

Triple-Sealed Hydraulics—

the finest brakes money can buy

Because Pontiac knows that stopping is just as important as starting, the new Pontiacs have a special kind of brakes—big 12-inch hydraulics, smooth and even—powerful enough to bring any sized car to a quick stop.

And Pontiac safeguards this fine action by triple-sealing the rear brakes, and double-sealing those in front, to bar out every grain of dust and every drop of water. You can trust Pontiac brakes in any weather. They are the finest that money can buy.

Goodyear Rubber Co. Has Little Employee Trouble

If all the industrial plants in the United States would and could follow the methods used by the Goodyear Rubber Co. in its dealings with employees there would be a great many less attempts to Russinize the United States by the fanatics, Huey Longs and other radicals, than there are now.

In the last issue of the Atlantic Monthly there appears an article by Arthur Pound, telling of the success achieved by the Goodyear company in producing harmonious relations between the employees and the company. For one thing there is an organization, called the Goodyear Industrial Assembly, modelled on the two houses of the national congress, the system of government follows that prescribed for the United States in the constitution, and since 1913 there have been no strikes in the Goodyear Industrial University.

Below is quoted one section of Mr. Pound's article:

Goodyear Industrial University and Goodyear Industrial Assembly condition the whole effort in this largest of rubber and tire companies. As a result, activities which elsewhere would be notable are with Goodyear merely long established routine, under Assembly control or review. Among these are:

Vacations on pay for all employees with five years or more of service to their credit. Last year the Company gave paid vacations to 10,000 employees.

Thirty-five per cent of all Goodyear employees, including all Goodyear University students, enter into some form of athletic or gymnastic training. Intra-mural leagues, based on departments, play regular schedules in softball, basketball, tennis, handball, bowling, pingpong, and swimming contests. A gymnasium, playing fields, and Wingfoot Lake resort are open to all employees.

Goodyear Employees Activities Committee supervises the programs and manages the funds of more than twenty social clubs, which use Goodyear Hall and allied facilities.

Immediately after passing the physical examination on being employed, Goodyear employees become eligible to the Employees Relief Association, which for 90 cents a month provides personal service, hospitalization, and cash benefits while the worker is laid up. Industrial accidents are, of course, covered by compensation insurance law, and the fatality of death by group insurance—the three insurance projects taken together giving every employee coverage against the major risks of life. The Company has $23,000,000 worth of insurance in effect to protect employees.

Since 1916 Goodyear has had a pension system under which a man 65 years of age who has had more than 15 years of service may retire on a pension proportionate to his total earnings in service. A fund for this purpose was set up, and to it has been added one per cent of each year's payroll, accretions bringing the fund up to $2,900,000 at present. Recently the Industrial Assembly recommended adding an employee contributory feature to the Pension Fund, but this has been laid on the table pending possible Federal legislation. The fact that Goodyear is still a young organization is proved by the presence of only 91 men on the pension rolls.

CCC Protect Valuable Cedar

A fire hazard reduction project to protect valuable stands of second-growth Port Orford cedar on government and private land north of Remote is being carried out at the present time by the Bradford CCC Camp located near Remote, 39 miles from Roseburg on the Coos Bay highway. This brush burning, snag falling and cleanup work should do much to reduce the chance of fire starting or spreading through this region, according to V. V. Harpham, supervisor of the Umpqua National Forest and in charge of the CCC work on that forest and O. & C. land in this territory.

The supply of old-growth Port Orford cedar is being cut off rapidly by operators cutting railroad ties, battery separator stock and for export. Forestry officials predict that within a short time only a few virgin stands of this valuable wood will be left and these will be on government land. The famous white cedar has no close rival for battery separators and is especially valuable for its other uses which require a soft, light, durable wood.

In this protection work, the CCC crews are piling and burning brush along the Sandy road which circles up Sandy Creek through the mountains and down Big creek. This should reduce the likelihood of fire starting along the road from smokers and should make the road a fire break. Where a large number of logs and tops have been left, the men are pulling these into large piles around a central spar tree with a gasoline donkey and cable rigging. To give the piles a start, when they are set off, explains Dan Powlman, project superintendent of the camp, a large number of old rubber tires, pitch, split wood and other inflammable material is placed around the spar tree in a pile over which the logs are placed.

In addition to clearing along the road fire breaks are being made along ridge tops in strategic positions. These consist of strips 80 to 100 feet wide cleared of all inflammable material which is piled and burnt. Snags are felled for approximately 500 feet on each side of these cleared strips. The breaks make it possible to stop on the ridge tops fires spreading through this territory.

"The fire breaks should do much to lessen the fire danger in this territory," said Gordon Marsh, regional forest inspector in direct charge of work on O. & C. Lands, "by reducing the amount of inflammable material at important places we should do much to cut down the protection costs on this territory which has long been known for its high hazard or likelihood of rapid spread of fire."

Other work of the Bradford Camp includes maintenance of the Sandy Road and construction of a 65-foot bridge across Sandy Creek. A crew from the camp is engaged in falling snags east of the camp along the Roseburg-Coos Bay Highway. This will reduce the fire hazard as well as eliminate the danger of snags falling into the highway.

Captain George Noble is commander of the Bradford Camp, Dr. Joslyn, camp physician, and O. P. West, educational advisor. The camp at the present time is the first prize camp of the Medford CCC district, ranking at the top of the 28 camps.

nounced for Saturday night, May 4. The board of directors for the fete were named, with the president of the club as general chairman: Mrs. Pearl Ellingsen as plan or theme director, Mrs. Ted Hornecker in charge of entertainment, Mrs. H. E. Hess, decorations, and Mrs. Wm. Mansell, music. Other committee chairmen will be announced later.

Mrs. Ernest Purvance was in charge of the entertainment hour. Miss Audrey Aasen rendered two delightful violin selections, accompanied by Mrs. Maud Woodyard. Supt. P. W. Lane gave an interesting talk about the Coquille schools and partially outlined plans for next year.

The boys' double quartet from the high school rendered three vocal selections.

The annual luncheon of the Woman's Club, on Tuesday, May 14, will be the last meeting of this group until the September meeting.

Party for Mrs. McGuffin

Mrs. Dal Sanders and Mrs. Jack Clouse surprised Mrs. J. W. McGuffin Friday afternoon, April 5, when they invited several friends to help celebrate her birthday. She received many lovely gifts. The afternoon was spent in talking and sewing and a light lunch was served to the following: Mesdames M. D. Sherrard, Jack Leach, Oran Coy, M. M. Lane, Paul Smith, Ed Bernette, Ernest Whereat, Tom Kroll, Geo. Burr, Henry Ellis J. W. McGuffin, Misses Leona Bell, Velma Coy, Catherine Clouse and the hostess.

transaction. In addition to such transaction tax, a two per cent tax will be levied on all incomes taxable under the provisions of the "Revenue Act of 1934." A two per cent tax will be levied on all transfers of property, no matter for what purpose the transfer is made. A further tax of two per cent shall be levied upon the gross dollar value of every gift in excess of $1000. Two per cent tax is also imposed on all money or property received from inheritances above a stipulated sum.

Citizens of the U. S. sixty years of age or over who are able to meet the requirements shall be paid $200 per month. No pensioner shall engage in gainful occupation. Each pensioner will be required to spend the entire $200 within 30 days following the receipt of that amount. It must be spent within the United States. The money can be used in acquiring non-income bearing real or personal property, or for indebtedness lawfully arising therefor. Pensioners may use not to exceed 15 per cent of their money for charitable or religious work.

Criminals duly convicted for felonies are not eligible for this pension. Ten years after release from prison such felon may receive the pension. Any pensioner who may at any time receive an income less than $2400 per year, shall make full report of same, and pension checks will be reduced accordingly, so that no such person may receive a total income of more than $200 per month.

A pension board shall be set up in each county of the United States. Three members shall constitute the boards. They are to pass on all applications. Such boards may appoint deputies. No salaries shall be received by any member, but their pensions shall be deemed sufficient for the services performed. All pensions shall be immune from legal attachment or any process of law.

Pensions shall be suspended for the following reasons:

(A) For failure of pensioners to vote at any general election without reasonable cause.

(B) For engaging in any gainful pursuit.

(C) For violating any of the provisions of the law.

(D) For gross intemperance or gross immorality.

(E) For unreasonable maintenance, or unreasonable support, of any able bodied person in idleness, and/or for unreasonable nepotism in the disbursement of the pension for services rendered.

(F) For wilful failure or refusal to obey any rule or regulation of this act.

The local pension boards shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all issues arising.
