

The Universal Car

ONE name comes quickly to mind when you think of "The Universal Car." The description is distinctively Ford. No other car is used by so many millions of men and women in every part of the world. Everywhere it is the symbol of faithful service. . . . That has always been a Ford fundamental. Something new is constantly being added in the way of extra value. Each year the Ford has widened its appeal by increasing its usefulness to motorists. . . . Today's Ford V-8 is more than ever "The Universal Car" because it encircles the needs of more people than any other Ford ever built. It reaches out and up into new fields because it has everything you need in a modern automobile. . . . The Ford V-8 combines fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty with low first cost and low cost of operation and up-keep. There is no other car like it.

Ford Exhibit Steel Rises At San Diego Exposition

With nearly 100 per cent of the steel work erected, contractors promise completion within the next few days of the steel work for the Ford Motor Company's exhibit palace at the California Pacific International exposition, San Diego, opening May 29. Then pouring of concrete for the great circular exhibit building will get under way.

Hundreds of workmen are now engaged in welding four hundred and fifty tons of great steel trusses and girders for the framework of the Ford Motor Company's exhibit palace at the California Pacific International Exposition in San Diego, which opens May 29. Present indications are that the framework will be in place before the scheduled date. When the thousands of yards of concrete have been poured, the great circular edifice will take form. It is situated on the top of a promontory overlooking a series of terraces on which will be shown replicas of famous roads of nations bordering the Pacific. Among these replicas will be the old trails which once crossed Arizona and California deserts. Already terraces are formed and bits of the trails are being completed.

All this construction is progressing simultaneously as preparations for the exhibits go forward. When the gates open May 29 the Ford presentation will be 100 per cent complete.

Second Interest Rate Reduction

A second interest rate reduction in ten days is announced by the Federal Land bank of Spokane. Effective April 10, new loans made through and endorsed by local farm loan associations have been written at 4 1/4 per cent interest—the lowest in 18 years of Land bank history.

Passing on to farmers the benefits of an improved market for its bonds, the bank on April 1 began making new loans at 4 1/4 per cent. The reduction to 4 1/4 per cent followed when a new issue of bonds was marketed on a 3 1/4 per cent interest basis. The bank is allowed a margin of one per cent for operating expenses.

Loans made directly through the bank, without guarantee by local borrower-owner associations bear one-half of one per cent higher rate, or 4 1/2 per cent at present. The interest rate on Land bank commissioner loans, made out of a special fund for emergency refinancing purposes, will remain at five per cent per annum.

While old borrowers do not share the newly announced reduction, they have been granted a temporary reduction to 4 1/2 per cent until July, 1936, with the privilege of deferring payments on the principal portion of their installments if their mortgage is not otherwise in default.

Coos Quota Not Yet Filled

Opportunity for four weeks of outdoor life, free, as guests of Uncle Sam still awaits a number of Coos county youths, according to announcement today. This county's quota for the tenth annual Citizen's Military Training Camp at this army post is only partially filled.

Coos county's allotment for the 1935 camp is 13, and so far only five applications have been received. The camp is open to young men of 17 years or over, will open July 5, will run for four weeks, and will offer an instruction course in which heavy emphasis is placed upon outdoor sports of all sorts. It is entirely free, including transportation to and from home for accepted trainees.

Both beginners and former students who have not yet completed the course are eligible to attend, and those interested should communicate immediately with C. M. T. C. Headquarters, Vancouver Barracks, Washington.

New State Law to Aid Bang's Disease Control

A law to aid in the eradication and suppression of Bang's disease within the state, which is designed to carry on the control work, if and when the federal government ceases its present testing and indemnity operations, was passed by Oregon's recent legislative session. The new law does not provide for state indemnities, but it does require the compulsory testing for Bang's disease in all counties where the dairy animals exceed the number of other cattle kept on farms.

Any county may avail itself of the provisions of the law on the petition of owners of at least 60 per cent of all cattle in the county. On the other hand, the application of the law may be discontinued at the request of 60 per cent of the owners of cattle in that county. The law is to take effect January 1, 1936, although if the federal program is continued through 1936, the state act will become operative January 1, 1937.

The law provides for a qualified Bang's disease inspector in each county, to be appointed by the county court, who must test all cattle periodically. The laboratory work is to be carried on at Oregon State college.

Each animal found to be free from the disease is marked with a metal ear tag or legible tattoo mark. Those found to react to the Bang's disease test are both ear-marked and branded with a letter "B" on the left hip. No dairy animal over six months of age may be sold unless it comes from a disease-tested and free herd or has been itself tested and proved free within 60 days prior to the time of disposal.

If the federal indemnity plan is dropped, the owner of reacting cattle may retain the animals so long as he will follow rules prescribed by the state department of agriculture for building up a disease-free herd. Meanwhile, he will not be permitted to allow such reacting animals within six feet of any neighboring cattle owners' property line, where disease-free or susceptible cattle are kept.

Fairview

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips left this week for Yoncalla, Oregon, where they will make their new home. C. E. Watts, who recently purchased their ranch, and Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Dale Thurman will move in soon. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips gave them a surprise farewell party at the community hall last Friday evening to which the whole valley was invited. Best wishes for the future were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Phillips by all the folks, who are certainly going to miss them.

The Easter Sunday services were attended by a large crowd of the valley folks and many folks from Coquille, Bridge and North Bend. The young people's choir opened the regular services and Supt. Byerly read the lesson. During the classes, the youngsters were given Easter eggs, candy and toy whistles, as the outdoor egg hunt had to be postponed due to the rain. Dinner, which followed Sunday school, was served by the ladies and was much enjoyed by all. Rev. Mr. Gardiner and the choir of the North Bend Methodist Church were in charge of the afternoon services, which were exceptional and were much enjoyed by all present. A vote of thanks is extended to these people by the Fairview folks.

An unfortunate accident resulting in the death of one of the men working in the logging camp came as a shock to the local folk recently. The victim, Mr. Lee of Bandon, was struck on the head by the butt of a tree which he and his partner were felling.

The Fairview-North Fork Grange, No. 739, will meet tomorrow evening, April 27.

The Young People's Christian League will meet Sunday evening at the hall. Lois Teters will be the leader for the evening and all young folks are urged to attend.

We have appointed C. H. Hodgdon our agent for Coquille. All orders left or phoned (1M) him will be promptly taken care of. Give our folks' work a trial. We will do our best to please you. Myrtle Greenhouses, Myrtle Point. 411

Pioneer Missionary Society

One of the most impressive programs ever presented by the Pioneer Woman's Missionary Society was given in the social hall of the church Thursday afternoon. It was the social Christian Relations program and Mrs. Esta Ellis, superintendent of that department, was in charge. The hall and stage, also under Mrs. Ellis' supervision, was a bower of beauty, with Easter emblems.—Mrs. Birdie Skeels played the opening song in which all joined.

The regular lesson topic, "Creeping Westward," was given by Mrs. Chas. Oerding and Mrs. W. R. Wilder. Mrs. Wilder spoke at some length on Jason Lee, called "father of missions in the northwest." Mrs. Maude LeRoy read a poem, "Calvary."

A missionary skit, "Getting and Giving," was impersonated by Mesdames Richmond, Russell, Peterson and Paul Walker. In closing Mrs. Ellis had charge of devotions which she dedicated in allegory to the life of Anna Johnson Flint, a lovable Christian character and a confirmed invalid who lived forty years in a wheel chair. Mrs. R. E. Boober read her poem, "The Cross," and Elois Wilson beautifully illustrated it with crayon on a chart placed at the back of the stage in a crimson light, while Virginia Swindahl accompanied Rev. Wilder on the piano as he sang the song, "Oh Crimson Cross." Others of her poems were represented in pantomime by Margaret Purvance, La Velle Dale, Elois Wilson, Myrtle Minter, Dorothy Belle Newton, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Ellis. It was a most inspiring scene as they all stood together in their white robes in the changing lights of a tableau, while Miss Swindahl played softly and Mrs. Skeels and Mr. Wilder sang, "Will You Go to the Beautiful Land with Me," by Higgins.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Warren Davis, K. P. Lawrence, F. G. Leslie, and T. R. Luebke, to Mesdames Maude LeRoy, J. L. Smith, S. M. Nosler, Mary Gage, Birdie Skeels, R. E. Boober, L. W. Oddy, B. A. Davis, F. F. Schram, D. D. Dale, J. A. Houdysell, Wm. Gaffey, Walter Oerding, Luther Daniels, Victor Russell, Orval Newton, Henry Belloni, James Richmond, Henry Ellis, Geo. Taylor, Jr., W. R. Wilder, R. B. Rogers, Chas. Oerding, Paul Walker, Lee Peterson, Geo. Wilkins, L. P. Fugelson, E. Purvance, Julius Rubie, E. M. Wilson, M. L. Daniels, J. D. Gillespie, Geo. Taylor, Sr., Chas. Reiter, Albert Percy and Misses Virginia Swindahl, Ruth Pettengill, Dorothy Belle Newton, Margaret Purvance, La Velle Dale, Elois Wilson and Myrtle Minter.

The Forest Service to protect timber

Beginning this year the Forest Service becomes responsible for the protection of the lands on the Oregon coast between the West boundary of the Siskiyou National Forest and the Pacific ocean, extending from the Elk river-Sixes river divide on the north to the Oregon-California state line on the south. This adds more than two hundred thousand acres to the territory protected by the personnel of the Siskiyou National Forest. For this protection the state pays a lump sum of $3500 a year. This amounts to about two cents per acre.

The importance of keeping forest fires out of this area which lies on both sides of the Oregon Coast highway is easily recognized when one considers that the towns and settlements along the coast are beginning to feel the value of tourist travel through the region. The combination of green forested mountains, green fields, and ocean scenery with a modern highway forces a lure that tourists cannot resist. "But," cautioned Mr. Mitchell, "they want the hills green and the air clear."

Under the Oregon laws, permits are required for all slash burning in the state during the closed season between May 15 and October 1. Limited burning permits may be obtained from fire wardens during the closed season when in their judgment slashings may be safely burned. Burning in closed season without a permit may be punished by a fine of $25 to $500 or imprisonment from ten to ninety days.
