year, and the attraction will undoubtedly be the most inspiring depiction of this type ever presented in the United States.

Wm. E. Cleghorn was down town this week for the first time in over two months. He has been suffering from heart trouble which has kept him confined to his bed much of the time.

Pat Savage, who has been working at the CCC camp near Medford, came home last Friday. He will probably remain for a month or more with his mother, Mrs. Mike Broad, who is in a serious condition.

Mrs. E. H. Hollister, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, who has been here the past week visiting her sister, Mrs. W. E. Hassler, intends leaving this evening for San Francisco to visit two sons before returning home.

Miss Devona Shaver, who is employed at Long Beach, Calif., came in Sunday to visit her mother and brother until today, when she left for the south. She spent from Friday until Sunday with her father, J. A. Shaver, at Gold Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Martin and sons intend leaving Sunday for a vacation trip to the Hood's Canal section of the Olympic peninsula. Mr. Martin has two weeks off duty as manager for the J. C. Penney Co. store here, but is not sure that he will be gone that long.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lamb, and Mrs. Marvin Lyons, of Marshfield, left Sunday morning for Capetown, Calif., to visit the L. P. and Prescott Branstetter families. Mrs. Lyons will remain for a longer visit with her daughter, Mrs. Prescott Branstetter, but the Lambs returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Graham and daughters arrived here Tuesday evening from their home near Ashland for a few days' visit. They came because of the serious illness of Mrs. Graham's sister, Mrs. Beryl Broad. Earl says that they all have been in the best of health since moving to the southern section of the state.

Ask for Cow Bell Dairy cream and milk, the only milk and cream made safe by pasteurization.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Candlin enjoyed a visit over the Fourth from her brother, Jas. Dee, and family of Seattle. They came in Wednesday evening from Seattle and left Thursday morning for San Francisco. Mr. Dee is Brigadier General of the Salvation Army in charge of the northern Pacific coast division of the Army.

J. G. Link, of Williamsport, Penn., a fishing sportsman, has spent the past two weeks fishing in southwestern Oregon. He engaged Lana Leneve as guide before he came and two have been covering all the streams pretty well for a couple of weeks. He has been enjoying the sport immensely, although some of it is a new art to him. He had never used a spinner in fishing back home.

Mrs. Jas. Richmond and son, Jimmie, returned last Saturday from their two weeks trip to San Bernardino, Calif. They were accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Harriet Gould, and the latter's grandson, Billy Roberts, who will spend a couple of months visiting Mrs. Gould's sons and daughters, Bert and Clarence Gould and Mrs. Richmond here, Mrs. E. C. Barker at Myrtle Point, and Mrs. Geo. Terry at North Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Peterson, who came down last Sunday from Catlamet, Wash., left for there yesterday morning. Mr. Peterson having received word that the Crown-Williamette camp would start up again this morning. He is employed in the machine shop of this branch of the Zellerbach Paper Co. Besides visiting here in Coquille the family were at the home of Mrs. Peterson's father, Geo. Maas, near Arago.

George Belloni, of Woodland, Calif., an old-time Coquille valley resident, is here for a couple of weeks, visiting his sons, Henry in Coquille and John in Myrtle Point. He came up with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Searancke, of Sacramento, who left after a two days' stop, for a trip up into British Columbia. They will return next week, and Mr. Belloni will accompany them home. The party arrived Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Emery and daughter, Betty, arrived home last Friday evening from their month's trip back to their old home near Boston, Mass. They report a very enjoyable trip and a most pleasant visit. They did not see much of the World's Fair, however. On the trip east they left the day they arrived there, for Washington, D. C. They also spent a little time in New York city.

J. J. Stanley says that in giving us an account of his recent northern trip he omitted a very important item—an evening with Alf and Flo Johnson in Seattle. They spent a most enjoyable evening with them, talking over early days in Coquille, and to add to the interest of the occasion in general, Cal Slagle and his wife, who live just a few blocks from Flo and Alf, joined the company and a real reunion of Coquillers was held. Mr. and Johnson desired to be remembered to their many Coos county friends.

4-H Calf Club Entertained

Members of the Coquille 4-H Calf club and Norway Pig club, led by H. S. Cadman, of Coquille, were favored by a visit of parents of each member of the club at its regular meeting held at the Cadman home Friday evening, June 29.

Anticipating this visit, Mr. Cadman and members of the club, including Leonard Farr, Orville Clinton, Wilbur Collins, Donald, Vernon and Frank Trigg and Teddy and Sidney Cadman, had arranged the livestock owned by the Cadman boys for display, the exhibit consisting of six head of registered Holstein cattle and 11 head of registered Duroc Jersey hogs. Two of the Holsteins were won by the Cadman boys as an award for being selected as high scoring 4-H club members in Oregon during 1932 and 1933.

The construction of calf stanchions was demonstrated by three members of the calf club; Orville Clinton, Teddy Cadman and Wilbur Collins, who stated in their remarks that the demonstration, as given by them at the meeting, was one phase of 4-H club work which an attempt is being made to develop more generally in Coos county.

On the call of Sidney Cadman, president of the calf club, who presided at this meeting, each member of the two clubs gave a report on the progress of his club project so far this year, some reporting on special subjects assigned by the leader at the previous meeting.

It was pointed out in these reports that the enrollment at summer school this year was more than 30 per cent greater than that of last. The president stated that they had a fine time at the school, which lasted for two weeks, which were crowded full of varied activities.

Before the club meeting was closed the following parents and friends, who were in attendance, gave short talks commenting on the opportunity provided the boys through club work and the fine leadership of Mr. Cadman: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Farr, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Trigg, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Minnie Clinton, Mrs. Ella Wilson, Glenda Clinton, George Wilson, Grant Cook and Everett Davis.

Refreshments were served to those attending by Mrs. Cadman.

A Ford "Little Red School"

A modern adaption of the "little red schoolhouse"—this time in the form of a traveling school for motor car mechanics—rolled into Coquille Monday. It was housed in a trim Ford V-8 Sedan delivery truck, equipped for mechanical demonstrations of the proper methods of servicing Ford cars of all types. Headquarters during its stay here were the Niles Motor Co., local Ford dealer.

The "school on wheels," which is under the direction of the Richmond, Calif., branch of the Ford Motor Company, is similar in theory to many new traveling schools which "carry the school to the student." The school truck is equipped with tools of every description to illustrate the most modern methods of motor car servicing employed by Ford dealers.

Thirty-two such traveling schools, one in each Ford branch territory in the United States, have been inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company for the benefit of Ford owners. Classes which are being conducted daily in all parts of the country are under the direction of a factory representative charged with the task of visiting Ford dealers for the purpose of instructing their mechanics in latest approved methods of serving and maintenance.

Through the classes mechanics are given the benefit of thorough training in every phase of Ford service—not only the more important major repair operations but also in methods of facilitating properly maintenance and adjustment operations and minor repairs.

In the course of the classes, lessons were given in Ford engine construction. A thorough discussion was held of the theory and practice of motor tune-up. Special emphasis was given to the new Ford cylinder assembly exchange policy, under which the old practice of engine overhaul is replaced by purchase and installation of engines reconditioned at the factory.

Instruction is given in the servicing and repair of the Ford carburetor, distributor and fuel pump, as well as other units of the electrical system, and the cooling system.

Big 4-H Session at O. S. C.

The Four-H club summer session broke all records for numbers at Oregon State college and the regular adult session showed an early increase of 100 students over the low point of a year ago, which college officials point to as an indication of the lightening of both the financial and educational depression.

Total club registration was 787 compared with 561 last year. Of those 319 were boys and 468 were girls. Leaders commented on the exceptionally high type of youngsters present and their interest in their work and the uniformly good conduct. The adult session brought an early enrollment of 370 not counting those to come for later term courses or those in field parties.

G. & R. Restaurant Enlarged

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gilkey have just enlarged the G. & R. restaurant on Front street by moving the east partition, and have added new counters and fixtures, and a Kelvinator refrigerator. New chairs with backs also add to the comfort of their patrons at the lunch counter.

Summer Foods

(Oregon State Board of Health)
When the thermometer climbs to the 80 mark and remains there with high humidity for days and weeks, making frequent efforts to break the high temperature record among the 90's and 100's, one's enthusiasm for everything melts away—likewise one's appetite.

Milk is one of our most valuable protein foods and this could well be used even more extensively in the summer time, safely replacing meat as a chief source of protein. With our modern methods of keeping food always well iced, and the wise law which requires milk served in public places to be tightly capped until serving time, milk is not only a refreshing drink but an invaluable food.

Those who plant a garden take pride in their garden products; at the same time they establish a habit which will yield rich dividends in health.

Green leafy vegetables are rich in the vitamins and should be cultivated more extensively. Green vegetables, spinach, chard, lettuce, and string beans are also a rich source of iron—one of the health essentials which is apt to be too low unless the diet contains plenty of vegetables. Lettuce is fast becoming a daily necessity and local food markets claim that their sale of green foods, particularly of lettuce, has increased over a hundred per cent in recent years because of the univeted demand for it. As a source of vitamins, vegetables greatly enrich the diet. Lettuce when green is richer in vitamin A, that health-protective vitamin, than when blanched. As no harmful limit to vitamin A has as yet been found it is wise to eat plentifully of these green foods, for the only other rich sources of this vitamin are whole, milk, cream, and liver.

As thirst quenchers in the summer time, when one feels the desire for something other than water, nothing can take the place of fresh fruit juices—orange, lemon, lime. Their acid flavors, if not disguised by too much sugar, are entirely satisfying. Perhaps this is because these fruits, though strongly acid, are alkaline when digested and so help to balance the acid-forming foods such as meats, fish, fats and starches. All vegetables and fruits have this point in their favor. Incidentally such raw fruit juices add greatly to the vitamin C content of the diet. Vitamin C is a health protective not found widely in foods and is lost to some extent in ordinary cooking. If your health food plan has not already been adopted, take the opportunity during the summer months to become acquainted with nature's richest sources of health.

The mere sight of a roast pork dinner with its escort of rich gravy so tempting in the winter season, is a signal for protest at this time of the year, and one reaches instead for the lightful, more colorful, refreshing foods which nature so wisely provides for us at this time. What could be more appealing than a section of ripe, red, iced watermelon or sliced tomatoes on crisp lettuce, or more satisfying than the colorful berries—strawberries, blueberries, currants, raspberries? Pie could well make its exit during the summer months in favor of these tempting fruits.
