New U. S. Savings Bonds A Good Investment

Postmaster Hawkins gave the Sentinel some information about the new United States savings bonds which can be secured at any post office.

They are issued in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1000, and can be purchased for $18.75, $37.50, $75, $375 and $750.

The difference between what you pay for the bonds today and what you receive in ten years represents the accumulation of interest, compounded semi-annually. Instead of paying you the interest semi-annually, the government adds all of it to the principal and pays you the entire sum at the end of ten years. By this arrangement, the amount you invest increases exactly one-third, or 33 1/3 per cent, if you hold the bonds for their full term of ten years.

The owner of this bond knows exactly what it will earn for him. He never has to bother about it from the day he buys it at the post office until the day it matures. He doesn't have to remember when to clip coupons, because there are no coupons. He doesn't have to reinvest his interest because it is already reinvested at compound interest. He doesn't have to worry about his bond being stolen or lost or burned up because it is a registered bond. The owner's name is written on it and a record of that name is kept by the government. In short it is not just a bond but his bond. If a thief should steal one, he would be wasting his time because the bond is not transferable. That provision also protects the bond against any change in price. It cannot depreciate in value. The United States Treasury will redeem any bond on the request of the owner, sixty days or longer after the date of sale, and return the full purchase price. This provision was made because, among many thousands of purchasers, there are certain to be a few who will encounter unexpected emergencies and need their money immediately.

Presents Pupils in Recital

Maud Skaggs Woodyard presented her class in voice and piano recital at the Episcopal Parish House on Tuesday evening.

The following pupils played: Jean and Donna Marie Brown, Gwendolyn Elrod, Maxine Whereat, Beth Hooton, Betty Emery, Harriet Tozier, Verene Bailey, Patricia Nosler, Marvene McClellan, Evelyn Gano, Donna Dean Bosserman, Barbara Leslie, Florence Tway, Beverly Norton, Margaret Smith, Ileen Harris, Margaret Stewart, Marion Hess, Leville Walstrom, Dorothy Glaisyer, Louise Woodyard, Margaret Belloni, and Audrey Ansen. Dorothy Glaisyer, Dorris Compton and Mrs. George Bryant sang solos and a group of Freshman girls, Josephine Lucas, Emma Frances Mulkey, Louise Woodyard, Marion Hess, Margaret Stewart and Beverly Norton sang a group of songs.

At the close of the very successful recital Mrs. Woodyard was presented with a beautiful bouquet of handkerchiefs—gifts from her pupils.

Pictures at the Liberty

The Coming Week

Described by those who have witnessed it in preview showings as one of the most thrilling pictures of risk and danger ever screened, "Under Pressure," will be shown at the Liberty Theatre tonight and Saturday.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, one of the most popular teams in the history of the film industry, are the co-stars of this unique story, which brings to the screen for the first time the lives and spectacular adventures of tunnel-workers.

According to advance accounts, "Under Pressure" presents a new type of "underworld"—a world confined to a steel-lined tube some 17 feet in diameter, an unreal world of high-pressure and smoke and raw, searing gases. Buried under twenty feet of mud and silt, the men of "Under Pressure" live, fight and carry on with courage under astonishing and hazardous conditions.

It is a world that few persons have seen, though millions have passed through it after it has been tamed and "civilized." First of all, it is a world of "sand-hogs," and the lives of these men who drive both vehicles and subway tunnels beneath the rivers of the world furnish an unique and absorbing subject for the screen.

Picture-lovers who find Will Rogers' brand of humor irresistible—and this includes the entire screen public—are delighted with the news that his latest picture, "Life Begins At 40," coming Sunday to the Liberty Theatre is crammed with fun.

Advance reports label this picture, suggested by the Walter B. Pitkin book hit, a bang-up laugh riot. Critics say it easily eclipses previous Rogers' favorites, "Judge Priest," "David Harum," and "The County Chairman."

Rogers portrays a double-fisted, tender-hearted country editor who proves that the years after forty are the best and goes in quest of the fountain of youth. He launches a series of situations that smash the funny bone to smithereens.

"Life Begins At 40," relates the romance of a young school teacher and a youth, "railroaded" to prison. The shrewd editor brings to light facts that clear the boy, and stirs up a hornet's nest of fun in the process. Among the high spots in the picture are Will's efforts at hog-calling, and his pistol duel which he wins through wisecracking.

"Living on Velvet," heralded as a powerful drama with a most unusual romance, is scheduled as the feature attraction next Wednesday and Thursday. It has an all-star cast, headed by Kay Francis, who has two leading men in Warren William and George Brent. The story tells of two men in love with the same girl, each of whom tries to give her up for the other man. Brent, portraying a dashing daredevil, whose mental attitude toward life has been warped by a terrific airplane accident in which his parents and his sister are all killed, and he escaped, considers himself the same as a "dead" man, and rushes from one mad escapade to another, trying but unable to forget. He is always saved from the consequences of his rash acts by his friend, a part played by Warren William, who stands by him like the Rock of Gibraltar.

State Fire Warden's Report

State Fire Marshal A. H. Averill has released a report showing a summary of insured fire losses reported for the various counties of the state for the year ending December 31, 1932. This report shows 4283 fire for the period as compared with 4620 fires for the same period in 1933. The actual loss sustained was $2,402,008 as compared with $2,713,360 for the same period in 1933. The losses paid by insurance amounted to $2,067,733 as compared with $2,266,275 for the same period in 1933. The report shows that 22 deaths resulted from fires during the period as compared with 22 deaths for the same period in 1933, while 180 persons were injured from fires as compared with 173 for the previous year.

3 Die in North Bend Fire

An early morning fire in a second floor rooming house on Sherman avenue in North Bend, Tuesday, took the lives of three people. It has been many, many years since as much of a holocaust occurred in Coos county, if it ever did before.

The dead are Merle Sherrai, taxi driver, his 14 months old baby, Merlyn, and his stepson, Richard Marks, aged 8.

Sherrai and the boy were suffocated and not seriously burned, but the baby was.

The fire is supposed to have started from a lighted cigarette which Sherrai may have dropped on the davenport.

Mrs. Sherrai had gone to Marshfield and Warren Fosmore, who had left Sherrai about two o'clock, said there was no indication of fire there at that hour.

The alarm was sounded at three o'clock, by another lodger in the rooming house.

The fire department stopped the blaze before it had spread to other buildings or broken through downstairs. The damage is estimated at 5,000.

Workman Killed at Port Orford

Nicholas Matich, 39, of Portland, an employee of the Hauser Construction company for the past 15 years, was killed at Port Orford at about ten o'clock Monday morning. He was employed on the harbor construction work. Following a blast he was engaged in prying loose material from the surface of a large beach rock when a rock some distance above him broke away and rolled directly in his path. It struck him on the head crushing his skull. He fell some 40 feet to the road beneath and was struck by several larger boulders. Death was almost instantaneous. The body was prepared for shipment to Portland by the Schroeder Bros. Mortuary of Bandon. Matich was born in Smiljan, Austria.—Western World.

Calling cards, 50 for $1.00.
